Board Of Education Holds Up Pay Hikes

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday froze employe salaries at the 1970-71 level and directed school administrators to put funds tabbed for wage increases into "an appropriately titled account."

The action at the board's regular meeting puts the school district in strict compliance with President Nixon's 90-day freeze on wages and prices.

Associate Supt. Robert Den Hartog said after the meeting he estimated the district will "save" about $230,000 in general fund expenditures, assuming the freeze is lifted on Nov. 12.

Den Hartog said the $230,000 was a "rough estimate". A precise calculation, he said, will have to await a study of the situation of every employe.

No Lowering Of Levy

School board members decided not to investigate the possibility of lowering the local property tax levy to reflect the savings, because of possible legislative or court action in the future.

The National Education Association has pledged to go to court if necessary to attempt to secure for teachers raises negotiated before the freeze went into effect.

"I think it is owed to teachers," Lincoln Education Association Executive Secretary Ely Feistner told the board.

"That money has been committed to teachers," agreed board member John Lux, "whether it's postponed six months or a year."

Supt. John Prasch told board members he believes the freeze will call for difficult decisions in the days ahead.

He noted that granting the increase after the freeze is lifted "would accelerate pay later on," pegging wages at levels even higher than those negotiated last spring.

On the other hand, he said, teachers are at "somewhat of a disadvantage as seasonal employes of the public."

"We should guard against using it in (the regular) budget," he said, pending settlement of questions related to the freeze.

Prasch's recommendations on the freeze, which were adopted by the board, call for holding all employes at their Aug. 14 pay level until Nov. 12 or to the end of the freeze.

New employes will be paid at the old rates and fringe benefits will also remain unchanged.

Last Year's Rates

Employes who have changed jobs within the district will be paid last year's rates for the new position, while those who have completed educational requirements which boost pay will get the increase, but also at last year's rates.

"It is assumed that all wages are paid to public school employes at a daily rate," the recommendations said.

The board's action also established a committee including representatives of all employe groups to "help insure uniform application" of the procedure for the wage freeze.

The action will affect all employes of the district, including teachers, administrators, clerical and maintenance workers and others.

Most of those groups had won wage and fringe benefit increases that averaged about 6%.

HANRAHAN IS INDICTED

'Obstructed' Justice After Panther Raid

. . . GRAND JURY CHARGES

Chicago (AP) — State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan, a political protege of Mayor Richard J. Daley, was charged by a special Cook County — Chicago — grand jury Tuesday with conspiring to obstruct justice in the aftermath of a police raid in which two Black Panthers were shot to death.

Supt. James B. Conlisk of the Chicago police force was named as a coconspirator but was not indicted. Richard Jalovec, an assistant to Hanrahan, and 12 policemen involved in the raid were indicted with Hanrahan.

The charge of obstructing justice may be prosecuted either as a felony or misdemeanor.

Hanrahan told newsmen "I've said it before and I'll say it again. I've done nothing wrong and I wish a hearing at the earliest possible time."

Daley Refuses Comment

Daley refused to comment on whether he would continue support Hanrahan. "No one with any sense would answer that question today," he said.

Opening of the indictments by Judge Joseph A. Power of Circuit Court ended four months of controversy and legal snarls that began with reports in April that the special panel had voted to indict Hanrahan and the others.

The question of whether the indictments should be made public prior to an investigation as to whether prejudicial publicity had tainted the grand jury was resolved earlier Tuesday when the Illinois Supreme Court ordered Power to release the indictments.

The indictments specifically charge that the 14 defendants conspired to obstruct a criminal prosecution of eight policemen, also named in the indictment, who participated in the Dec. 4, 1969 raid at a West Side apartment in Chicago.

Killed in the raid were Fred Hampton, 21, Chicago, and Mark Clark, 22, Peoria. Seven Panther party members seized in the raid were charged with attempted murder. The charges later were dismissed.

The raid was carried out by a group of policemen, black and white, who are members of the Chicago police force and detailed to the state's attorney's office. Officials said they were informed a cache of weapons was stored in Hampton's apartment.

The 14 persons also were indicted for attempting to obstruct the defense of the seven Panthers by "unlawfully, willfully and knowingly destroying, altering concealing and disguising physical evidence, by planting false evidence and by furnishing false information."

The indictments listed 21 specific acts involving one or more of the defendants, including Hanrahan news conferences and allegedly inaccurate Chicago police laboratory reports, to support the charges.

The special grand jury was impaneled by Judge Power on Dec. 5. A Cook County coroner's inquest, a regular county grand jury and a federal grand jury previously investigated the incident, but no indictments were returned.

The controversy surrounding the special panel which began with the reported indictments in April was heightened when special prosecutor Barnabas F. Sears refused to comply with Judge Power's order to call before the special panel all those witnesses who had appeared before the federal grand jury.

The grand jury did not request that warrants be issued for arrest of those named or that bonds be set for any of the defendants.

Others named as unindicted coconspirators were Capt. Harry Ervanian of the Chicago police force; Earl Holt, an evidence technician, and James Meltreger and Sheldon M. Sorosky, assistant state's attorneys.

Policemen involved in the raid who were named in the indictment were Sgt. Daniel Groth, investigators Raymond Broderick, Edward Carmody, John Ciszewski, William T. Corbett, James Davis, Joseph Gorman and George Jones, Charles Koludrovic, mobile evidence technician; John Sadanas, Internal Affairs Division investigator; Sgt. John Meade, and John Mulchrone, former policy deputy superintendent.

WATER BALLOON DAMAGES AUTO

Mrs. Gordon Kvaale, of Fargo, N.D., holds her 1-month-old daughter, Alecia, as she stands beside the car she was riding in when a water balloon hit the windshield. The balloon, dropped from on overhead railroad bridge in Fargo, shattered the windshield and Alecia suffered a cut on the forehead. "I was afraid Alecia had glass in her eyes," Mrs. Kvaale said. Police are still investigating.

Story On Indians Upset Gordon Citizens

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of five stories on northwest Nebraska's "Indian Country.")

By LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

When Life Magazine in July carried a cover story dealing sympathetically with the plight of the American Indian, the article left Gordon residents a little upset. Now, in August, they're still talking about it.

The article never mentioned Nebraska or problems of Indians in the state's small communities. It did mention briefly difficulties between whites and Indians on the nearby Rosebud and Pine Ridge Reservations in South Dakota.

The story comes up often in conversation with Gordon people, who as one man put it, "were a little hurt that someone would imply Indians in this area are being abused."

MIKE SMITH

Doug Borman, who owns and operates a Chevrolet garage in Gordon, was one of the town's people who mentioned the article.

"You people who come out here from newspapers and magazines, you come here with a bleeding heart. You write stories about Indians being starved, jobless and homeless. Well, you're wrong. Don't feel sorry for the Indian, because the Indan doesn't feel sorry for himself."

Who Knows Best

Another Gordon man continues: "The problem is, journalists and welfare people and that kind, they come up here and spend a day or so and expect to know all about problems we live with every day. Now who do you think has a better idea of the real situation up here, them or us?"

Located 19 miles from the Pine Ridge Reservation, Gordon has a population of about 2,100. Of these, some 300 are Indian. According to Gordon people, no one ever writes the story of how the Indians simply defy white help.

Unemployment is one of the Indians' problems, one "they bring all on themselves," says Borman.

"They stand around downtown and want to work for two or three hours and then get paid at noon. So you pay them but they won't come back to work after lunch. Lots of people won't hire them because of that, and can you blame them?" Borman asks.

Borman says he's been trading with Indians since 1945. His garage showroom features a collection of 100 paintings by the late Sioux artist, Andrew Standing Soldier. The town's people generally agree he's a man who knows Indians.

Several factors have changed the Indian in recent decades, Borman said. One of them is white blood.

"When I first started dealing with them, many of the Indians were full-bloods. But through the years they've mixed with whites, usually a certain kind of white, not the best, and the blood of the offspring reflects that kind of union," he explained.

Liquor has also changed the Indian, he said.

"They live for today and the bottle helps them do that. All they think about is right now, they don't really care about having a nice place to live or nice things," he said.

Most of Gordon's Indian residents live in a section of the city called "Indian town." Many of the shacks there have no plumbing, or heating. Some are minus doors and windows.

"It's bad. You won't find worse rural slums in the South," says Sheridan County Atty. Mike Smith, a Gordon resident since he graduated from law school in 1966.

"But it's the perennial problem, the house gets run down, the landlord gets disgusted and refuses to make repairs and you end up having people live in houses without doors or plumbing. Who can you blame?"

The city will soon open a new 26-unit low-cost housing development. No one knows yet if or how many Indians will be offered a chance to rent the units. Local residents say they hope the development helps the Indian housing problem but fear Indian tenants will allow the units to become run-down.

Discrimination does not exist in Gordon, its residents say proudly, pointing to the fact that Indians can be served in any local bar or restaurant and even join the Gordon Golf and Country Club if they wish.

But a white woman who runs a bar in Gordon isn't so sure of herself, or of her town. She criticizes merchants "who will take an Indian's money but never ask his name."

Some of the town's Indian residents are also not convinced Gordon is free of discrimination. Virgil Charging Thunder, a Gordon man who last spring decided to take the city to court, is one of them.

ETV Board Wants Full Programming

. . . BUDGET REQUEST TO MIRROR WISH

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission Tuesday decided it should not be content with less than full programming, and it directed its staff to draft a 1972-73 budget request reflecting that wish.

At an afternoon meeting, the commission gave unanimous approval to a staff-recommended request of nearly $1.7 million plus whatever amount is needed to return to full programming in 1972-73.

State ETV Broadcasting has been cut back 13% this year, due to a decrease in operational funds for the current fiscal year.

$85,000 More

Network General Manager Jack McBride estimated the commission's directive would increase the 1972-73 asking figure by not more than 5% of the staff recommendation, or about $85,000 more.

Commission member John Prasch said the less-than-hoped-for appropriations for the current fiscal year were the result of "errors or misunderstanding" last year in talks with the State Department of Administrative Services.

And Commission Chairman Philip Heckman noted that the commission had made no decision reflecting concern for "over-programming."

"We are talking about commission philosophy," Heckman said, adding the commission has "to see what is necessary to maintain the operation" at the full programming goal assumed in past commission actions.

"We'd better put together the right statement," he said, "and fight to keep it."

The commission apparently took the staff by surprise when it balked at continuing the broadcast cutbacks into another year.

The staff, headed by McBride, had recommended the current budget of $1,355,619, plus some $336,908 in "mandatory additions" which McBride said could not be delayed.

Those additions included mostly equipment and maintenance costs which had been delayed or were not previously required, and building finance costs.

Exon Defied

McBride told the commission it could not hold to Gov. J. James Exon's guidelines to maintain requests at current appropriations levels, but he had not recommended a return to a full programming schedule.

The 1971-72 budget, though larger than the previous year's, could not support the previous level of operations and pay expenses related to construction of the state's new Telecommunications Building.

Commission members noted that programming opportunities are likely to continue to increase in the future, especially with the planned "TV high school" this fall and a University of Nebraska proposal for a freshman year by ETV.

So the commission okayed the staff recommendation of $1,692,527 plus whatever the staff determines will be necessary for full programming.

$1.8 Million Ceiling

McBride said work would begin immediately to increase the request, and he estimated it would hike the total to no more than about $1.8 million, most of which would be general fund appropriations.

He said he would put a summary of the new total into the mail by Monday for commission members to review before the request is forwarded to the governor's office in mid-September.

Heckman said he believed Tuesday's roll call vote, even though it did not specify an actual figure, would meet requirements for a public vote on such matters.

Color TV Mobile Unit

In tentative action on the 1973-74 request, the commission decided to add $160,000 to budget plans to help buy a color television mobile unit to replace the black-and-white unit in operation since 1966. That amount would be contingent on successful application for a grant of $480,000 from the federal government.

The commission generally accepted the governor's guidelines on increases for purchases and said it would continue the salary increase built into the request for '72-73. That plan would provide a 5% increase for professional employes, and $390 per position for clerical help.

The '73-74 agency guidelines must also be in the governor's hands by Sept. 15.

U.S. Forces In Vietnam Placed On Special Alert

Saigon (UPI) — The U.S Military Command placed all American troops in South Vietnam on a special yellow alert Tuesday night, putting them on standby for military activity and restricting off-duty soldiers to their bases because of mounting pre-election tensions.

A disabled South Vietnamese war veteran burned himself to death Tuesday in Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, to protest alleged rigging of forthcoming elections by President Nguyen Van Thieu. His was the second death by immolation over the election issue within the past eight days.

The yellow alert, used when major rioting or Viet Cong raids are anticipated, followed a gray alert that was in effect throughout the day Tuesday and simply restricted American troops to their bases when not on duty.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, issued the orders affecting 220,100 American servicemen and also extended it to the 63,200 troops from allied nations serving in South Vietnam.

Military spokesmen said the alerts were ordered to keep the movement of American and allied troops outside bases to a minimum during daylight hours and to keep them on combat ready alert at night.

The gray alert will continue during the day and the yellow alert at night at least through Sunday, when elections for the South Vietnamese national assembly are held, spokesmen said.

Presidential elections, in which Thieu currently is the only candidate, are scheduled for Oct. 3.

Prior to the issuance of special military alerts Tuesday, the U.S. Embassy and other nations' diplomatic missions here issued directives to their civilian personnel to stay off the street of Saigon and other cities after working hours until further notice.

The current political crisis, in which two other announced presidential candidates have withdrawn from the race and refused to run against Thieu, is considered the worst since the Buddhist uprisings of 1966.

The death by immolation Tuesday by Nguyen Minh Dang, 37, the father of six children, added to the tension.

Political observers have long felt that, if demonstrations do erupt in Saigon, the disabled veterans will be leading them.

The veterans have been bitter against Thieu for allegedly failing to provide them adequate jobs and housing after their years of serving the nation. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, who has refused to run for president against Thieu, has given the veterans a sympathetic ear over the years and they are loyal to him.

Ky and retired Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh both withdrew from the race during the weekend, accusing Thieu of rigging the elections. The government has denied the allegations.

$6.6 Million Can Be Spent On Highways

State Engineer Thomas Doyle announced Tuesday the federal government has given the green light to the awarding of contracts for $6.6 million worth of Nebraska highway projects.

The apparent low bidders were announced Aug. 19, but the Roads Department had noted that the final awarding of contracts would be delayed pending a check with the federal government on the possible impact of President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

"This means we can proceed to award contracts that were in question pending clarification of President Nixon's wage-price freeze order of Aug. 15," Doyle said.

The freeze, he said, does not apply to unit prices bid by contractors for highway construction projects, according to the Federal Highway Administration.

Doyle said the administration's go-ahead order was handed down late Tuesday.

However, he said, while contracts will be awarded for the Aug. 19 letting future awards may have to be reviewed.

"We may have to review future awards when definite guidelines are established by the federal government," he said, which could differ in some aspects from the preliminary guidelines.

ETV Board Wants Full Programming

. . . BUDGET REQUEST TO MIRROR WISH

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission Tuesday decided it should not be content with less than full programming, and it directed its staff to draft a 1972-73 budget request reflecting that wish.

At an afternoon meeting, the commission gave unanimous approval to a staff-recommended request of nearly $1.7 million plus whatever amount is needed to return to full programming in 1972-73.

State ETV Broadcasting has been cut back 13% this year, due to a decrease in operational funds for the current fiscal year.

$85,000 More

Network General Manager Jack McBride esitmated the commission's directive would increase the 1972-73 asking figure by not more than 5% of the staff recommendation, or about $85,000 more.

Commission member John Prasch said the less-than-hoped-for appropriations for the current fiscal year were the result of "errors or misunderstanding" last year in talks with the State Department of Administrative Services.

And Commission Chairman Philip Heckman noted that the commission had made no decision reflecting concern for "over-programming."

"We are talking about commission philosophy," Heckman said, adding the commission has "to see what is necessary to maintain the operation" at the full programming goal assumed in past commission actions.

"We'd better put together the right statement," he said, "and fight to keep it."

The commission apparently took the staff by surprise when it balked at continuing the broadcast cutbacks into another year.

The staff, headed by McBride, had recommended the current budget of $1,355,619, plus some $336,908 in "mandatory additions" which McBride said could not be delayed.

Those additions included mostly equipment and maintenance costs which had been delayed or were not previously required, and building finance costs.

Exon Defied

McBride told the commission it could not hold to Gov. J. James Exon's guidelines to maintain requests at current appropriations levels, but he had not recommended a return to a full programming schedule.

The 1971-72 budget, though larger than the previous year's, could not support the previous level of operations and pay expenses related to construction of the state's new Telecommunications Building.

Commission members noted that programming opportunities are likely to continue to increase in the future, especially with the planned "TV high school" this fall and a University of Nebraska proposal for a freshman year by ETV.

So the commission okayed the staff recommendation of $1,692,527 plus whatever the staff determines will be necessary for full programming.

$1.8 Million Ceiling

McBride said work would begin immediately to increase the request, and he estimated it would hike the total to no more than about $1.8 million, most of which would be general fund appropriations.

He said he would put a summary of the new total into the mail by Monday for commission members to review before the request is forwarded to the governor's office in mid-September.

Heckman said he believed Tuesday's roll call vote, even though it did not specify an actual figure, would meet requirements for a public vote on such matters.

Color TV Mobile Unit

In tentative action on the 1973-74 request, the commission decided to add $160,000 to budget plans to help buy a color television mobile unit to replace the black-and-white unit in operation since 1966. That amount would be contingent on successful application for a grant of $480,000 from the federal government.

The commission generally accepted the governor's guidelines on increases for purchases and said it would continue the salary increase built into the request for '72-73. That plan would provide a 5% increase for professional employes, and $300 per position for clerical help.

The '73-74 agency guidelines must also be in the governor's hands by Sept. 15.

Israel Criticizes U.S. Position

By United Press International

Israel, in a rare public attack on its staunchest ally, criticized the United States Tuesday for creating what it said was an erroneous impression of official Israeli policy in the Middle East.

At the time, the rifts in the Arab world were underscored by King Hussein who said the situation was "very bad" and another war soon with Israel could lead only to "greater losses and catastrophe" for the Arabs.

In New York, the United Nations released a report from its Suez Canal truce observers charging that two Israeli jet fighter-bombers crossed the waterway marking the Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire line twice last Sunday. No ground activity was reported on either side, however.

As Israeli foreign ministry spokesman, in a statement distributed by the government press office, criticized the U.S. State Department's comments on last week's speech by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and on a statement issued at a meeting in Damascus of the leaders of Egypt, Syria and Libya.

World News

"We regretfully have to point out that these (Dayan's) statements do not create the proper impression," the spokesman said. "Israel's position is known to all, and that includes the United States."

Dayan told senior military officers last Thursday that Israel should take "unilateral and immediate" measures to make itself the "established government" in the occupied Arab territories. Prime Minister Golda Meir and other Israeli ministers disassociated themselves from Dayan's remarks and on Saturday the defense minister said he was not suggesting annexation of the Arab lands.

State Department spokesman Robert McCloskey, commenting on Dayan's speech Friday said it was "harmful" to prospects for peace in the Middle East. On Monday, commenting on the declaration issued at the end of the Arab summit meeting in Damascus, McCloskey said attempts at federation of the Arab states would meet with acceptance in the United States if they were "a genuine reflection of the public will."

The Israeli Foreign Ministry statement made clear Israel's irritation over both statements by McCloskey.

It said Dayan's remarks "were in the nature of an assessment of the situation and an expression of opinion, and were not intended to alter the decisions of the government, as those decisions have been formulated and adopted."

"The Damascus statement, on the other hand, constitutes an official declaration on the part of the three Arab presidents of approval for the constitution of the proposed federation," the statement continued.

"The Damascus declaration announces specific political principles and aims of the federation, and therefore much gravity must be attached to its emphasis on there being no peace or negotiations with Israel."

It said Dayan had explained his position in a radio broadcast and that Foreign Minister Abba Eban also had made clear at Sunday's cabinet meeting that there had been no change in Israel's policy on the Arab territories.

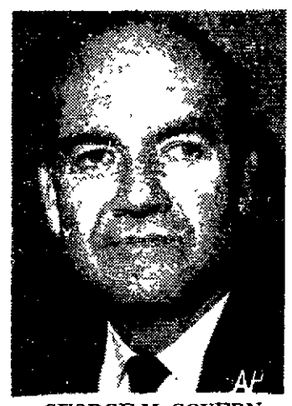

"The State Department for some reason ignores these clarifications," the statement said.

Hussein's warning, in an interview with the Beirut newspaper Al Nahar, appeared directed mainly at Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Sadat has repeatedly pledged that the Arab-Israeli dispute will be settled in 1971, either by peace or by war.

Hussein said the situation was "very bad" in the Arab world, that "weakness and disintegration threaten the worst consequences."

He admitted diplomatic and economic sanctions by other Arab states following his military crackdown on the Palestinian guerrillas are having an effect on Jordan but vowed they "will not . . . make us change our policy."

The U.N. report said observers on both sides of the canal observed two Israeli warplanes — a U.S.-made Phantom and a French-built Mirage—crossed the canal twice early Sunday. There was no report of any such intrusions from Egypt and the Israelies have never admitted any violations of the cease-fire initiated by the United States in August, 1970.

GEORGE McGOVERN

McGovern Drops War For Economy

Washington (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said Tuesday he is dropping the Vietnam war as his main campaign issue in favor of the economy.

In a major shift in strategy, the Democratic presidential contender — known principally for his outspoken opposition to the war — told a group of financial writers "I expect to say very little about Indochina in the next year."

"I will have very little public comment on the war from here on out," he said.

McGovern said he had "come to the conclusion that the economic issues will most likely be the ones on which the 1972 election will turn."

Commerce Secretary Stans Say Further Controls Will Be Needed

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans said Tuesday he favors some type of control system on wages and prices after expiration of the 90-day freeze period put into effect by President Nixon.

His statement was similar to one made earlier by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

Stans told newsmen that 11 of the nation's top business leaders are willing to accept wage and price controls after the freeze is over and oppose going back to the pre-freeze status quo.

"I agree that some type of control system is needed after the termination of 90 days, but I'm not prepared to say what that will be," Stans said at a news conference.

Asked if that would include mandatory controls, Stans said, "Yes." He said the businessmen feel that any wage-price stabilization plan should fall between the two extremes of doing nothing or instituting permanent wage and price controls along the line of those that existed during World War II.

Stans said, however, he is not in a position to say what form of mandatory control system will result after the 90-day freeze expires Nov. 12. He said that is up to the Cost of Living Council, of which he is a member.

Stans called in the 11 business leaders to discuss the impact of the wage-price freeze on industry and to hear their recommendations for an anti-inflation system that should be established after the freeze is over.

"They all want to be sure that the program does not terminate on Nov. 12," the secretary said. He said such termination would undo all the progress that will have been made against inflation.

"They (the businessmen) feel uniformly there must be a second stage and that there must be a free market" after some period of time, the secretary said.

Stans said the businessmen told him that all of them will suffer from the wage-price freeze in the form of lower profits.

He said a charge that the freeze order "is a bonanza for business is completely false."

Stans termed a "political prevarication" accusations that Nixon's new economic policies, including a 10% investment tax credit and repeal of the excise tax on automobiles, represent a bonanza to business.

Attending the session were William M. Batten, chairman, J. C. Penney Co., Inc.; Eugene N. Beesley, chairman of Eli Lilly & Co.; Fred J. Borch, chairman of General Electric Co.; Edwin H. California Announces Plans For Prison System Review

San Quentin, Calif. (UPI) — The State of California announced a sweeping review and revision of practices in its huge prison system Tuesday, including censoring "revolutionary" literature, restricting visitors and limiting the activities of dangerous inmates.

"For guys who are no problem, the great majority of inmates, life is going to be no different," said a State Corrections Department spokesman.

But for dangerous prisoners, including the small but growing core of prison revolutionaries, he said, security will be tightened, visitors will be more closely screened, and activities restricted.

The changes came in the wake of a bloody escape attempt at San Quentin Saturday in which six persons were killed, including black revolutionary and "Soledad Brother" George Jackson.

The new procedures will apply to 12 prisons and 21,500 inmates in the state.

The two surviving "Soledad Brothers," accused along with Jackson of killing a guard at Soledad State Prison last year, showed up for a chaotic, shouting court hearing on the Soledad case in San Francisco.

After two hours of disorder and confusion during which police tactical squad officers were called in to restore order, the presiding judge was disqualified because he was a former prosecuting attorney but a contempt motion asked by the defense against San Quetin authorities was turned down.

The defense attorneys also tried to file a hand-written petition from the surviving 26 members of San Quentin's "adjustment center" where Saturday's deaths occurred, calling the killing of Jackson "murder" and accusing guards of wholesale brutality.

The signers included the surviving Soledad defendants, Fleeta Drumgo and John Cluchette, and the author was Ruchell Magee, charged along with Angela Davis in last year's escape attempt and shootout at the Marin County Courthouse in which a judge and three others were killed.

From the Marin County Jail, Miss Davis issued a statement eulogizing Jackson as a "fallen black leader" murdered by fascist bullets."

"An enemy bullet has once more brought grief and sadness to black people and to all who oppose racism and injustice," she said.

The Corrections Department said other prison changes will involve more guards in dangerous areas, visiting screens between inmates and visitors, and a ban on tape recorders. San Quentin officials have said they believe the gun Jackson used was smuggled in in a tape recorder.

The spokesman said underground newspapers and literature "supporting violent-type confrontations and using extreme-type rhetoric" also will be censored, even if the state has to defend the practice in court.

"For guys who have short fuses, the tolerance level for that kind of rhetoric and distortion is a hell of a lot lower than it is in the free world," he said.

The Saturday incident, the worst in San Quentin's 119-year history, led to the deaths of Jackson, two other convicts and three guards. Jackson was shot down in the prison yard, prison officials said, after using a smuggled gun to release other prisoners in the adjustment center.

Dollar Shows A Slight Weakening

©The New York Times

London — The dollar weakened slightly Tuesday as it floated against major European currencies in continued calm foreign exchange trading.

But dealers noted that the rates of dollar appreciation — ranging from about 1½% against the Italian lira to a little over 7% against the West German deutschemark — were still a long way from the 12 to 15% that the Nixon administration reportedly seeks.

With banks, corporations and traders already low on dollars and well supplied with stronger currencies, dealers saw little prospect of any early heavy sales of dollars, which would drive the dollar rate further down.

Against the Japanese yen, the pivotal currency in the international monetary tangle, the dollar has depreciated against that highly competitive fixed rate only by the margin of up to 1% permitted by the international monetary rules.

Furthermore, the Japanese cabinet's new council of economic ministers announced Tuesday that it would maintain the fixed rate of 360 yen to the dollar at least until the meeting of world economic powers known as the Group of Ten, proposed for Sept. 15.

"We're becalmed on dead center," one British financial expert said. "It'll take a while to work things out."

Meanwhile, in Bonn, the West German economics minister Karl Schiller rejected some purported suggestions for parity changes from the International Monetary Fund as "a one-sided hypothesis, completely unrealistic and an unreal basis for discussion," according to news agency dispatches.

Commerce Secretary Stans Says Further Controls Will Be Needed

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans said Tuesday he favors some type of control system on wages and prices after expiration of the 90-day freeze period put into effect by President Nixon.

His statement was similar to one made earlier by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

Stans told newsmen that 11 of the nation's top business leaders are willing to accept wage and price controls after the freeze is over and oppose going back to the pre-freeze status quo.

"I agree that some type of control system is needed after the termination of 90 days, but I'm not prepared to say what that will be," Stans said at a news conference.

Labor Bargaining To Be Continued On Dock Strike

San Francisco (UPI) — Negotiations aimed at ending the longshoremen's strike which has tied up west coast shipping for nearly eight weeks, will resume Wednesday.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and the Pacific Maritime Association, in a joint announcement, said the talks would resume at 10 a.m. and be on "all items" except local issues.

The chief roadblock in the strike was a demand by the ILWU that its members have jurisdiction over loading and unloading shipping containers on areas near the docks.

California Announces Plans For Prison System Review

San Quentin, Calif. (UPI) — The State of California announced a sweeping review and revision of practices in its huge prison system Tuesday, including censoring "revolutionary" literature, restricting visitors and limiting the activities of dangerous inmates.

"For guys who are no problem, the great majority of inmates, life is going to be no different," said a State Corrections Department spokesman.

But for dangerous prisoners, including the small but growing core of prison revolutionaries, he said, security will be tightened, visitors will be more closely screened, and activities restricted.

The changes came in the wake of a bloody escape attempt at San Quentin Saturday in which six persons were killed, including black revolutionary and "Soledad Brother" George Jackson.

The new procedures will apply to 12 prisons and 21,500 inmates in the state.

The two surviving "Soledad Brothers," accused along with Jackson of killing a guard at Soledad State Prison last year, showed up for a chaotic, shouting court hearing on the Soledad case in San Francisco.

After two hours of disorder and confusion during which police tactical squad officers were called in to restore order, the presiding judge was disqualified because he was a former prosecuting attorney but a contempt motion asked by the defense against San Quetin authorities was turned down.

The defense attorneys also tried to file a hand-written petition from the surviving 26 members of San Quentin's "adjustment center'' where Saturday's deaths occurred, calling the killing of Jackson "murder" and accusing guards of wholesale brutality.

The signers included the surviving Soledad defendants, Fleeta Drumgo and John Cluchette, and the author was Ruchell Magee, charged along with Angela Davis in last year's escape attempt and shootout at the Marin County Courthouse in which a judge and three others were killed.

From the Marin County Jail, Miss Davis issued a statement eulogizing Jackson as a "fallen black leader" murdered by fascist bullets."

"An enemy bullet has once more brought grief and sadness to black people and to all who oppose racism and injustice," she said.

The Corrections Department said other prison changes will involve more guards in dangerous areas, visiting screens between inmates and visitors, and a ban on tape recorders. San Quentin officials have said they believe the gun Jackson used was smuggled in in a tape recorder.

The spokesman said underground newspapers and literature "supporting violent-type confrontations and using extreme-type rhetoric" also will be censored, even if the state has to defend the practice in court.

"For guys who have short fuses, the tolerance level for that kind of rhetoric and distortion is a hell of a lot lower than it is in the free world," he said.

The Saturday incident, the worst in San Quentin's 119-year history, led to the deaths of Jackson, two other convicts and three guards. Jackson was shot down in the prison yard, prison officials said, after using a smuggled gun to release other prisoners in the adjustment center.

Dollar Shows A Slight Weakening

©The New York Times

London — The dollar weakened slightly Tuesday as it floated against major European currencies in continued calm foreign exchange trading.

But dealers noted that the rates of dollar appreciation — ranging from about 1½% against the Italian lira to a little over 7% against the West German deutschemark — were still a long way from the 12 to 15% that the Nixon administration reportedly seeks.

With banks, corporations and traders already low on dollars and well supplied with stronger currencies, dealers saw little prospect of any early heavy sales of dollars, which would drive the dollar rate further down.

Against the Japanese yen, the pivotal currency in the international monetary tangle, the dollar has depreciated against that highly competitive fixed rate only by the margin of up to 1% permitted by the international monetary rules.

Furthermore, the Japanese cabinet's new council of economic ministers announced Tuesday that it would maintain the fixed rate of 360 yen to the dollar at least until the meeting of world economic powers known as the Group of Ten, proposed for Sept. 15.

"We're becalmed on dead center," one British financial expert said. "It'll take a while to work things out."

Meanwhile, in Bonn, the West German economics minister Karl Schiller rejected some purported suggestions for parity changes from the International Monetary Fund as "a one-sided hypothesis, completely unrealistic and an unreal basis for discussion," according to news agency dispatches.

Serving with Dignity, Economy and Understanding

Save 10¢. And let your taste settle the salad dressing question, once and for all.

You could wrap it, ribbon it, serve it in solid gold. But, in salad dressing, it's flavor that counts. And you just can't get the uncopyable flavor of Miracle Whip Salad Dressing with anything but Miracle Whip. Once you compare it with some of the "me-too" dressings that keep cropping up, there's no question: no matter how hard they try, they just can't match the famous flavor of Miracle Whip. Its special blend of fresh-ground spices is a secret that is Kraft's alone. And that's why only Miracle Whip makes a sandwich, a salad, seafood or cold cuts taste so fresh and lively. And why Miracle Whip is America's favorite salad dressing.

College Board Works On Finalizing Budget

. . . Trustees Recess Until Saturday Meet At Wayne

Chadron (AP) — The State College Board of Trustees wound up a two-day session at Chadron State College Tuesday by recessing until Saturday when the board will meet again at Wayne State College in hopes of finalizing 1972-73 budget requests for presentation to the governor's office by Sept. 15.

No figures on the preliminary budget requests were released.

A spokesman said the board considered requests from Kearney, Peru and Chadron State colleges before recessing. The Wayne request will be discussed Saturday.

In other business during the two day session, the board authorized its Lincoln office to present a request to the executive board of the Legislative Council for an appearance to discuss damage to the Chadron State student union which has structural damage due to subsoil conditions.

State capitol buildings and grounds Supt. Clyde Short and Rapid City, S.D., architect Robert Gay met with the board to discuss possible solutions.

The board referred to committee a request by a Kearney State faculty member for clarification of the policy regarding employment of persons from the same family. Present board policy permits such employment, but calls for such practices to be kept to a minimum.

Also referred to committee was the subject of retirement benefits for one-year faculty members. Peru and Chadron currently provide such benefits, while Kearney and Wayne do not.

Four bids for comprehensive liability insurance for the four colleges, which would cost about $13,000 to $14,000 per year, were referred to legal counsel for interpretation.

The board also received a recommendation from trustee Robert Walker of Kearney that not more than $20,000 in each of the 28 or 29 revenue bond accounts handled by a special trustee be placed in savings accounts.

Money in the accounts comes from student fees for dormitories and dining facilities. Walker recommended that amounts above $20,000 be invested in direct government obligation bonds.

Kearney State President Dr. Milton J. Hassel was directed to investigate possible uses by the college of the state tuberculosis hospital.

Northern Natural Gas Co. also submitted a proposal to provide heating services at Kearney State, similar to the program now in use at Wayne. The proposal was referred to the Buildings and Grounds Committee for review.

Without taking formal action, the board members expressed a desire that the four colleges observe the wage price guidelines recently imposed by President Nixon, a spokesman said.

Herb Fricke, a professional rodeo cowboy from Gretna, Neb., is "hung up" in the rope that is wound around his fist as he tried to ride a crossbred Brahma bull at the Iowa State Fair's rodeo action Tuesday at Des Moines. This is the one thing professional bull riders fear most, because of the danger of being stepped on by an 1,800-pound animal while they are being whipped about. The bull rider's only recourse is to wait until he shakes his hand free, or a rodeo clown rescues him.

Pair May Be Questioned In Death

Gering (AP) — Nebraska authorities were expected to question two Texas men being held at the Goshen County Jail at Torrington, Wyo., in connection with the fatal shooting of a Nebraska man during the weekend.

The men were picked up south of Lyman, Neb., Sunday and held on suspicion of assualt resulting from a complaint from a farmer near Lyman.

The men were identified by sheriff's officers as Regugio Andaverde Jr., 25, and Guadalupe Ybarra, 30, both of Harlingen, Tex.

A third man, who identified himself as Homar Olivarez, 20, of Harlington, also was arrested. He has been moved to jail in Cheyenne under a federal complaint of interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle.

Sheriff's officer said the men were driving a vehicle reported stolen from R. E. Edwards of Lyman.

Sheriff Jim Miller at Gering, said he wants to question the men about the death of Patrick Vostados, 40, whose body was found on a county road five miles south of Stegall, Neb.

Miller said the trio arrested at a line shack just across the Wyoming-Nebraska border, had a 38 caliber pistol and a .22 caliber rifle with them. Miller said Vostadoes was shot with a .38 caliber weapon.

Three other men held in the case were released earlier due to lack of evidence

Ground Rules Will Be Asked For GOP Primary Activities

Omaha (AP) — State GOP Chairman Milan Bish said the State Central Committee will be asked to establish ground rules for party activities in primaries at the group's meeting Saturday in Omaha.

The committee will meet for a one-day session.

Bish said a subcommittee headed by Thomas Bradley of Hastings is preparing a report on the party activities in primaries.

Bish said he favors neutrality particularly in the area of finances.

The party primary involvement became a major issue in the 1970 primary for the governorship.

Also scheduled for consideration is the method of selecting delegates and alternates to the national presidential nominating convenion next year.

Bish will outline plans for implementing a political management system developed by the national leadership. The plan, called Mission "70's", according to Bish "makes available the tools of business management" to politics, defining responsibilities and standards of performance of workers on all levels.

The co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, Mrs. Anne Armstrong, will be a participant in the sessions and will address a luncheon.

Marijuana Case Before Supreme Court Sept. 20

Nebraska News

Fremont (AP) — Dodge County Attorney Gordon Gobel said Tuesday the Nebraska Supreme Court will hear oral arguments Sept. 20 on his appeal from a District Court dismissal of a marijuana case on the grounds possession is not a crime in Nebraska.

District Judge Robert L. Flory dismissed charges against three women found drying marijuana in a coin operated laundry, upholding the contention of their attorney, Ray C. Simmons that neither LB326, the 1971 law under which they were charged, nor any other state law, makes simple possession of marijuana a crime.

Gobel appealed, contending it was the intent of the legislature to make possession of a crime and an over-technical district court interpretation defeated the intent of the legislature.

Simmons filed a reply restating his contentions.

The state attorney general's office has asked permission of the court to file a brief and Gobel said he will await the court's decision on this application before deciding whether to answer Simmons' brief.

Police said that on July 11 they found Roseanne Van Dyke and Joyce Ann Lawrence, both 21, of Jackson, Tenn., and Nancy Woolry, 16, of Midwest City, Tex., in a coin operated laundry a half block from the police station drying some 50 pounds of marijuana in four clothes dryers.

Judge Flory dismissed the possession charge against them and Gobel sought a writ of error.

Three other men held in the case were released earlier due to lack of evidence.

Ground Rules Will Be Asked For GOP Primary Activities

Omaha (AP) — State GOP Chairman Milan Bish said the State Central Committee will be asked to establish ground rules for party activities in primaries at the group's meeting Saturday in Omaha.

The committee will meet for a one-day session.

Bish said a subcommittee headed by Thomas Bradley of Hastings is preparing a report on the party activities in primaries.

Bish said he favors neutrality particularly in the area of finances.

The party primary involvement became a major issue in the 1970 primary for the governorship.

Also scheduled for consideration is the method of selecting delegates and alternates to the national presidential nominating convenion next year.

Bish will outline plans for implementing a political management system developed by the national leadership. The plan, called Mission "70's", according to Bish "makes available the tools of business management" to politics, defining responsibilities and standards of performance of workers on all levels.

The co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, Mrs. Anne Armstrong, will be a participant in the sessions and will address a luncheon.

Omaha Council Decreases Tax Asked By Leahy

Omaha (AP)—The Omaha City Council lowered the city property tax by 1.5 mills from what had been originally requested by Mayor Leahy.

The measure passed on a 5-1 vote, the same vote needed to override a veto by the mayor.

Omahans however had their overall levy increased after including other taxes. Under the new levy, an owner of a $20,000 home will have to pay $644.65 in property taxes, an increase of $15.61 over the current year.

The council also passed an ordinance that will allow Omaha to have self-service gasoline stations

Auto-Truck Crash Claims Third Victim

Omaha (AP) — A car-truck collision near Louisville last Friday has claimed its third victim, 5-year-old Jennifer Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Mason of Louisville.

Jennifer died in an Omaha hospital Monday of injuries suffered when a car driven by her grandmother, Mrs. Lettie Mason, 64, of Louisville, was in collision with a pickup truck.

Killed were Lettie Stohlmann, 72, and Bonnie Renner, 54. Both were of Louisville and were passengers in the Mason car.

Mrs. Lettie Mason was reported in serious condition Tuesday.

The truck driver, Robert Week, 36, of Omaha, has been released from the hospital.

The girl's death brings the 1971 highway death toll in Nebraska to 275 compared with 266 on this date a year ago.

Omaha School Workers' Pay Hikes Frozen

Omaha (AP) — The 3,800 employes of the Omaha School District won't receive any pay raises until after President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze ends.

The school district and the Omaha Education Association issued a joint statement saying they agreed that the effect of the presidential order is to freeze all school district salaries at the 1970-71 levels.

Supt. Owen Knutzen said it is not known whether the freeze will last the full 90 days and "no final conclusions should be reached until the regulations relating to education are issued by the Cost of Living Council."

The superintendent says all employes, "from cafeteria workers up" will be affected. He also said school fees, such as locker and activity fees, will be frozen.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Was Councilman Merle Hale right or wrong in his surprise move to limit the 1971-72 fiscal year mill levy to the 26.19 figure of the year now ending? For the coming years, the levy will go to 27.12 mills, thanks to a three-to-three vote which killed the Hale freeze proposal in the council.

In our mind, he was wrong, although we are in no way critical of him for his action. He based his position on the wage, price and rent freeze now in effect by order of President Nixon, seeing a mill levy freeze as complementary to the President's program.

There's is some logic to his thinking but the levy and Nixon freeze is for 90 days and if it ends at that time, there would be no opportunity for the city to then make any increase in its budget. The city budget has to be adopted for the new year by this coming Friday.

Secondly, city spending is not the same as wages, rents, and prices. American people and industry are not prohibited in any way from spending; they simply cannot increase prices or take a wage increase.

They can, however, spend all they want and the American people are expected to do just that. The wage freeze may hold some people back but the price freeze is expected to loosen a lot of pocketbooks that have been tightly shut for some time now.

Thus, we just don't view the wage, rent and price freeze in the same light as a freeze on local government spending. Certainly, there is an indirect relationship between the two, found in the area of inflation, but the Nixon idea is to stop inflation by stabilizing the value of the dollar, not by saving it up.

How would such a local levy freeze stack up from the point of view of good government? For the answer to this, you have to look at where the cuts in city spending would be made from the point where the budget now stands at its higher mill levy figure.

Most likely, the budget cuts in event of a levy freeze would be heaviest in the area of capital improvements. This means programs, equipment, facilities, etc., that are in addition to those in existence in 1970-71.

As examples, there is a new $105,000 fire station planned for the West O area, several new pieces of snow removal equipment will be purchased, three new inspectors will be added to the housing office and $723,000 in park improvements would be made. Throughout the budget would be found other smaller capital expenditures that will be made under the budget as it now stands and will apparently be approved by the council on Friday. If approval is not forthcoming, of course, the city would quickly be out of money and unable to pay its bills, including salaries.

The question is whether the city would want to cut such improvements as are planned and-or make other deletions in the budget. Cuts would be made in personnel and some things that are being done under past capital improvements could be eliminated, but any or all of this would mean a drop in city services.

We again suggest that there is not in the city budget the quarter of a million dollars of fat that, if cut, could bring the new levy down to the level of the old one. There just is not $325,000 in inefficiency in the new budget.

We must remember, too, that even though a lot of new and ongoing improvements are not a part of the tax-supported budget, they still must be paid for out of property tax revenue. These are things such as storm sewers and swimming pools which are paid for by revenue from bond issues.

The bond issue payments are not included in the limited general fund budget but are in the total property-tax-supported budget. The tax levy for past bond issue cannot be changed because the city is legally liable to pay off the bonds as agreed to at the time of their issuance.

Thus, nothing can be done now about the tax for such bonds but in many cases, it is a part of our property tax load. We understand Councilman Hale's concern with the burden of taxation in general and the current state of the economy but his solution is one that would seriously damage city progress and can be defended only with considerable difficulty.

HELEN B. SHAFFER
Paradise Of Commune Life Proving Less Than Utopian

WASHINGTON — The search for paradise on a communal farm is coming up against some unexpected problems, grounded in human nature. The founders of these rustic utopias are mainly young, city-bred Americans, "middle-class freaks" in their own language. The physical privations of pioneer living they can take. But the problems inside of themselves are something else again. For they have found communal togetherness to be not as easily achieved as they had thought. And like the nuclear family from which they escaped, the communal family gets badly shaken up when funds run short.

"We made it through last winter believing somehow that Paradise would unfold around us with the green leaves," a member of Rainbow Farm in Vermont wrote in a letter to RAMPARTS. "We were wrong." The trouble was two-fold: "worrying about the bills and the problems we have with each other." There were hassles over "sex roles in work, competence and incompetence," and problems due to being "alternately lazy and compulsive, over-achieving and bored."

A contributor to a newsletter from Twin Oaks in Louisa County, Virginia, confessed: "Living in a small community has, for many of us, stifled or made us pessimistic concerning our original utopian dream . . . We believe in equality, yet we are unable to face the staggering implications of total and real social equality." Twin Oaks is attempting to prove that by applying the principles of behavioral conditioning, as set forth in B. F. Skinner's novel, "Walden II," people can be freed of the negative emotions that lead to dissension and unhappiness. Four years after its founding, however, its main goal remains elusive.

* * *

Where does the fault lie for the difficulty in living by the ideals of the share-and-share-alike communities? Some of the communards blame society, arguing that they were conditioned for the rat-race, not for harmonious living in communal utopias. "We are still the unfortunate victims of a sick society," wrote the Twin Oak correspondent. "We are not just children of capitalism but its prisoners," wrote a Rainbow Farmer. ". . . It seems we've re-created what we hated in the society we came from."

* * *

Privacy is another thing the latter-day communards are finding it hard to give up. Some are discovering what Skinner indicated in "Walden II"—that in a world of togetherness, the greatest treasure may be a room of your own. Even the married couples in Skinner's utopia have private rooms if they wish. A great debate is now going on at Twin Oaks on whether to expand facilities in order to accommodate more members or to give the present membership more private rooms.

The mortality rate of the rural communes is high. Many come and many go. In Virginia alone, it was reported recently, 11 were founded in the past three years, but only six remain.

Agreement Encouraging

The isolation of West Berliners and the question of the political status of the former German capital have brought the U.S. and the Soviet Union closer to a nuclear face-down than any other issues since the end of World War II with the exception of the Cuban missile crisis.

It is encouraging, then, especially since signs point to an increase in East-West tension across the rest of Europe, that the Big Four which have ruled occupied and divided Berlin—Great Britain, France, the U.S.S.R. and the United States—have agreed to agree on means of solving access and political problems that have plagued Berliners throughout the occupation.

The draft agreement which is almost certain to be formally approved by the four governments will facilitate freer access to and from West Berlin, which is located inside East German territory, permit passage through the wall into East Berlin for West Berliners, allow conditional West German political presence in West Berlin — a compromise on an issue that is a sore point to the Soviets and the East Germans — and provide for Soviet diplomatic representation on the consulate-general level in West Berlin.

Unfortunately, it does not allow for the same degree of freedom of movement for the East Berliners as it accords the residents of West Berlin. But it is a start. Details of implementing the agreement will have to be hammered out by representatives of the two Germanys now that the proposal has been roughed out by the Big Four ambassadors. All four reportedly view the agreement as mutually beneficial.

The easing of tension over the Berlin question might have resulted from West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's espousal of accommodation with Eastern Europe. Brandt's new foreign policy logically could have led the way to the four-power change in heart.

As encouraging as is the present situation, there is still the question of a reunited Germany—a question still weighing heavily in the minds of many Germans—whether it is politically realistic or not—and the potential for trouble in the Soviet master plan for Eastern Europe, which could give the Yugoslavs and Romanians a taste of what the Hungarians, Poles and Czechs experienced.

Auction Ends State Career

Declared surplus by the state after legislators decided that $3,900 was too high an annual price tag on feeding, keeping and transporting them, the oxen used to promote the Cornhusker State were put up for auction by the Roads Department. For the animals, the story turned out somewhat better than it might have.

Neb I and Raska I, the elder pair, found a permanent home in show business with Monty Montana Jr. of the Buffalo Bill Cody Wild West Show. Montana also purchased additional surplus equipment, a conestoga wagon and a yoke. Neb II and Raska II, the back-up pair, will go to work in Omaha, at the Henry Doorly Zoo.

And if state senators didn't think they were exactly headliners, Neb I and Raska I might get the last laugh. Montana said the oxen might make nationwide television. The Wild West Show will be featured on the Merv Griffin Show at CBS Television City in California next month and the state's old promoters, along with other livestock, will be on call.

The sale of the two pair of oxen enriched the state's general fund by a little over $1,600 and there is something a little said about them going for that price — not that Neb and Raska as oxen flesh were worth more than that. But it is indicative of Nebraska's promotional efforts.

The legislature thinks that $3,900 is too much to pay for support of two living reminders of Nebraska's pioneer heritage. Maybe more enduring symbols of the past can be adopted. But we imagine that the thought of any further effort along those lines was left at the auction block.

TOM WICKER
George Jackson's Death At San Quentin Tragic Reason For Seeking Out The Truth

WASHINGTON — To many Americans, white and black, it will seem unlikely that the San Quentin prison authorities "set up" the killing of George Jackson, one of the so-called Soledad brothers, particularly since several guards also were killed. But many others, mostly black, perhaps but not a few of them white, will not find it hard to agree with his mother.

"They killed him and set him out in the yard and photographed him, and then said he tried to escape," Mrs. Jackson told Wallace Turner of the New York Times. "They've been trying for 10½ years to do it and they did it."

Most of us never come into difficulties with policemen and never see the inside of a prison, even as visitors, and our tendency is to respect authority and to discount as hysterical and self-serving such views as Mrs. Jackson expressed. Authority in America is not supposed or generally thought to do such things.

But that is not necessarily the view in the black ghetto, where authority — mostly white — is deeply mistrusted. That is not the view of many in the black community everywhere who — just in the last year or so — have seen little or nothing done about the Orangeburg Massacre, the rioters shot in the back in Augusta, the students gunned down at Jackson State, Fred Hampton destroyed in his bed, and hundreds of less publicized crimes. That is not the view of those who have seen young sons and brothers go to prison for minor offenses and come out of these grim schools of crime and degeneracy — if they ever do — as hardened law-breakers and permanent outcasts from society.

Nor are blacks—or Chicanos or Indians or other minorities — the only people who look at authority in America with misgivings or mistrust. The dead and maimed students at Kent State were white, and nothing is to be done. Other whites in low economic and social status know what it means to be powerless and hopeless before an uncaring or oppressive law. And many whites who are neither powerless nor hopeless are nevertheless deeply concerned and aware that all is not as promised in the promised land.

So if it may well be true that Mrs. Jackson was overwrought — why not with two sons dead before the gunfire of white authority — it is also true that, for once, this predominantly white society ought not passively to accept the opposite and usual assumption that authority is blameless and truthful, and those who defy it are fools or depraved, especially if black.

That is not just because George Jackson, the tragic and talented author of "The Prison Letters," sentenced at 19 for one year to life for confessing to a $70 robbery, had become a symbol to so many blacks—particularly the young and passionate—of the rank injustice they believe with all too much reason their people have suffered at the hands of the police and the courts and the prisons. It is that symbolic position and the violence of his death at San Quentin that will cause so many in anger and in sorrow to agree with Mrs. Jackson that at last her defiant son was "set up."

If it can be demonstrated beyond reasonable doubt that there was no such "set up" of course, that may be useful to society in trying to hold black disaffection and anger within bounds.

* * *

A better reason for challenging official explanations and general assumptions in the San Quentin case is to get at the truth of George Jackson's life, not just the truth of his death. Whether or not he was shot while escaping or was in some way "set up" for killing, his life was the real tragedy. It is indisputably an American tragedy.

He was, that is, not merely a victim of racism, although he was certainly that. He was a victim, too, of the poverty and hunger and disadvantage that are not the lot of blacks alone in this richest country on earth. Its schools treated him with contempt. He was shot at age 15 by its violent lawmen. Its courts knew nothing better to do with him than to send him to its harsh prisons, where he spent a third of his life. There, and in his brief years on the streets of Chicago and Los Angeles—by his own account—he learned that "the jungle is still the jungle be it composed of trees or skyscrapers and the law of the jungle is bite or be bitten."

A talented writer, a sensitive man, a potential leader and political thinker of great persuasiveness, George Jackson was destroyed long before he was killed at San Quentin. There are thousands upon thousands like him—black and white, brothers all—who will be, have or been destroyed, too.

MARQUIS CHILDS
Exodus From California

SAN FRANCISCO—This most populous state in the Union has to end up in the Nixon column next year if the President is to be reelected. But something strange is happening in what was once the golden magnet of the Pacific slope, drawing hundreds of thousands from the Midwest and the Southwest to the land of promise.

People are leaving the state in such numbers that the exodus exceeds the in-migration for the first time in years. A careful, analytical article in The Wall Street Journal recently rocked the complacency of the developers who believe the bonanza would go on forever. The exodus from Los Angeles amounts to 35,000 people a year—the reasons being smog, earthquakes, unemployment and the increasing dominance of the blacks.

The unemployment rate in California is 7.2 per cent, about a point and a half higher than the national average. A few thousand jobs in the aerospace industry may have been saved by the squeak vote on the Lockheed guarantee which the Nixon administration put over with an intense lobbying drive.

What the Nixon program will mean in jobs in cities such as San Francisco where imports and exports are so important is questionable. A seven-week dock strike has had a serious effect on San Francisco's economy. In southern California Japanese cars have taken 35 per cent of the nation's biggest car-buying market in the first half of 1971. The far-reaching thrust of the Nixon program will mean painful adjustments.

* * *

Odd things are happening in Orange County, that seat of undiluted Birchism. George Brokate, a Marine veteran of two combat tours in Vietnam, turned up at a meeting of the Republican Central Committee of Orange County to denounce the President as just another tricky politician who had sold out the freedom of hundreds of millions to atheistic communism. At the height of his denunciation, he held up a plaque given him for having been the largest contributor to the Nixon campaign in 1968 and hurled it into a convenient garbage pail. While some committee members walked out, about 30 gave him a standing ovation.

Here recently for a meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council, George Meany looked dourly on the Nixon mission to Peking. The council heard Sen. Henry (Scoop) Jackson whose presidential campaign is more visible every day and gave him long, loud cheers. Jackson is determined to prove that he can out-hawk any Republican on Vietnam, China or the military budget.

Still another reason why Californians may be voting with their feet as they leave the state is taxation. For all the rhetoric about cutting costs and reforming the welfare rolls, Gov. Ronald Reagan faces in his second term the same problems that confront virtually all governors. Rising costs and the demand for ever more highways and other services spell higher taxes.

Reagan came into office promising to cut taxes and introduce business reforms. He had to ask an additional $1 billion in new taxes. While the welfare rolls have been pared and benefits squeezed to a minimum, he told the legislature the other day that he would need close to another $350 million in taxes to foot the bill.

As for the President in his handsome retreat far to the south at San Clemente, he can enjoy the same seclusion as his rich neighbors in this state with its generous supply of the very rich. Miles of the Pacific coastline to the south are walled off with those forbidding signs that read "Private Property — Positively No Trespassing" and, sometime for good measure, "Beware of the Dog."

Whether the Nixon presence causes Californians to burst with patriotic pride is questionable. It may come back to their own allegiance to the state that was always to be the biggest, the best, the sunniest, the happiest, the kookiest. A recent survey by the California Poll found one out of three Californians wanting to leave. They may not know where they want to go but they've had enough of smog, freeways, boxlike subdivisions baking in the sun.

More than most Californians admit, the earthquake threat may be a factor. What happened in Los Angeles in February was for many the handwriting on the wall. San Francisco sits on the San Andreas fault which could at any time produce a major shift in the earth like that of 1906. Yet the forest of skyscrapers multiplies year after year, changing the character of what was once a glowing white city content on its hills. It has been an extraordinary experiment, this California, this melting pot of Chicanos, blacks, Chinese which failed to melt with violent consequences.

JACK ANDERSON
IRS Accused Of Pressure Tactics

WASHINGTON — Two congressmen have complained behind closed doors that their tax returns were checked when they held up approval of a data processing center for the Internal Revenue Service.

The House Public Buildings subcommittee delayed the authorization because the cost estimates had doubled. When the vote came up again, Chairman Ken Gray, D-Ill., charged that Internal Revenue had brought pressure on the subcommittee by subjecting members to tax investigations.

He told the subcommittee members at the secret session. "Both your income tax returns and members of my family have been requested to be checked by the Internal Revenue Service, which I personally feel is a very reprehensible thing . . .

"We resent this type of pressure innuendo and these tactics being used," he said. "The people who called on members of my family were from the investigating unit. It was not a routine audit whatsoever, and they made very slurring remarks, such as, 'We were handed this to check you out,' and several other things which I think is not in the American tradition."

"It seems to me," broke in Rep. Jack McDonald, R-Mich., "that Internal Revenue Service made a determination to audit my tax records on the very day that they appeared at this hearing."

The subcommittee, nevertheless, voted unanimously to approve the data processing center, which will be built in Detroit.

"Just because we approve this prospectus," snorted McDonald, "doesn't mean we might not want to take up the matter again, concerning any possible pressures that Internal Revenue Service or anyone else may attempt to put on members of Congress."

Gray agreed that the center was approved "not on account of the actions of the Internal Revenue Service but in spite of it."

Footnote: Gray's taxes were audited as part of an investigation into an alleged conflict of interest. An IRS spokesman called it a coincidence that McDonald's tax records were inspected at the same time.

A secret State Department analysis has warned that President Nixon's flirtation with Peking is upsetting the power balance and reducing U.S. influence in Asia.

Here's what is happening:

The U.S. has lost its leverage with India, which has now turned to Russia for protection.

Although President Nixon has established a warm personal relationship with Pakistani President Yahya Khan, Pakistan still continues to rely upon China for its main support.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai made it clear in his long interview with New York Timesman James Reston that China regards Japan, not the U.S., as its greatest rival in Asia.

All our allies in Asia, from Thailand to South Korea, have reacted to the Washington-Peking thaw by decreasing their dependence upon the U.S. The Japanese, in particular, have started to cut their ties with the U.S.

Thus Russia and China have emerged, almost overnight, as the greatest Asian powers, and the U.S. is on its way to becoming a second-class power in the Far East.

Harry Bridges, boss of the West Coast dock workers, has thumbed his nose at President Nixon and has refused to settle the seven-week dock strike. The real reason he won't negotiate seriously, however, is that he's too busy battling to keep control of his union. He has told subordinates that he won't settle the strike until he has resolved his internal troubles. Meanwhile, 150 ships are tied up in 24 ports. Millions of dollars are being lost and thousands of men laid off because of the tie-up.

White House adviser Henry Kissinger, on his recent Saigon visit, secretly alerted the military brass to expect an increase in the withdrawal rate. Servicemen are now finishing their one-year tours and coming home from Vietnam at the rate of 29,000 a month. Only 14,000 military jobs, however, are being eliminated each month. This means 15,000 men must be replaced. The Pentagon, therefore, is still shipping 15,000 a men a month to Vietnam. An increase in the pullout rate, which probably will take effect after the first of the year, should reduce the number of replacements to about 5,000 men a month. Eventually, these will be selected entirely from volunteers.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Was Councilman Merle Hale right or wrong in his surprise move to limit the 1971-72 fiscal year mill levy to the 26.19 figure of the year now ending? For the coming years, the levy will go to 27.12 mills, thanks to a three-to-three vote which killed the Hale freeze proposal in the council.

In our mind, he was wrong, although we are in no way critical of him for his action. He based his position on the wage, price and rent freeze now in effect by order of President Nixon, seeing a mill levy freeze as complementary to the President's program.

There's is some logic to his thinking but the levy and Nixon freeze is for 90 days and if it ends at that time, there would be no opportunity for the city to then make any increase in its budget. The city budget has to be adopted for the new year by this coming Friday.

Secondly, city spending is not the same as wages, rents, and prices. American people and industry are not prohibited in any way from spending; they simply cannot increase prices or take a wage increase.

They can, however, spend all they want and the American people are expected to do just that. The wage freeze may hold some people back but the price freeze is expected to loosen a lot of pocketbooks that have been tightly shut for some time now.

Thus, we just don't view the wage, rent and price freeze in the same light as a freeze on local government spending. Certainly, there is an indirect relationship between the two, found in the area of inflation, but the Nixon idea is to stop inflation by stabilizing the value of the dollar, not by saving it up.

How would such a local levy freeze stack up from the point of view of good government? For the answer to this, you have to look at where the cuts in city spending would be made from the point where the budget now stands at its higher mill levy figure.

Most likely, the budget cuts in event of a levy freeze would be heaviest in the area of capital improvements. This means programs, equipment, facilities, etc., that are in addition to those in existence in 1970-71.

As examples, there is a new $105,000 fire station planned for the West O area, several new pieces of snow removal equipment will be purchased, three new inspectors will be added to the housing office and $723,000 in park improvements would be made. Throughout the budget would be found other smaller capital expenditures that will be made under the budget as it now stands and will apparently be approved by the council on Friday. If approval is not forthcoming, of course, the city would quickly be out of money and unable to pay its bills, including salaries.

The question is whether the city would want to cut such improvements as are planned and-or make other deletions in the budget. Cuts would be made in personnel and some things that are being done under past capital improvements could be eliminated, but any or all of this would mean a drop in city services.

We again suggest that there is not in the city budget the quarter of a million dollars of fat that, if cut, could bring the new levy down to the level of the old one. There just is not $325,000 in inefficiency in the new budget.

We must remember , too, that even though a lot of new and ongoing improvements are not a part of the tax-supported budget, they still must be paid for out of property tax revenue. These are things such as storm sewers and swimming pools which are paid for by revenue from bond issues.

The bond issue payments are not included in the limited general fund budget but are in the total property-tax-supported budget. The tax levy for past bond issue cannot be changed because the city is legally liable to pay off the bonds as agreed to at the time of their issuance.

Thus, nothing can be done now about the tax for such bonds but in many cases, it is a part of our property tax load. We understand Councilman Hale's concern with the burden of taxation in general and the current state of the economy but his solution is one that would seriously damage city progress and can be defended only with considerable difficulty.

Paradise Of Commune Life Proving Less Than Utopian

WASHINGTON — The search for paradise on a communal farm is coming up against some unexpected problems, grounded in human nature. The founders of these rustic utopias are mainly young, city-bred Americans, "middle-class freaks" in their own language. The physical privations of pioneer living they can take. But the problems inside of themselves are something else again. For they have found communal togetherness to be not as easily achieved as they had thought. And like the nuclear family from which they escaped, the communal family gets badly shaken up when funds run short.

"We made it through last winter believing somehow that Paradise would unfold around us with the green leaves," a member of Rainbow Farm in Vermont wrote in a letter to RAMPARTS. "We were wrong." The trouble was two-fold: "worrying about the bills and the problems we have with each other." There were hassles over "sex roles in work, competence and incompetence," and problems due to being "alternately lazy and compulsive, over-achieving and bored."

A contributor to a newsletter from Twin Oaks in Louisa County, Virginia, confessed: "Living in a small community has, for many of us, stifled or made us pessimistic concerning our original utopian dream . . . We believe in equality, yet we are unable to face the staggering implications of total and real social equality." Twin Oaks is attempting to prove that by applying the principles of behavioral conditioning, as set forth in B. F. Skinner's novel, "Walden II," people can be freed of the negative emotions that lead to dissension and unhappiness. Four years after its founding, however, its main goal remains elusive.

☆ ☆ ☆

Where does the fault lie for the difficulty in living by the ideals of the share-and-share-alike communities? Some of the communards blame society, arguing that they were conditioned for the rat-race, not for harmonious living in communal utopias. "We are still the unfortunate victims of a sick society," wrote the Twin Oak correspondent. "We are not just children of capitalism but its prisoners," wrote a Rainbow Farmer. " . . . It seems we've re-created what we hated in the society we came from."

☆ ☆ ☆

Privacy is another thing the latter-day communards are finding it hard to give up. Some are discovering what Skinner indicated in "Walden II"—that in a world of togetherness, the greatest treasure may be a room of your own. Even the married couples in Skinner's utopia have private rooms if they wish. A great debate is now going on at Twin Oaks on whether to expand facilities in order to accommodate more members or to give the present membership more private rooms.

The mortality rate of the rural communes is high. Many come and many go. In Virginia alone, it was reported recently, 11 were founded in the past three years, but only six remain.

Agreement Encouraging

The isolation of West Berliners and the question of the political status of the former German capital have brought the U.S. and the Soviet Union closer to a nuclear face-down than any other issues since the end of World War II with the exception of the Cuban missile crisis.

It is encouraging, then, especially since signs point to an increase in East-West tension across the rest of Europe, that the Big Four which have ruled occupied and divided Berlin—Great Britain, France, the U.S.S.R. and the United States—have agreed to agree on means of solving access and political problems that have plagued Berliners throughout the occupation.

The draft agreement which is almost certain to be formally approved by the four governments will facilitate freer access to and from West Berlin, which is located inside East German territory, permit passage through the wall into East Berlin for West Berliners, allow conditional West German political presence in West Berlin — a compromise on an issue that is a sore point to the Soviets and the East Germans — and provide for Soviet diplomatic representation on the consulate-general level in West Berlin. Berlin.

Unfortunately, it does not allow for the same degree of freedom of movement for the East Berliners as it accords the residents of West Berlin. But it is a start. Details of implementing the agreement will have to be hammered out by representatives of the two Germanys now that the proposal has been roughed out by the Big Four ambassadors. All four reportedly view the agreement as mutually beneficial.

The easing of tension over the Berlin question might have resulted from West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's espousal of accommodation with Eastern Europe. Brandt's new foreign policy logically could have led the way to the four-power change in heart.

As encouraging as is the present situation, there is still the question of a reunited Germany—a question still weighing heavily in the minds of many Germans—whether it is politically realistic or not—and the potential for trouble in the Soviet master plan for Eastern Europe, which could give the Yugoslavs and Romanians a taste of what the Hungarians, Poles and Czechs experienced.

Auction Ends State Career

Declared surplus by the state after legislators decided that $3,900 was too high an annual price tag on feeding, keeping and transporting them, the oxen used to promote the Cornhusker State were put up for auction by the Roads Department. For the animals, the story turned out somewhat better than it might have.

Neb I and Raska I, the elder pair, found a permanent home in show business with Monty Montana Jr. of the Buffalo Bill Cody Wild West Show. Montana also purchased additional surplus equipment, a conestoga wagon and a yoke. Neb II and Raska II, the back-up pair, will go to work in Omaha, at the Henry Doorly Zoo.

And if state senators didn't think they were exactly headliners, Neb I and Raska I might get the last laugh. Montana said the oxen might make nationwide television. The Wild West Show will be featured on the Merv Griffin Show at CBS Television City in California next month and the state's old promoters, along with other livestock, will be on call.

The sale of the two pair of oxen enriched the state's general fund by a little over $1,600 and there is something a little said about them going for that price — not that Neb and Raska as oxen flesh were worth more than that. But it is indicative of Nebraska's promotional efforts.

The legislature thinks that $3,900 is too much to pay for support of two living reminders of Nebraska's pioneer heritage. Maybe more enduring symbols of the past can be adopted. But we imagine that the thought of any further effort along those lines was left at the auction block.

TOM WICKER
George Jackson's Death At San Quentin Tragic Reason For Seeking Out The Truth

WASHINGTON — To many Americans, white and black, it will seem unlikely that the San Quentin prison authorities "set up" the killing of George Jackson, one of the so-called Soledad brothers, particularly since several guards also were killed. But many others, mostly black, perhaps but not a few of them white, will not find it hard to agree with his mother.

"They killed him and set him out in the yard and photographed him, and then said he tried to escape," Mrs. Jackson told Wallace Turner of the New York Times. "They've been trying for 10½ years to do it and they did it."

Most of us never come into difficulties with policemen and never see the inside of a prison, even as visitors, and our tendency is to respect authority and to discount as hysterical and self-serving such views as Mrs. Jackson expressed. Authority in America is not supposed or generally thought to do such things.

But that is not necessarily the view in the black ghetto, where authority — mostly white — is deeply mistrusted. That is not the view of many in the black community everywhere who — just in the last year or so — have seen little or nothing done about the Orangeburg Massacre, the rioters shot in the back in Augusta, the students gunned down at Jackson State, Fred Hampton destroyed in his bed, and hundreds of less publicized crimes. That is not the view of those who have seen young sons and brothers go to prison for minor offenses and come out of these grim schools of crime and degeneracy — if they ever do — as hardened law-breakers and permanent outcasts from society.

Nor are blacks—or Chicanos or Indians or other minorities — the only people who look at authority in America with misgivings or mistrust. The dead and maimed students at Kent State were white, and nothing is to be done. Other whites in low economic and social status know what it means to be powerless and hopeless before an uncaring or oppressive law. And many whites who are neither powerless nor hopeless are nevertheless deeply concerned and aware that all is not as promised in the promised land.

So if it may well be true that Mrs. Jackson was overwrought — why not with two sons dead before the gunfire of white authority — it is also true that, for once, this predominantly white society ought not passively to accept the opposite and usual assumption that authority is blameless and truthful, and those who defy it are fools or depraved, especially if black.

That is not just because George Jackson, the tragic and talented author of "The Prison Letters," sentenced at 19 for one year to life for confessing to a $70 robbery, had become a symbol to so many blacks—particularly the young and passionate—of the rank injustice they believe with all too much reason their people have suffered at the hands of the police and the courts and the prisons. It is that symbolic position and the violence of his death at San Quentin that will cause so many in anger and in sorrow to agree with Mrs. Jackson that at last her defiant son was "set up."

If it can be demonstrated beyond reasonable doubt that there was no such "set up" of course, that may be useful to society in trying to hold black disaffection and anger within bounds.

A better reason for challenging official explanations and general assumptions in the San Quentin case is to get at the truth of George Jackson's life, not just the truth of his death. Whether or not he was shot while escaping or was in some way "set up" for killing, his life was the real tragedy. It is indisputably an American tragedy.

He was, that is, not merely a victim of racism, although he was certainly that. He was a victim, too, of the poverty and hunger and disadvantage that are not the lot of blacks alone in this richest country on earth. Its schools treated him with contempt. He was shot at age 15 by its violent lawmen. Its courts knew nothing better to do with him than to send him to its harsh prisons, where he spent a third of his life. There, and in his brief years on the streets of Chicago and Los Angeles—by his own account—he learned that "the jungle is still the jungle be it composed of trees or skyscrapers and the law of the jungle is bite or be bitten."

A talented writer, a sensitive man, a potential leader and political thinker of great persuasiveness, George Jackson was destroyed long before he was killed at San Quentin. There are thousands upon thousands like him—black and white, brothers all—who will be, have or been destroyed, too.

Exodus From California

SAN FRANCISCO—This most populous state in the Union has to end up in the Nixon column next year if the President is to be reelected. But something strange is happening in what was once the golden magnet of the Pacific slope, drawing hundreds of thousands from the Midwest and the Southwest to the land of promise.

People are leaving the state in such numbers that the exodus exceeds the in-migration for the first time in years. A careful, analytical article in The Wall Street Journal recently rocked the complacency of the developers who believe the bonanza would go on forever. The exodus from Los Angeles amounts to 35,000 people a year—the reasons being smog, earthquakes, unemployment and the increasing dominance of the blacks.

The unemployment rate in California is 7.2 per cent, about a point and a half higher than the national average. A few thousand jobs in the aerospace industry may have been saved by the squeak vote on the Lockheed guarantee which the Nixon administration put over with an intense lobbying drive.

What the Nixon program will mean in jobs in cities such as San Francisco where imports and exports are so important is questionable. A seven-week dock strike has had a serious effect on San Francisco's economy. In southern California Japanese cars have taken 35 per cent of the nation's biggest car-buying market in the first half of 1971. The far-reaching thrust of the Nixon program will mean painful adjustments.

☆ ☆ ☆

Odd things are happening in Orange County, that seat of undiluted Birchism. George Brokate, a Marine veteran of two combat tours in Vietnam, turned up at a meeting of the Republican Central Committee of Orange County to denounce the President as just another tricky politician who had sold out the freedom of hundreds of millions to atheistic communism. At the height of his denunciation, he held up a plaque given him for having been the largest contributor to the Nixon campaign in 1968 and hurled it into a convenient garbage pail. While some committee members walked out, about 30 gave him a standing ovation.

Here recently for a meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council, George Meany looked dourly on the Nixon mission to Peking. The council heard Sen. Henry (Scoop) Jackson whose presidential campaign is more visible every day and gave him long, loud cheers. Jackson is determined to prove that he can out-hawk any Republican on Vietnam, China or the military budget.

Still another reason why Californians may be voting with their feet as they leave the state is taxation. For all the rhetoric about cutting costs and reforming the welfare rolls, Gov. Ronald Reagan faces in his second term the same problems that confront virtually all governors. Rising costs and the demand for ever more highways and other services spell higher taxes.

Reagan came into office promising to cut taxes and introduce business reforms. He had to ask an additional $1 billion in new taxes. While the welfare rolls have been pared and benefits squeezed to a minimum, he told the legislature the other day that he would need close to another $350 million in taxes to foot the bill.

As for the President in his handsome retreat far to the south at San Clemente, he can enjoy the same seclusion as his rich neighbors in this state with its generous supply of the very rich. Miles of the Pacific coastline to the south are walled off with those forbidding signs that read "Private Property — Positively No Trespassing" and, sometime for good measure, "Beware of the Dog."

Whether the Nixon presence causes Californians to burst with patriotic pride is questionable. It may come back to their own allegiance to the state that was always to be the biggest, the best, the sunniest, the happiest, the kookiest. A recent survey by the California Poll found one out of three Californians wanting to leave. They may not know where they want to go but they've had enough of smog, freeways, boxlike subdivisions baking in the sun.

More than most Californians admit, the earthquake threat may be a factor. What happened in Los Angeles in February was for many the handwriting on the wall. San Francisco sits on the San Andreas fault which could at any time produce a major shift in the earth like that of 1906. Yet the forest of skyscrapers multiplies year after year, changing the character of what was once a glowing white city content on its hills. It has been an extraordinary experiment, this California, this melting pot of Chicanos, blacks, Chinese which failed to melt with violent consequences.

JACK ANDERSON
IRS Accused Of Pressure Tactics

WASHINGTON — Two congressmen have complained behind closed doors that their tax returns were checked when they held up approval of a data processing center for the Internal Revenue Service.

The House Public Buildings subcommittee delayed the authorization because the cost estimates had doubled. When the vote came up again, Chairman Ken Gray, D-Ill., charged that Internal Revenue had brought pressure on the subcommittee by subjecting members to tax investigations.

He told the subcommittee members at the secret session: "Both your income tax returns and members of my family have been requested to be checked by the Internal Revenue Service, which I personally feel is a very reprehensible thing . . .

"We resent this type of pressure innuendo and these tactics being used," he said. "The people who called on members of my family were from the investigating unit. It was not a routine audit whatsoever, and they made very slurring remarks, such as, 'We were handed this to check you out,' and several other things which I think is not in the American tradition."

"It seems to me," broke in Rep. Jack McDonald, R-Mich., "that Internal Revenue Service made a determination to audit my tax records on the very day that they appeared at this hearing."

The subcommittee, nevertheless, voted unanimously to approve the data processing center, which will be built in Detroit.

"Just because we approve this prospectus," snorted McDonald, "doesn't mean we might not want to take up the matter again, concerning any possible pressures that Internal Revenue Service or anyone else may attempt to put on members of Congress."

Gray agreed that the center was approved "not on account of the actions of the Internal Revenue Service but in spite of it."

Footnote: Gray's taxes were audited as part of an investigation into an alleged conflict of interest. An IRS spokesman called it a coincidence that McDonald's tax records were inspected at the same time.

A secret State Department analysis has warned that President Nixon's flirtation with Peking is upsetting the power balance and reducing U.S. influence in Asia.

Here's what is happening:

The U.S. has lost its leverage with India, which has now turned to Russia for protection.

Although President Nixon has established a warm personal relationship with Pakistani President Yahya Khan, Pakistan still continues to rely upon China for its main support.

Summer Policeman Dislikes Abuse

'People Call You Names'

By JIM DeCAMP

The only thing he really doesn't like about being a police officer is the abuse he receives from people, said NU senior offensive halfback Jeff Kinney, who is working as a summer police officer.

"It is really hard to control your temper when people are calling you all kinds of names," Kinney said. "You just never become accustomed to being called a 'pig.'"

Police Chief Joseph Carroll said the program began abolt 25 years ago when they invited football players to join the department for the summer. Carroll said they started hiring law students three years ago to work in the criminal division with the detectives

Program Successful

Carroll said the program has been very successful due to the fact that the majority of the police officers are married and want to take their vacations during the summer when their chillren are out of school

He said the summer policemen fill in as a second man in a car and always work with a seasoned officer who takes the responsibility on all calls.

Carroll said the summer policemen carry weapons but are given firearms training and a short indoctrination before they go out on beat

Things Pretty Easy

Senior safety Tom McClelland says that things are pretty easy for him because this is his second summer working on the police department

"I haven't run across any real problems this summer," he said. "Since this is my second summer, my previous experiences have helped me handle certain situations such as domestic problems better."

McClelland says he enjoys the work but as for full time employment after graduation he said he was "partly undecided' He said he didn't think he'd make a career of it but may work part time again starting in January if his class schedule will allow it

ON THE BEAT . . . Kinney stands by his patrol car.

Kinney said working for the Police Department for the summer has really changed his opinion of police 'It's turned my opinion completely around," he said "I used to think that it was the officers who abused people but I have found that as an officer I have taken more abuse than I ever imagined

Jeff said that this is the most interesting job he has ever had and would consider going full time. "I do enjoy it," he said, "but right now I have other plans for the future."

McClelland said many people have grave misconceptions about police and their work and that he was no different "I used to think police work was simple and monotonous The same thing night after night But having a chance to see things from the other side of the fence has really corrected that misconception"

Good 2nd Man

Carroll said they are all in excellent physical condition so make a good second man in the car He said many get law enforcement in their blood and come back and ask for a permanent job

He said the oldest in point of service after first working part time is inspector of police Dale Adam, a football player in 1946 and 1947.

Director of public realtions, Ben Gobel, said there is an additional advantage in having the athletes work with young people because the names of the summer policemen are frequently well known and command more respect. He said they help on the campus and can better communicate with the students.

Gobel said this summer they had eight athletes working on the force as commissioned police officers He said they were senior left end John Adkins, junior basketball forward Thomas Bryan, junior right end Willie Harper, junior strong linebacker Bruce Hauge, senior tight end Phil Harvey, senior offensive halfback Jeff Kinney, senior safety Bill Kosch and senior safety Tom McClelland

Regulus Is Still On Rocks After Bout With Rose

Hong Kong (AP) — Eleven of the 25 vessels grounded last week by Typhoon Rose have been refloated, but the US Navy supply ship Regulus is still on the rocks with three large holes in its hull, the Marine Department said Tuesday.

A Navy tug and two Navy salvage ships are repairing the 8,000-ton Regulus, but the ship is not expected to be refloated for at least another week. Typhoon Rose, which killed more than 130 persons, sank two Hong Kong ferries in addition to the other shipping mishaps

Court Rules Wallace Can't Override Orders

Birmingham, Ala. (UPI) —A young federal judge — described recently by Gov. George C. Wallace as lacking the brains to try a chicken thief — stated Tuesday nothing in either state or federal law empowers the Alabama governor to override desegregation orders of the federal judiciary.

U.S. District Court Judge Sam C. Pointer Jr. told two East Alabama school boards that it will take a new order by a federal court — not an executive order by Wallace — to alter their integration plans.

"I know of no authority which gives the governor power to override a federal court order," the sandy-haired 35-year-old judge said.

The Oxford City and Calhoun County Boards of Education were ordered by another Federal District Judge, Frank H. McFadden, on Aug. 6 to pair Oxford's two schools with all-black Calhoun County Training School at nearby Hobson City.

Wallace traveled to Hobson City last Wednesday and publicly signed an order directing school officials to ignore the federal decree and operate the schools on a non-discriminatory basis under the federal placement plans used last year. Wallace said his position was in line with President Nixon's opposition to busing to establish racial balance.

With classes at the schools scheduled to start this Thursday, the school boards sought Tuesday's hearing before Judge Pointer in hopes of determining whose order — Wallace's or Judge McFadden's — they should obey.

Wallace was invited to attend the hearing but declined to come, sending instead his legal advisor, John Harris.

"The governor's position is when you cause massive busing — in this case it's cross-busing — there is a danger to life and a disruption of the education process," Harris said.

Wallace's layer said the governor was convinced his executive order "transcends the order of this court."

Pointer, however, cited sections of the supreme court's Charlotte-Mecklenburg ruling which authorizes busing and gives district judges wide discretionary powers to eliminate all vestiges of state-imposed segregation. The judge said Wallace's order must fall before constitutionally guaranteed rights.

Pointer added Wallace didn't even have state law behind him.

"It seems to me the Alabama Supreme Court has ruled in an advisory opinion, on the request of the persons now occupying the (governor's) office, that the governor did not have the power to open and close schools," Pointer said.

Earlier this month, after Wallace ordered the Jefferson County School Board to ignore a federal court order and reassign a white student to a school of her choice, Pointer told the school board to ignore Wallace's directive.

Pointer held that Wallace was exercising free speech. He added that it would be school board members — and not Wallace — who would be held responsible for defiance.

Sens. Humphrey, Curtis To Tour Rural Nebraska And Oklahoma

Washington (UPI) — The Senate committee which wants to determine how to keep people on the farm will hold hearings and make rural area tours in Oklahoma and Nebraska Sept. 8-10.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on rural development, announced the dates.

Sens. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., are on the subcommittee and will take part in the tours.

Formed This Year

The subcommittee was formed this year to recommend ways to "slow the steady migration of people from rural communities to the major population centers," Humphrey said. The solution may be a combination of economic lure and industrial development, plus an improvement of the quality of life in rural areas, Humphrey said.

The group will go to Oklahoma City Sept. 8, hold a 7:30 p.m. news conference at the Cowboy Hall of Fame, and have dinner with Gov. David Hall and state and local officials.

Then they will fly to McAlester, Okla., for the night and have breakfast with local officials at 8 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 9 and then tour the model cities project area and before flying to Perry for a tour of industrial development in a rural setting.

Fly To McCook

At noon, they go by bus to Stillwater for a hearing at 1:30 p.m. in the Oklahoma State University Student Union auditorium and fly to McCook that evening to dine with farming and business leaders.

Breakfast Sept. 10 will be at 7:45 a.m. on a farm still to be selected near McCook. At 9 a.m., they will tour McCook and then fly to Lincoln for a 1 p.m. hearing at the Center for Continuing Education at the University of Nebraska.

The subcommittee is to return to Washington at 5 p.m. that afternoon.

Court Rules Wallace Can't Override Orders

Birmingham, Ala. (UPI) —A young federal judge — described recently by Gov. George C. Wallace as lacking the brains to try a chicken thief — stated Tuesday nothing in either state or federal law empowers the Alabama governor to override desegregation orders of the federal judiciary.

U.S. District Court Judge Sam C. Pointer Jr. told two East Alabama school boards that it will take a new order by a federal court — not an executive order by Wallace — to alter their integration plans.

"I know of no authority which gives the governor power to override a federal court order," the sandy-haired 35-year-old judge said.

The Oxford City and Calhoun County Boards of Education were ordered by another Federal District Judge, Frank H. McFadden on Aug. 6 to pair Oxford's two schools with all-black Calhoun County Training School at nearby Hobson City.

Wallace traveled to Hobson City last Wednesday and publicly signed an order directing school officials to ignore the federal decree and operate the schools on a non-discriminatory basis under the federal placement plans used last year. Wallace said his position was in line with President Nixon's opposition to busing to establish racial balance.

With classes at the schools scheduled to start this Thursday, the school boards sought Tuesday's hearing before Judge Pointer in hopes of determining whose order — Wallace's or Judge McFadden's — they should obey.

Wallace was invited to attend the hearing but declined to come, sending instead his legal advisor, John Harris.

"The governor's position is when you cause massive busing — in this case it's cross-busing — there is a danger to life and a disruption of the education process," Harris said.

Wallace's layer said the governor was convinced his executive order "transcends the order of this court."

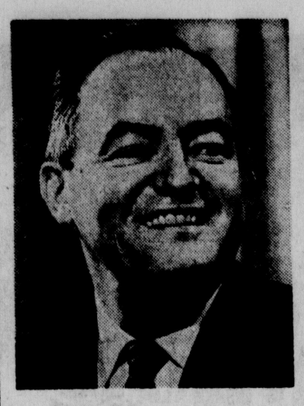

Pointer, however, cited sections of the supreme court's Charlotte-Mecklenburg ruling which authorizes busing and gives district judges wide discretionary powers to eliminate all vestiges of state-imposed segregation. The judge said Wallace's order must fall before constitutionally guaranteed rights.

Pointer added Wallace didn't even have state law behind him.

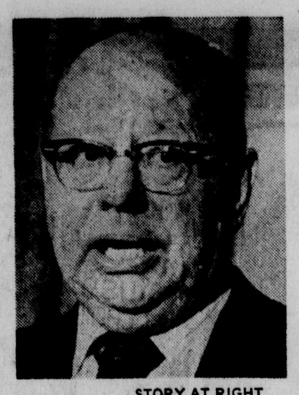

"It seems to me the Alabama Supreme Court has ruled in an advisory opinion, on the request of the persons now occupying the (governor's) office, that the governor did not have the power to open and close schools," Pointer said.

Earlier this month, after Wallace ordered the Jefferson County School Board to ignore a federal court order and reassign a white student to a school of her choice, Pointer told the school board to ignore Wallace's directive.

Pointer held that Wallace was exercising free speech. He added that it would be school board members — and not Wallace — who would be held responsible for defiance.

Sens. Humphrey, Curtis To Tour Rural Nebraska And Oklahoma

Washington (UPI) — The Senate committee which wants to determine how to keep people on the farm will hold hearings and make rural area tours in Oklahoma and Nebraska Sept. 8-10.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on rural development, announced the dates.

Sens. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., are on the subcommittee and will take part in the tours.

Formed This Year

The subcommittee was formed this year to recommend ways to "slow the steady migration of people from rural communities to the major population centers," Humphrey said. The solution may be a combination of economic lure and industrial development, plus an improvement of the quality of life in rural areas, Humphrey said.

The group will go to Oklahoma City Sept. 8, hold a 7:30 p.m. news conference at the Cowboy Hall of Fame, and have dinner with Gov. David Hall and state and local officials.

Then they will fly to McAlester, Okla., for the night and have breakfast with local officials at 8 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 9 and then tour the model cities project area and before flying to Perry for a tour of industrial development in a rural setting.

Fly To McCook

At noon, they go by bus to Stillwater for a hearing at 1:30 p.m. in the Oklahoma State University Student Union auditorium and fly to McCook that evening to dine with farming and business leaders.

Breakfast Sept. 10 will be at 7:45 a.m. on a farm still to be selected near McCook. At 9 a.m., they will tour McCook and then fly to Lincoln for a 1 p.m. hearing at the Center for Continuing Education at the University of Nebraska.

The subcommittee is to return to Washington at 5 p.m. that afternoon.

Spanish-Americans Own Over 1% Of U.S. Businesses

•The New York Times

Washington — Americans of Spanish origin owned slightly more than 1% of all business enterprises in the United States in 1969, a Census Bureau report disclosed Tuesday. Spanish-Americans made up about 4½% of the U.S. population, the bureau said.

Released by the Commerce Department, the 177-page report shows that 321,958 businesses were owned by minorities in 1969. The department reported earlier this month that half of all minority businesses were owned by blacks.

According to the Commerce Department, the Spanish-origin groups accounted for 100,212 concerns whose owners were of Mexican-American, Puerto Rican, Cuban or Latin-American ancestry. Blacks owned 163,073 businesses in 1969. The 58,673 other concerns listed in the minority business report were owned by American Indians, orientals and other minorities.

More than one-third of all minority businesses were owned by Americans of Spanish origin, the report shows.

Maurice H. Stans, Secretary of Commerce, said that Tuesday's report "shows clearly that 1969 involvement of minority groups in business enterprise was disproportionately low."

In a prepared statement released with the report, he also said, "This record must be improved, and we must increase our efforts to achieve a viable minority business community in this country. It is not a matter of party or persuasion; it is a matter of right."

Receipts from Spanish-owned businesses amounted to $3.3 billion in 1969, which was about one-fifth of 1% of the $1.6 trillion in revenues reported by all concerns in the United States.

The Census Bureau said that the $1.6 trillion figure was based on Internal Revenue Service statistics for the fiscal year 1967, which are the most recent available.

The biggest over-all money-makers among Spanish businesses were 6,378 food stores, which took in $373 million.

The financially most important black enterprises were 6,380 filling stations and automobile dealerships, which had receipts totaling $631 million in 1969.

Among American Indians, orientals and other minorities, 4,846 food stores were the biggest sources of income, with receipts of $682 million in 1969.

The total receipts in the "other minorities" category were $2.8-billion, which represented a higher income for each concern than either the Spanish-origin or black groups reported.

The report also shows that most minority-owned businesses, which account for about 4% of all businesses in the United States, are small concerns run by sole proprietors or partnerships without paid employes.

The 232,017 concerns without employes averaged $7,000 each in receipts in 1969, and the 89,941 concerns with paid employes averaged $99,000 each.

California, with 64,200 minority-owned concerns, was the state with the largest number of such enterprises. Texas, with 37,284, was second, and New York, with 17,677, was third.

Former Radio Operator Is First To Say Medina Entered My Lai

Ft. McPherson, Ga (UPI) — A former radio operator Tuesday became the first prosecution witness to say that Capt. Ernest L. Medina entered the village of My Lai while civilians were being slain, but then refused to say that he actually saw him there.

Lewis Martin, now a San Jose, Calif., policeman, said he was one of a group of eight who followed Medina into the village on March 16, 1968.

Martin, the 26th witness for the army, was the first to say that Medina actually entered he village. The 34-year-old officer is charged with three counts of murder — one that he killed a Vietnamese woman, one that he killed a boy, and a third that he allowed his company to slaughter 100 other civilians.

Village Entered

Martin testified that "we were filing through the village. Captain Medina was at the head of the line. He was followed by two radio operators. They were followed by an interpreter. Then is was Lieutenant Alieux, then it was me. I was followed by Capezza (Nicholas Capezza, a medic), and there was a rifleman behind him."

"Just after we got into the village, I saw a group of eight to 12 people who were shot. They were mostly women and children," Capezza said.

His testimony appeared less positive under cross examination.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey asked Martin "did you ever actually see Medina at this point?"

"I just can't recall ever having been separated from the command group," Martin replied.

"Where was Captain Medina."

"All I was doing was following the man in the command group."

"If Captain Medina says he was not in the village, but went around the south end of the village, can you dispute it."

"I guess that's true, I'm not very well oriented."

Bailey planned to continue cross-examination of Martin Wednesday.

Message Received

Capezza, the medic from Queens N.Y., testified before Martin and mentioned nothing about entering the village. He said Medina received a radio message from an unidentified superior officer who asked if civilians were being killed.

Capezza said Medina replied he didn't know, but would find out.

Medina radioed Lt. William L. Calley, Capezza testified, and demanded "what the f– is going on"

"Had you ever heard Medina talk that way to Calley before" asked assistant prosecutor Capt. Frank Wurtzel.

"Usually in person, but not over the radio," Capezza replied.

Two members of a helicopter crew, Capt. Hugh C. Thompson Jr. of Decatur, Ga., and his door gunner, Lawrence Colburn of Mt. Vernon, Wash., said they saw an unidentified captain shoot at a wounled Vietnamese woman outside the hamlet.

Thompson said "he walked up to her, nudged her, stepped back, turned around, started to walk away, turned back around and shot her."

Colburn said "I remember him rolling her over with his foot. she was lying on her back. And then he shot her."

Both said they had no idea who the officer may have been. Thompson said he had earlier marked the site of the wounded woman with a smoke bomb — not knowing that the ground troops believed a smoke bomb marked enemy troops or weapons.

Import Tax May Cancel Out The Availability Of TV Dinner

Buenos Aires (UPI) — Argentine meat packing officials have warned that President Nixon's new 10% import tax may deprive the American housewife of her Saturday night friend: the frozen TV dinner.

"The tax is strictly discriminatory against South American beef shipments because it does not apply to fresh beef shipped to the United States from Australia and New Zealand," said Enrique Holmberg.

"We can't compete if we have to pay the tax and they don't," added Holmberg, president of Swift De La Plata, Argentina's biggest packing firm.

But Marcelo Ordonez, general manager of the firm, drove the point right into American kitchens:

"The people who put out the frozen chopped beef, roast beef and other meat and gravy dinners in the States will stop producing before they buy high-priced fresh U.S. beef for the dinners," he said.

Swift De La Plata, one of seven or eight giant packing plants in Argentina, shipped about $70 million worth of canned and frozen cooked beef to the United States last year. South American countries are not permitted to ship fresh beef to the United States because of to the United States because of hoof and mouth disease in some Latin American countries.

Among the South American beef products which are abundant on stateside grocery shelves now are canned corned beef, canned roast beef and gravy and the meat in frozen TV dinners. Such firms as Cambell, Morton and Banquet buy Argentine meat products.

Uruguay and Brazil also ship a great deal of frozen cooked beef and beef products to the U.S.

"New Zealand and Australia ship fresh beef to the States and, since they are on a quota system, they will not be affected by the new tax," said Ordonez. "But our processed beef, which is already under a 10% tax, will now get slapped with an extra 10.% And, as you know, Argentina's beef business is already in a bad way."

William Waller Wins Nomination For Governor

Jackson, Miss (UPI) — Former prosecutor William L. Waller won the Democratic nomination for governor Tuesday night in a stunning upset over Lt. Gov. Charles Sullivan.

The 44-year-old Jackson attorney automatically became a heavy favorite to defeat Charles Evers, the state's first black candidate for governor, in November.

Both men were considered moderates, and Sullivan won the seven-man field in the first primary. But Tuesday night Waller took away from Sullivan 18 of the counties he won three weeks ago.

With 1,731 of the 's 2,063 precincts reporting — 83.9% of the vote — Waller had 316,494 (53.7% to 273,101 for Sullivan.

"It does not look optimistic," Sullivan said earlier as the trend persisted against him.

Mouse Postpones Utah Court Case

A preliminary hearing about to begin was delayed until the mouse was chased behind some filing cabinets and the women were assured it would not return.

Lucky Years In Store For British Chief

London (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath gave a theatrical dinner party Monday night at Chequers, his official country estate, and actress Olivia de Havilland read his Chinese horoscope. The prediction: his best years are still to come.

"I told him we were both born under the same sign in the Chinese horoscope — the sign of the dragon," said the veteran Hollywood star, who was born in Tokyo of British parents.

"It is the most felicitous and luckiest sign there is," she said. "It means the middle years of your life are lucky, but the last third is even luckier still. He said he would tell his friends about it."

Miss de Havilland and the bachelor prime minister are both 56. She first met Heath 10 years ago and said the invitation to the party Monday night came as a surprise. Among other guests were actress Mia Farrow, her husband, conductor Andre Previn, and British film producer Bryan Forbes.

Reports Say Two U.S. Ships Sunk

New Delhi (UPI) — A senior foreign office official said Tuesday that intelligence reports reaching here indicated two American vessels were among six sunk in an East Pakistan port by rebel forces "about 10 days ago."

All the vessels were carrying arms to support the West Pakistan government, the official said.

The official, who declined to be named or to give the source of the reports, said he could not give any details about the American vessels. The United States has provided funds for the charter of coastal vessels to haul relief food supplies to river ports.

Of the other vessels sunk, he said two were Chinese, one was Japanese, and one was Pakistani.

The foreign office official said that all the sinkings took place at the riverport of Mangla in Khuina district of East Pakistan and said all the vessels involved were all of "medium" range or about 15,000 tons displacement.

Julie Eisenhower Is Treated For A Broken Toe

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower was injured Tuesday on her second day at Atlantic Beach Elementary school when a steel book cart toppled onto her left foot, breaking her big toe, a White House spokesman said.

Constance Stuart, press secretary for Mrs. Richard Nixon, said Julie and one of the janitors at the school were moving the cart loaded with 35 books.

"They were moving the cart down a step when the cart tipped and fell on Julie's left foot, breaking her big toe," Mrs. Stuart said from the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif.

Fitted with a walking cast, the President's daughter was expected to be back on the job Wednesday.

"It was just one of those freak things," said Lamar Nash, information officer for Jacksonville schools.

Secret Service men, on duty outside the school, took Mrs. Eisenhower to Mayport Naval Station Dispensary where she was treated.

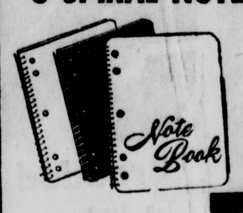

President Nixon's daughter and her husband, Ens. David Eisenhower, are living in a garage apartment half a block from the ocean in Atlantic Beach.

He is stationed aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Albany at nearby Mayport Naval Station.

Spanish-Americans Own Over 1% Of U.S. Businesses

The New York Times

Washington — Americans of Spanish origin owned slightly more than 1% of all business enterprises in the United States in 1969, a Census Bureau report disclosed Tuesday. Spanish-Americans made up about 4½% of the U.S. population, the bureau said.

Released by the Commerce Department, the 177-page report shows that 321,958 businesses were owned by minorities in 1969. The department reported earlier this month that half of all minority businesses were owned by blacks.

According to the Commerce Department, the Spanish-origin groups accounted for 100,212 concerns whose owners were of Mexican-American, Puerto Rican, Cuban or Latin-American ancestry. Blacks owned 163,073 businesses in 1969. The 58,673 other concerns listed in the minority business report were owned by American Indians, orientals and other minorities.

More than one-third of all minority businesses were owned by Americans of Spanish origin, the report shows.

Maurice H. Stans, Secretary of Commerce, said that Tuesday's report "shows clearly that 1969 involvement of minority groups in business enterprise was disproportionately low."

In a prepared statement released with the report, he also said, "This record must be improved, and we must increase our efforts to achieve a viable minority business community in this country. It is not a matter of party or persuasion; it is a matter of right."

Receipts from Spanish-owned businesses amounted to $3.3 billion in 1969, which was about one-fifth of 1% of the $1.6 trillion in revenues reported by all concerns in the United States.

The Census Bureau said that the $1.6 trillion figure was based on Internal Revenue Service statistics for the fiscal year 1967, which are the most recent available.

The biggest over-all money-makers among Spanish businesses were 6,378 food stores, which took in $373 million.

The financially most important black enterprises were 6,380 filling stations and automobile dealerships, which had receipts totaling $631 million in 1969.

Among American Indians, orientals and other minorities, 4,846 food stores were the biggest sources of income, with receipts of $682 million in 1969.

The total receipts in the "other minorities" category were $2.8-billion, which represented a higher income for each concern than either the Spanish-origin or black groups reported.

The report also shows that most minority-owned businesses, which account for about 4% of all businesses in the United States, are small concerns run by sole proprietors or partnerships without paid employes.

The 232,017 concerns without employes averaged $7,000 each in receipts in 1969, and the 89,941 concerns with paid employes averaged $99,000 each.

California, with 64,200 minority-owned concerns, was the state with the largest number of such enterprises. Texas, with 37,284, was second, and New York, with 17,677, was third.

Former Radio Operator Is First To Say Medina Entered My Lai

Ft. McPherson, Ga (UPI) — A former radio operator Tuesday became the first prosecution witness to say that Capt. Ernest L. Medina entered the village of My Lai while civilians were being slain, but then refused to say that he actually saw him there.

Lewis Martin, now a San Jose, Calif., policeman, said he was one of a group of eight who followed Medina into the village on March 16, 1968.

Martin, the 26th witness for the army, was the first to say that Medina actually entered he village. The 34-year-old officer is charged with three counts of murder — one that he killed a Vietnamese woman, one that he killed a boy, and a third that he allowed his company to slaughter 100 other civilians.

Village Entered

Martin testified that "we were filing through the village. Captain Medina was at the head of the line. He was followed by two radio operators. They were followed by an interpreter. Then is was Lieutenant Alieux, then it was me. I was followed by Capezza (Nicholas Capezza, a medic), and there was a rifleman behind him."

"Just after we got into the village, I saw a group of eight to 12 people who were shot. They were mostly women and children," Capezza said.

His testimony appeared less positive under cross examination.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey asked Martin "did you ever actually see Medina at this point?"

"I just can't recall ever having been separated from the command group," Martin replied.

"Where was Captain Medina."

"All I was doing was following the man in the command group."

"If Captain Medina says he was not in the village, but went around the south end of the village, can you dispute it."

"I guess that's true, I'm not very well oriented."

Bailey planned to continue cross-examination of Martin Wednesday.

Message Received

Capezza, the medic from Queens N.Y., testified before Martin and mentioned nothing about entering the village. He said Medina received a radio message from an unidentified superior officer who asked if civilians were being killed.

Capezza said Medina replied he didn't know, but would find out.

Medina radioed Lt. William L. Calley, Capezza testified, and demanded "what the f— is going on"

"Had you ever heard Medina talk that way to Calley before" asked assistant prosecutor Capt. Frank Wurtzel.

"Usually in person, but not over the radio," Capezza replied.

Two members of a helicopter crew, Capt. Hugh C. Thompson Jr. of Decatur, Ga., and his door gunner, Lawrence Colburn of Mt. Vernon, Wash., said they saw an unidentified captain shoot at a wounded Vietnamese woman outside the hamlet.

Thompson said "he walked up to her, nudged her, stepped back, turned around, started to walk away, turned back around and shot her."

Colburn said "I remember him rolling her over with his foot. she was lying on her back. And then he shot her."

Both said they had no idea who the officer may have been. Thompson said he had earlier marked the site of the wounded woman with a smoke bomb — not knowing that the ground troops believed a smoke bomb marked enemy troops or weapons.

Import Tax May Cancel Out The Availability Of TV Dinner

Buenos Aires (UPI) — Argentine meat packing officials have warned that President Nixon's new 10% import tax may deprive the American housewife of her Saturday night friend: the frozen TV dinner.

"The tax is strictly discriminatory against South American beef shipments because it does not apply to fresh beef shipped to the United States from Australia and New Zealand," said Enrique Holmberg.

"We can't compete if we have to pay the tax and they don't," added Holmberg, president of Swift De La Plata, Argentina's biggest packing firm.

But Marcelo Ordonez, general manager of the firm, drove the point right into American kitchens:

"The people who put out the frozen chopped beef, roast beef and other meat and gravy dinners in the States will stop producing before they buy high-priced fresh U.S. beef for the dinners," he said.

Swift De La Plata, one of seven or eight giant packing plants in Argentina, shipped about $70 million worth of canned and frozen cooked beef to the United States last year. South American countries are not permitted to ship fresh beef to the United States because of to the United States because of hoof and mouth disease in some Latin American countries.

Among the South American beef products which are abundant on stateside grocery shelves now are canned corned beef, canned roast beef and gravy and the meat in frozen TV dinners. Such firms as Cambell, Morton and Banquet buy Argentine meat products.

Uruguay and Brazil also ship a great deal of frozen cooked beef and beef products to the U.S.

"New Zealand and Australia ship fresh beef to the States and, since they are on a quota system, they will not be affected by the new tax," said Ordonez. "But our processed beef, which is already under a 10% tax, will now get slapped with an extra 10.% And, as you know, Argentina's beef business is already in a bad way."

William Waller Wins Nomination For Governor

Jackson, Miss (UPI) — Former prosecutor William L. Waller won the Democratic nomination for governor Tuesday night in a stunning upset over Lt. Gov. Charles Sullivan.

The 44-year-old Jackson attorney automatically became a heavy favorite to defeat Charles Evers, the state's first black candidate for governor, in November.

Both men were considered moderates, and Sullivan won the seven-man field in the first primary. But Tuesday night Waller took away from Sullivan 18 of the counties he won three weeks ago.

With 1,731 of the 's 2,063 precincts reporting — 83.9% of the vote — Waller had 316,494 (53.7% to 273,101 for Sullivan.

Methodists Urged To Combat Injustice

By LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

Ministries and missionaries of the United Methodist Church must address themselves to combatting oppression and injustice rather than heathenism in today's world, an official of the church's women's division said Tuesday.

Miss Theressa Hoover, associate general secretary of the Women's Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions, made the comment in a morning address before participants gathered for the nine-day Board of Missions Women's Division conference.

"The first period of the missionary enterprise, the 1800s, saw American and European missionaries going out to other parts of the world with a twofold goal: to Christianize and to civilize the heathen," she said.

Early 20th Century

"The second period came into being during the early and mid-1900s. Development was seen to be the educational goal: deliverance was to be won not from heathenism but from underdevelopment, primarily economic."

The church today is moving into the third period, a period which also has a "salvation motif," Miss Hoover said. But deliverance is "from oppression and injustice, rather than from heathenism or underdevelopment."

A key concept in the process of freeing all humanity from oppression is "conscientization — the awakening of consciousness, a change of mentality involving an awaremess of one's place in society," she said.

Miss Hoover told the assembly of church women they must realize their full human potential as women before they will be able to assist in bringing about necessary changes in society.

THERESSA HOOVER . . . says church moving into third period.

"In dealing with human rights we are transcending boundaries of nation, race, sex and religion. In probing the role of women we are saying to ourselves and to the church and world, that women as persons have concern for issues confronting mankind . . . and we must have a meaningful role in discovering ways to deal with those issues," she said.

The Bible reveals certain attitudes about womankind that do not sit well with women of today, Miss Hoover said, offering this explanation for such biblical attitudes: "The Bible and interpretation of scripture has been done by people — to this date, men."

The seminar of the Women's Division of Board of Missions began Monday at the Nebraska Center and will end next Tuesday. The women's division is the national policy-making body for about 1.6 million United Methodist women in 36,500 organized units throughout the United States.

$800 Million Released For Mortgages

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The government moved Tuesday to make more bank funds available to keep mortgage rates down, but stopped short of imposing a freeze on future mortgage rate increases.

Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, announced at a news conference Tuesday a far-reaching program intended to free up to $800 million for use by mortgage lenders.

The added supply of funds for loans is intended to reduce any upward pressure on interest rates.

The program reduces the minimum liquidity requirement on savings and loan associations, which are regulated by the FHLBB from 7½% to 7%, making more money available for them to lend. Savings and loan associations are a principal source of home-loan funds.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp., an affiliate of the bank board, is instituting a special purchase program for Federal Housing Authority and Veterans Administration loans that would reduce the charges to the homebuyer on these loans, Martin said.

The action would reduce the charge on a $20,000 loan by $600 — or three so-called discount points.

Martin said the board's action was taken after consultation with both the Federal Reserve Board and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Yemen Gets Army Chief As New Head

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — A new government was formed in Yemen Tuesday with a former army commander-in-chief, Lt. Gen. Hassan el Amri as prime minister, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

Abdulla Asnag, one of the leaders of the anti-British rebellion in neighboring South Yemen, was appointed foreign minister in Amri's 14-member cabinet, the agency said in a dispatch from Sana, capital of the South-East Arabian peninsula Nation.

Asnag, head of the once powerful Trade Union Congress in South Yemen has lived in exile in North Yemen since South Yemen won independence, from Britain in 1968.

His appointment underscores a growing friction between the two neighboring states. Yemen is supported by Egypt and Saudi Arabia and South Yemen has ties with Communist China.

South Yemen's president, Salem Robaye, charged last month that Asnag and his Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen were preparing an invasion to overthrow him.

Illinois Provides Opportunity Act For Handicapped

Chicago (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie of Illinois has signed an equal opportunity act for the handicapped.

The legislation says that disabilities cannot be the sole disqualifying factor when a person seeks employment or housing.

"The day of ignorance is — the handicapped — the same opportunity for a decent life given to every other citizen of this state."

Post Offices To Be Closed On Labor Day

All departments of the Main Post Office and all postal stations will be closed Labor Day, Sept. 6.

No mail deliveries will be made on city or rural routes, according to Lincoln Postmaster Kenneth Lewis, and holiday collections will be limited.

Federal Rainfall Waters Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — For the first time, federal rainmakers in Oklahoma called out the big guns—apparently to advantage Monday.

A spokesman for the experimental project said an Altus-based C97 capable of dumping 1,000 gallons an hour of amonium nitrate urea into likely looking clouds worked in the skies over Rush Springs, Sterling, Marlow, Lindsay, Purcell, Goldsby and Norman.

It was already raining in some of the areas but the amounts apparently increased after the operation and hail was reported in Norman.

Two smaller aircraft worked south of Shawnee and north of Duncan producing rain where there had been none, then produced a heavy rain southeast of Wenoka.

Moderate rains were produced later in Woodward.

Complainers Complain

Rochester, N.Y. (UPI) — City officials, who said they were receiving too many complaints about the manner in which the city's complaints bureau was operating have ordered a large-scale overhaul of the agency, it was revealed.

Garbage Not Cheap

Chicago — America spends $3.4 billion a year to collect garbage and an additional $1.1 billion to deposit it somewhere else.

Marcos Explains Measure

Manila (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos said Tuesday he had to order emergency security measures in the Philippines because Communist terrorists were planning to burn down Manila and kidnap and assassinate government leaders.

Marcos appeared on nationwide radio and television for the second time in two days to explain his proclamation suspending the writ of habeas corpus which allows national police authorities to search without warrants, arrest and detain suspects for as long as necessary.

Marcos said military authorities have in their possession a list of suspected Communist subversives and that arrests were being carried out. He said he had referred to a panel of lawyers "voluminous documents" linking an opposition senator, Benigno S. Aquino Jr., with the subversives.

The proclamation was issued shortly after the grenade attack at a political rally in Manila Saturday night that killed eight persons and wounded nearly all the top leaders of the opposition liberal party. The attack was followed by at least six more bombing incidents in the greater Manila area.

"There is a plot and a conspiracy to wreak vengeance not only against government officials but innocent civilians. The targets included a plan to burn down Manila and kidnaping, not only in Manila but also in other areas. This is why I acted," Marcos said.

Campbell Plans To Be Revealed

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha Chamber of Commerce has scheduled an Aug. 31 news conference at which time the Campbell Soup Co. will unveil plans for a 704-acre industrial and residential park southwest of Omaha.

The chamber said the development "has great potential as a significant asset to the great Omaha area."

Martin said the board's action was taken after consultation with both the Federal Reserve Board and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Yemen Gets Army Chief As New Head

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — A new government was formed in Yemen Tuesday with a former army commander-in-chief, Lt. Gen. Hassan el Amri as prime minister, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

Abdulla Asnag, one of the leaders of the anti-British rebellion in neighboring South Yemen, was appointed foreign minister in Amri's 14-member cabinet, the agency said in a dispatch from Sana, capital of the South-East Arabian peninsula Nation.

Asnag, head of the once powerful Trade Union Congress in South Yemen has lived in exile in North Yemen since South Yemen won independence, from Britain in 1968.

His appointment underscores a growing friction between the two neighboring states. Yemen is supported by Egypt and Saudi Arabia and South Yemen has ties with Communist China.

South Yemen's president, Salem Robaye, charged last month that Asnag and his Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen were preparing an invasion to overthrow him.

Illinois Provides Opportunity Act For Handicapped

Chicago (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie of Illinois has signed an equal opportunity act for the handicapped.

The legislation says that disabilities cannot be the sole disqualifying factor when a person seeks employment or housing.

"The day of ignorance is — the handicapped — the same opportunity for a decent life given to every other citizen of this state."

Federal Rainfall Waters Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — For the first time, federal rainmakers in Oklahoma called out the big guns—apparently to advantage Monday.

A spokesman for the experimental project said an Altus-based C97 capable of dumping 1,000 gallons an hour of amonium nitrate urea into likely looking clouds worked in the skies over Rush Springs, Sterling, Marlow, Lindsay, Purcell, Goldsby and Norman.

It was already raining in some of the areas but the amounts apparently increased after the operation and hail was reported in Norman.

Two smaller aircraft worked south of Shawnee and north of Duncan producing rain where there had been none, then produced a heavy rain southeast of Wenoka.

Moderate rains were produced later in Woodward.

Marcos Explains Measure

Manila (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos said Tuesday he had to order emergency security measures in the Philippines because Communist terrorists were planning to burn down Manila and kidnap and assassinate government leaders.

Marcos appeared on nationwide radio and television for the second time in two days to explain his proclamation suspending the writ of habeas corpus which allows national police authorities to search without warrants, arrest and detain suspects for as long as necessary.

Marcos said military authorities have in their possession a list of suspected Communist subversives and that arrests were being carried out. He said he had referred to a panel of lawyers "voluminous documents" linking an opposition senator, Benigno S. Aquino Jr., with the subversives.

The proclamation was issued shortly after the grenade attack at a political rally in Manila Saturday night that killed eight persons and wounded nearly all the top leaders of the opposition liberal party. The attack was followed by at least six more bombing incidents in the greater Manila area.

"There is a plot and a conspiracy to wreak vengeance not only against government officials but innocent civilians. The targets included a plan to burn down Manila and kidnaping, not only in Manila but also in other areas. This is why I acted," Marcos said.

Engineer Hoppe Defends His No-Bid Procedure

. . . IN BUYING CATERPILLAR ROAD GRADERS

County Engineeer Walt Hoppe Tuesday questioned whether savings occur just because a bid procedure is used to purchase major equipment.

In a prepared statement defending his no-bid procedure in buying road graders from one particular local supplier, Hoppe said the Caterpillar Co. has figures certified by public accountants that the average operating cost of its motor graders is $1.16 per hour as compared with other makes at $1.89 per hour.

The county engineer had recently come in for criticism by County Commissioner Robert Colin and from Lincoln daily newspapers over his purchase of road graders from Lincoln Equipment Co. without taking competitive bids.

He challenged City Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey as well as the newspapers to produce figures proving that the city's method saves the taxpayers the $47,000 cost of the salaries of the purchasing office staff in comparison with the county's practice of allowing department heads to be responsible for purchases with the approval of the county board.

Taxpayer, He Says

Hoppe said in regard to buying from a Lincoln dealer that the Lincoln Caterpillar Company paid personal and real estate taxes in excess of $35,000 and has 90 employe families living in Lincoln.

"Does Lincoln receive any benefit from taxes paid in Omaha" he asked, addressing his remark to the city's purchase of a road grader from an Omaha firm because of the lower cost.

He also inferred that dealing with a local firm does not result in down-time delays because of waiting for parts. He said the county did not have a machine out of service more than 24 hours because of the lack of parts. Hoppe recalled an instance in which the city had to wait three weeks to repair a motor grader because of waiting for parts to arrive from out of town.

Considerable Savings

Harvey said afterwards in a reply to Hoppe's comments that the city does save considerably through competitive bidding. He added that the city does not always choose the lowest bid, but evaluates bids on a number of factors.

He estimated the city saves 10-15% on purchases through the bidding procedure.

Harvey said bids are invited from anyone who deals with a particular product, not just local firms.

"We don't believe in buying (locally from one) just because he is a local bidder," he said.

Otherwise, Harvey said, the city could conceivably pay a higher price whereby the taxpayers would be subsidizing the businessman.

Commissioners Will Allow Use Of Empty Office Area

The Lancaster County Board Tuesday decided to allow Public Defender Clem Gaughan to use vacant offices in the county commissioners' office area until remodeling of the fourth floor of the County-City Building is completed.

The county commissioners at the same time decided to postpone action possibly until next April, on the remodeling which would provide facilities for the public defender and the Conciliation Court.

The reason for the postponement is the lack of money.

Commissioner William Grossman said the building fund does not have the money in it, nor will have until tax money starts coming in.

The remodeling cost has been estimated at $28,000. The commissioners included $5,000 in the budget for the remodeling.

The board decided to meet Wednesday when all three commissioners will be present to adopt the budget and set the mill levy. Chairman Kenneth Bourne was out of town Tuesday.

One of the items of discussion will be whether to cut the budget to reflect an estimated $20,000 in savings that came about with the freeze on employe salaries.

Dollar Crisis, Aftermath Hits International Relations

London (UPI) — The dollar crisis and its aftermath have soured relations between the United States and Europe. The mutual disenchantment in the view of European diplomats cannot but affect the future of the western alliance.

The United States has found little support from its European allies in the latest crisis during which it hoped for support from them at a crucial stage of U.S. history.

Europeans in turn resented the U.S. go-it-alone tactics which threw the precarious monetary arrangements in international markets into confusion, with consequences to them that cannot as yet be fully assessed.

Europeans, moreover, consider the American move to curb foreign imports as a danger signal of potentially worse and more unpleasant things to come. They fear the imposition by the United States of an import levy could be the first step toward a wider strategy of protentionism that could throw international trade into disarray.

Worse still, some European political and economic leaders sense the danger of a slow turn to some form of isolationism on the part of the United States which they believe could play havoc with western, notably European security.

Already there is fresh talk among European leaders and members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) of a likely partial pullout of U.S. forces from the continent.

President Nixon denied similar rumors which swept through Europe earlier this year when pressures in the United States were building up for a phased American withdrawal from Europe as well as from Vietnam.

Latest diplomatic speculation touched off by the dollar crisis has suggested that the United States may pull out by next year about 100,000 men, or about one-third of its overall strength, from Europe. Domestic pressures, heightened by the dollar crisis and the general malaise arising from the Vietnam war, are cited among the things that are likely to determine the Nixon administration's policy.

By contrast the "Yankee Go Home" cries have petered out in Europe, where they were raised in years past as a gesture of defiance against the United States.

European politicians and NATO planners are now seriously worried that an American pull-back, even in a token form, could seriously harm the west's defense posture. They fear, above all that the mere prospect of an American pull-back would cause the Russians to hesitate to reduce their troops in Europe and instead to await unilateral U.S. action.

European diplomats hold that the longer the present crisis is allowed to linger, the deeper and more lasting effects the rift could have on the frayed U.S.-European relationship.

Meany Lashes Out At Nixon; Says Freeze Robs Workers

Miami Beach (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said Tuesday President Nixon's wage-price freeze "robs the American workers of millions of dollars" while industry pockets new profits.

He said Nixon "seeks to make labor a scape goat for the sorry performance of this administration."

In a speech before the United Transportation Union convention, Meany also lashed out at presidential economic advisor Dr. Arthur Burns, calling him "one of those semi-skilled intellectuals who play with other people's lives."

No Apology

The union leader said Burns was the architect of Nixon's economic game plan, "but Burns made no apology for the failure of the plan, no explanation as to why it failed.

"In fact, he was promoted to chairman of the Federal Reserve Board where he undoubtedly can do more mischief," Meany said.

"If Burns was a Russian Commissar, he would have been sent to Siberia," he said.

Meany said wage earners were bearing the brunt of the freeze while major industries were allowed to increase profits and stock dividends.

Being Robbed

"The employer now gets the money you should get in your pay envelopes. The workers are being robbed of millions of dollars," the union leader said.

Turning to recently negotiated UTU-Railroad contracts which were frozen by the President's action, Meany said, "This will cost railroad workers $25 million."

Meany said the union would be active politically in 1972 and would work against the President if the economic picture doesn't brighten.

Meany said labor doesn't "accept the idea the President has the power to negate legal contracts with the stroke of a pen."

"If that is so, we will go back to negotiation and if the freeze costs us money, we will negotiate to get that money back."

Canada Will Dismantle Bomarc Nuclear Antiaircraft Missiles

©The New York Times

Ottawa — Canada plans to dismantle the Bomarc antiaircraft missiles whose installation nine years ago caused a national political controversy because they carried United States nuclear warheads.

Defense Minister Donald S. MacDonald said Tuesday that the government had decided the weapons were obsolete, even though Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird had urged maintaining the present Bomarc installations at North Bay, Ontario, and La Macaza, Quebec.

The Canadian leaders said they had become persuaded, however that the chief military threat to Canada was no longer one to be met by subsonic missiles in eastern Canada designed to intercept invading bombers.

MacDonald's statements, at a news conference, accompanied the publication of a white paper that declared: "The Bomarc missiles sited in Canada were a relatively important contribution in the days when a full antibomber defense existed to defend urban industriial targets as well as to protect the deterrent which consisted largely of the U.S. bomber force."

MacDonald said that despite differences with Laird over retirement of the two Bomarc squadrons, involving 500 military and civilian personnel, Canada would link herself firmly with the United States in other aspects of North American defense.

MacDonald mentioned no specific replacement for the Bomarc. However, he insisted that in the 1970's when the danger is "large-scale nuclear attack on North America," that Canada would retain the principle of close military cooperation with the United States.

He made clear that this would not involve Canada in any United States antiballistic missile system, but rather in giving all the assistance she could to surveillance and warning systems needed to protect the United States ability to retaliate against nuclear attack.

Accordingly, Canada plans to assign three CF-101 Voodoo interceptor squadrons to take over all interceptor tasks in eastern Canada now partly performed by United States jet planes.

Canada will continue to allow United States Strategic Air Command refueling tankers to land at Goose Bay, Newfoundland and American bombers to fly over Canada.

While eliminating the Bomarcs will save the Canadian treasury $5 million a year, the Defense Department budget will go up, MacDonald disclosed, by about $18 billion from the current figure of $1.8 billion. The armed forces as of 1973 will total 83,000 instead of 82,000.

Plans call for dismantling the bomarc stations by Sept. 1, 1972. The defense minister said Canada had turned down a request that North Bay be designated an alternative North American air defense command headquarters in the event that the main base at Colorado Springs, Colo., was knocked out by a nuclear missile. North Bay is a key communications center in the antibomber command and control system.

Neither MacDonald nor the white paper mentioned any Canadian plan to involve Canada in the United States anti-ballistic missile system.

Response 'Excellent' To Freeze

Kansas City (AP) — President Nixon's wage and price freeze has met with an excellent initial response from the public in mid-America, a federal official said Tuesday.

Francis X. Tobin, regional director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, met with newsmen here to outline his plans for conferences with state officials in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska within the next few days.

He also announced that the OEP office here, set up last week to oversee the freeze in the four states, will become a permanent facility.

'Just Hurried It'

"We were thinking of doing this all along, and the freeze just hurried it up," he said. Previously, the agency's Denver office has had responsibility for the area.

Tobin will confer Thursday morning with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes at Jefferson City, Mo., and Friday afternoon with Kansas Gov. Robert Docking at Topeka. News conferences are scheduled to follow both sessions.

Briefings for the Govs. J. James Exon of Nebraska and Robert D. Ray of Iowa will be held at undetermined times early next week, Tobin said.

He conceded that the real test of public acceptance of the freeze, which has passed only 10 of its scheduled 90 days, is yet to come. So far, however, he said, "I think the public response has been excellent, really.

When the 10 regional directors met in Washington last Sunday, the consensus across the country was pretty much the same. There's been very little dissatisfaction expressed."

Tobin said that as of Tuesday morning his office had received 39 complaints of possible violations of the freeze, and that all were presently under investigation.

No Local Action

Any legal action on complaints will be taken by the Justice Department from Washington, rather than locally.

All but a few of the complaints have been concerned with prices of various consumer goods, and a handful have involved rents, he said. In the first days of the freeze, when the OEP office here was fielding 1,600 calls a day, the prices most frequently questioned were those of gasoline, he added.

This situation arose primarily from permissible increases under the provision of the freeze which sets the price ceiling at the highest level in effect during the 30 days prior to Aug. 15, he said.

Much of the telephone-answering burden has been distributed to local Soil Conservation Service and Internal Revenue Service offices, which have been used to create some 3,100 information and complaint stations across the country.

Complaints to these local stations are referred to the OEP office, where further action on them is coordinated.

Ruppen Will Head Vets Hospital

Howard M. Ruppen of Washington, D.C., who has had 25 years experience in Veterans Administration hospital administration, has been named director of the Lincoln VA Hospital, Rep. Charles Thone announced Tuesday.

Effective in 30 days, Ruppen will succeed Gaylord V. Morton, who has been acting director since the death of Dr. Lad Kucera.

Dr. Kucera had been named in July to take over upon the July 31 retirement of Dr. J. Melvin Boykin.

Ruppen is presently hospital administrator for the regional office of the VA that has jurisdiction over Nebraska. He has been assistant director of VA hospitals in Clinton, Iowa, Perry Point, Md., and Downey, Ill., and personnel officer of VA hospitals in Pittsburgh and Butler, Pa.

He is a graduate of Duquesne University and received intensive training in hospital administration at the Hines VA Hospital in Chicago.

Nixon Apprehensive Over Vietnamese Election

•The New York Times

Washington — The Nixon administration was reported Tuesday to be apprehensive over the political situation in South Vietnam following events that have left President Nguyen Van Thieu as the only candidate campaigning for next October's presidential elections.

Reflecting this concern, the State Department's spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, said that a coup d'etat in Saigon against Thieu would be a "most unfortunate development." He said, however, that the United States had no "evidence" that such a coup might be in preparation.

In San Clemente, Calif., White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that "we are studying the implications of the situation."

Telegrams Sent

Other White House officials said the South Vietnamese political situation was "fluid to some extent" and that there has been a continuous exchange of telegrams on the subject in the last 24 hours between President Nixon and the American Ambassador in Saigon, Ellsworth Bunker.

Monday, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky withdrew from the election, even though a reversal by the South Vietnamese Supreme Court of one of its previous rulings had reinstated his name on the ballot, on which it will stay. Last week, the second potential rival to Thieu, Gen. Duong Van Minh, pulled out from the race, charging Thieu with election rigging and fraud.

At the State Department news briefing, McCloskey took the unusual step of volunteering a comment on coup possibilities in Saigon even before reporters raised the subject.

"I sense in this room the speculation that coup efforts might be mounted," he said. "We have no evidence to that effect, although it is understandable speculation in this period because of the political dissatisfaction manifested over the past week."

Later, however, McCloskey said that no special significance should be attached to the phrasing he had used.

Tension Concern

Other State Department officials said the administration's concern was greater over tensions expected to build up in Vietnam as a result of Thieu's uncontested candidacy than over a military coup d' etat.

They said that such tensions might lead to "decomposition" of political life in the country, risking authoritarian behavior by Thieu and possibly violent responses by his opponents that might lead to chaos.

"This would not only be dangerous to Vietnamese stability but immensely embarrassing to the United States," a State Department official commented.

Speaking privately, some State Department officials also took issue with the explanations in Saigon Tuesday that all American troops in South Vietnam had been placed on alert because of fears that Communists would seek to disrupt next Sunday's elections for the lower house of the National Assembly.

Highly placed officials said there were no credible intelligence reports to indicate that Communists had such plans. On the contrary, they said, all the signs were that the Vietcong had decided to use the elections to seek to infiltrate their sympathizers into the assembly's membership.

They said that for the last two weeks, Vietcong radio propaganda directed at Communists supporters had concentrated on appeals to vote for candidates acceptable to the Vietcong.

Communist Strategy

American analysts said that the Communist strategy, as the Vietnam war was winding down, appeared to be aimed at securing key places in the Saigon political structure in anticipation of a showdown in the future with the Thieu forces and the United States.

McCloskey refrained at his briefing from citing Communist plans to disrupt the elections Sunday as a reason for placing American troops on alert.

He said the alert had been ordered, with the concurrence of Bunker, because of indications that "dissident elements may engage in anti-American demonstration or activities."

McCloskey said such dissidents are "not necessarily exclusively Communists," adding that "political dissatisfaction was demonstrated during last week."

Other officials said there were signs of resentment by many South Vietnamese against the United States involvement in Saigon politics through Bunker's conference with Thieu and other South Vietnamese political figures.

Five Overcome By 'Sewer Gas' At Uehling Plant

Uehling (AP) — The Oakland, police said five men were overcome by gas in a storage bin at the Uehling De-Hy plant just outside town Tuesday.

Williard Heyne, owner of the plant, said maintenance man Bill Hittle and plant manager Jim Malone were both overcome by what he said was "sewer gas."

Heyne said the gas was not poisonous but there was a lack of oxygen in the bin.

Oakland police said three other men were also overcome during rescue attempts, however all have been listed in good condition at an Oakland hospital.

Response 'Excellent' To Freeze

Kansas City (AP) — President Nixon's wage and price freeze has met with an excellent initial response from the public in mid-America, a federal official said Tuesday.

Francis X. Tobin, regional director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, met with newsmen here to outline his plans for conferences with state officials in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska within the next few days.

He also announced that the OEP office here, set up last week to oversee the freeze in the four states, will become a permanent facility.

'Just Hurried It'

"We were thinking of doing this all along, and the freeze just hurried it up," he said. Previously, the agency's Denver office has had responsibility for the area.

Tobin will confer Thursday morning with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes at Jefferson City, Mo., and Friday afternoon with Kansas Gov. Robert Docking at Topeka. News conferences are scheduled to follow both sessions.

Briefings for the Govs. J. James Exon of Nebraska and Robert D. Ray of Iowa will be held at undetermined times early next week, Tobin said.

He conceded that the real test of public acceptance of the freeze, which has passed only 10 of its scheduled 90 days, is yet to come. So far, however, he said, "I think the public response has been excellent, really.

When the 10 regional directors met in Washington last Sunday, the consensus across the country was pretty much the same. There's been very little dissatisfaction expressed."

Tobin said that as of Tuesday morning his office had received 39 complaints of possible violations of the freeze, and that all were presently under investigation.

No Local Action

Any legal action on complaints will be taken by the Justice Department from Washington, rather than locally.

All but a few of the complaints have been concerned with prices of various consumer goods, and a handful have involved rents, he said. In the first days of the freeze, when the OEP office here was fielding 1,600 calls a day, the prices most frequently questioned were those of gasoline, he added.

This situation arose primarily from permissible increases under the provision of the freeze which sets the price ceiling at the highest level in effect during the 30 days prior to Aug. 15, he said.

Much of the telephone-answering burden has been distributed to local Soil Conservation Service and Internal Revenue Service offices, which have been used to create some 3,100 information and complaint stations across the country.

Complaints to these local stations are referred to the OEP office, where further action on them is coordinated.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

A boy in white T-shirt came off the terrace, put a Calypso record on the phonograph and said:

"You want a Planter's Punch" He was about 18 and black as a yard up a stovepipe.

"Maybe. Why should I."

"Ev'body come to Virgin Islands from the north drink Planter's punch. How much you smoke a day." He showed a set of front teeth like a row of sugar loaves.

"A pack. Maybe a pack and a half."

"Man here las' week," said the boy, "he smoke a car-toon a day! One car-toon ev'y day! He buy one case cigarette. Send to the States. He say cheaper here. My name's Wilfred."

"What's in a Planter's punch, Wilfred."

"Rum, Meyer's rum."

"Make one for me, Wilfred. Make me a car-toon of them."

There are 32,000 people like Wilfred in the 48 American Virgin Islands.

They are mainly jet-black. The native Indians of the Caribbean didn't hold up under white rule. The Danes, like the British, Spanish and Dutch, brought in slaves from Africa to work the rum and sugar cane.

There were enough English and Scottish overseers to give the islands the English language. But not enough of them to mix the color as in the mainland U.S. and Puerto Rico.

The Virgin Islander speaks a clipped English with a few African and a few Spanish words.

It sounds like the British island talk to me. "Mahn, it mek you brek de hot," I heard on the street the other day. Meaning, I'm heartbroken."

But people here assure me the British islands such as Jamaica have an accent that is entirely different.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Virgin Islands were discovered by Columbus on his second voyage. The inquisitive Genoeses landed at the mouth of Salt River on St. Croix.

In the late 1600s, the Danes took it over with the rest of the Virgin Islands. They brought in African slaves and English overseers and raised sugar cane.

At various times, the island flew seven different flgas. (It's interesting that the native name for wasp is "Jack Spaniard.")

Columbus called the island "Santa Cruz." Sometime during French occupation it became St. Croix — which means the same thing: Holy Cross.

These American territorial islands are tropical. The noonday sun is not for walking around. And the first thing the tourist must do is buy a straw planter's hat.

Put one of these on. Stay on a shady porch and have them bring you a tall, iced rum with pineapple juice. With a little imagination, you can feel what it was like when the old stone ruins of the sugar mill on the hill was grinding with wooden rollers. When Wilfred's great grandfather cut cane, and yellow fever and malaria and smallpox and rum cut down the white overseers.

And all over these treasure seas, the Spanish and English and Dutch fought for the islands that produced the white granulated gold of the Caribbean.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is the off-season in the islands. Half prices in the million-dollar hotels. Duty-free imports in the Virgin Islands free-port shops.

"How much you drink ev'y day?" asked Wilfred.

"I don't know. Maybe a couple of drinks. Why, Wildred?"

"That man smoke one cartoon cigarette each day, he drink one bottle each day"

Clearly, this smoking lush had fascinated Wilfred.

"What did he drink?"

"Anyt'ing. Rum. Whiskey. Gin. Drink one bottle!"

City Gets Water From Its Glacier

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — This University community of 60,000 nestled against the Rocky Mountains is the only city in the world to get its water from a city-owned glacier.

The clear, soft water comes from Arapahoe glacier, 28 miles to the west atop the Continental Divide.

Afternoon Wedding

The marriage of Miss Nancy Ellen Chesnin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leon Chesnin, to Charles Coren, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Coren of Rockford, Ill., took place at the Tifereth Israel Synagogue on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 15.

Alike, floor-length frocks of embroidered green organza were worn by the attendants, including matron of honor Mrs. Harold Chesnin of New York, N.Y.; bridesmatrons Mrs. Sidney Chesnin of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Don Gotthalf of Rockford, Ill.; and bridesmaids Miss Gloria Coren and Miss Rachel Coren, both of Rockford, Ill.

Alfred Coren of Rockford, Ill., served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Sidney Chesnin of Chicago, Ill., Harold Chesnin of New York, N.Y., Don Gotthalf of Rockford, Ill., and Gary Chesnin.

Silk organza and peau d'ange lace over taffeta fashioned the bride's gown. The lace formed the rouleau collar and was repeated on the tucked, fitted bodice. The Bishop sleeves were widely cuffed with the lace, and the lace-accented skirt was a demi-bell silhouette. Back interest was given the gown by a lace-bordered train of cotillion length. A portrait bow held in place her shoulder-length veil of imported silk illusion,

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, Mr. Coren and his bride will reside in Chicago, Ill., where he is a senior at the Illinois College of Optometry. The bride is a senior at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and Mr. Coren is a graduate of Northern Illinois University at DeKalb.

Attendants Named

Announcing plans this morning for an August wedding is Miss Cliftine Charbonneau, whose marriage to Gregory Hinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hinkle, will be an event of Saturday, August 28.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Charbonneau of Falls City, the bride-to-be has named Miss Aletia Berkemeier as her maid of honor for the 2 o'clock service, to be solemnized at Christ Lutheran Church in Falls City. Attending Miss Charbonneau as bridesmaid will be Miss Angela Foster of Omaha.

Gary Nichelson will serve as best man, and the groomsman will be Mark Diez.

On Sunday evening, August, 1, Mrs. Jerry Snaw, Mrs. Albert Shaw, Mrs. Jack Shaw and Mrs. Dick Diez hosted a miscellaneous shower for the bride-elect.

Another recent courtesy took place on Saturday, August 7, when Mrs. Jim Harkendorff of Lincoln and Mrs. Erwin Harkendorff of Falls City hosted a luncheon at the Elks Club in Falls City.

Miss Charbonneau's fellow University of Nebraska students, all who are physical education majors, hosted a miscellaneous shower on Wednesday evening, August 11 at the home of Miss Aletia Berkemeier. Miss Berkemeier was joined by Miss Rosie Blodgett as hostess.

On Saturday, August 21, Mrs. Albert Becker of Lincoln will be the hostess for a linen shower in Falls City.

MISS TERESA HARTLEY

Worley Family Holds Reunion

We're catching up with news of a family reunion this morning. It was a family reunion which took place the weekend of Aug. 14 and 15th.

The incentive for the gathering of the clan was Mrs. Carl H. Worley whose children, grandchildren — and even great-grandchildren came from near and far for a visit with their mother, their grandmother or great-grandmother—and with each other.

The festivities began on Saturday with a dinner at the Homestead where Mrs. Worley is a resident —

The next day — Sunday — the family celebrated the reunion with dinner at the Hillcrest Country Club, and that is where our photographer found them.

Those attending were Mrs. Worley's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Unker and their children of Scarsdale, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Worley and their family who came from Omaha; another son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Dennis of St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Worley of Chicago, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Jean H. Worley of Ralston, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tom Worley of Lincoln.

In the back row are Maurice C. Worley, Lloyd T. Worley, Mrs. Carl Worley, Gordon R. Worley and Jean H. Worley.

TOWN TALK

Since we didn't come to the end of our guest story yesterday, we'll delve into another chapter this morning.

We did mention the fact that there were some soon-to-arrive visitors on our mind, and those visitors are arriving tomorrow. They are Mrs. Melvin Goldblatt (Phyllis Overman) and the two Goldblatt children, Justine and Daniel, and they will plane in from Mill Valley, Calif., for a visit with Mrs. Goldblatt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Overman.

There is the possibility that Mr. Goldblatt, whose name is well known in the circle of film producers on the west coast, may accompany his family to Lincoln, but that possibility is somewhat remote due to business in the east — and London.

Water drenched ladies are smiling at us to buy a soft drink. This advertising sign dates from the 1890s.
(Dr. Pepper Collection)

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

Advertising seems more direct today with the product name and package clearly seen. It was in the late 19th century that stores began using posters featuring named products. The writers were not sure what kind of ad would help to sell the product. Beautiful women and scenic views were favored for some products. Comic ads or testimonials were used for others.

Early advertising posters, especially those made on paper are in great demand by collectors. They present the history and thinking of a past era. The customs of dress, furnishings and work are clearly shown.

Fat-faced girls in Grecian draperies cavorting in the waves are featured in one ad of the 1890s. The smiling sex symbols of the day gave no indication that they were trying to get you to buy a soft drink.

Q. Seventy years ago my father bought a small Chinese bowl. It was broken in six pieces and a skilled craftsman mended it by using a special type of staple. Is this a unique collectors item?

A. For years the only way to mend broken china was with metal rivets. Your bowl is an example of that work. We now have excellent glues that will not discolor and will hold indefinitely. Some glues are even boil proof. Pieces that were riveted are not valued by today's collector because the rivets are an unsightly repair. We agree it took skill. Our daughter was given a rare Chinese Export bowl 2½ inches long with 15 rivets. Remarkable skill but not good for the antique's appearance.

Q. We have a half gallon blue glass jar marked "The Marion Jar, Mason's patent, Nov. 30, 1858." It has many imperfectons including a crooked neck.

A. Your fruit jar was made by the Marion Fruit Jar and Bottle Company of Marion, Indiana. They worked from 1890 to 1904. The company was purchased by Ball Brothers in 1904. Many jars have the date 1858 included in the mark. This was the date of the first patent for the closure. It is not the date the jar was made.

Q. Is a folding key worth keeping?

A. Folding keys were in common use during the third quarter of the 19th century. They were factory made. Locks were still large and big keys were a necessity. Keys have been known since the days of the ancient Romans. Folding keys predating 1850 are known.

Q. My blue bell paperweight is obviously an ad for the telephone company. I am sure it is old.

A. The blue bell as a symbol for long distance telephoning was first used about 1890. The paperweights were made from about 1907 to 1940. They were made from light to dark blue glass.

So Sew

BY GAIL HERSTEAD

While peeking over a judge's shoulder at the Singer World Stylemaker review and the 4-H Style Review, I learned what counts in garment construction and fashion rightness and discovered that the home sewer needs to take these same points into consideration for each sewing project.

By alloting fifty points apiece to construction and fashion rightness or over-all appearance, one comes up with a resounding one hundred points — a winner for sure if one has accurately self-judged sewing and fashion ability. Acquiring the skill to judge one's own work requires a driving self-demand which encompasses the qualities of a critical eye, pride in one's work — and yet humility . . . humility to rip a garment apart and begin anew and humility to admit a style error.

The fashion right decision happens at the pattern and fabric counter when one should question the (1) fabric suitability to figure and pattern, (2) coordination of trims, (3) color coordination, (4) suitability to height, weight and age, (5) individuality and (6) accessories.

When that is taken care of and the garment is beginning to take shape, keep in mind the following construction pointers, (1) accuracy of cutting on the grain, (2) suitability of interfacing, lining, and interlining to fabrics, (3) uniformity, stitch quality and blending of seams, (4) facings, zippers, hems and buttonhole finishing, (5) pressing and (6) fit.

What is your score?

FROM THE NEEDLE'S-EYE . . . American Wool Council reminders include the following quips and quotes—Balzac, the French satirical novelist was once asked to comment on women and dress and remarked, "I've never seen a badly dressed woman who is agreeable and good humored." — If you were in business you would not hesistate to put the product you are selling into the most attractive container. The most important product you have to sell is yourself. Your clothes and grooming are the package you present to yourself and the public—the First two ingredients in a costume are fabric and pattern design and the third ingredient is you.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I am a bright, well-educated girl, just turned 30, and I work as a secretary for a fascinating gentleman who's 57. I've been around a bit, and ever since I've known this man (some seven years) I haven't met anyone my own age who is as attractive. They haven't the sophistication, sense of humor, ability to enjoy life — you name it, he has it. I guess I'm in love.

I've seen this man thru a couple of superficial office affairs — nothing alarming. His wife is his age, charming, knowing, and holding on.

He's been giving me some pretty long looks lately, and I don't know how much longer I can hold out. I know I'll never find another job as good as this one, and I doubt if I'll ever find a man as attractive.

Should I try to win him? Or would that be dirty pool? I've heard that no woman can break up a really good marriage. What do you say?

CONFEDERATE

DEAR CONFEDERATE: It's not only "dirty pool," it's asking for a kick in the pants. You could probably get your name added to his list of "superficial office affairs," but your chances for anything lasting and "real" look mighty slim from this side of the typewriter.

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather large rump and my husband doesn't like me to wear a girdle. I am far from "firm," and I feel so sloppy without one, but every time I wear a girdle my husband starts in on me.

This has caused a slight rift between us. What should I do?

RUMPELSTILSKENS

DEAR RUMP: Wear pantyhose. They'll sort of bring everything together.

Discover A Child's World

BY PHYLLIS WOOLEN

CASE II

Jane entered kindergarten just two weeks ago. As are most children her age, she seemed very happy with the prospects of attending school. In fact, for the first two weeks or so she seemed very content with her new routine, and there was no suggestion that anything might be wrong.

One morning, without forewarning, Jane refused to return to school. Gentle parental coaxing seemed to be of no avail. When her parents took her to school in spite of the protestations, Jane's refusal became massive, and she would not enter the classroom.

DISCUSSION

Parents tend to erroneously conclude in a case such as this that the source of the problem is something that has occurred to the child in the classroom.

What school refusal usually means is that in some way the child has developed a fear of what may develop at home during his absence. In many instances, a conflict between his parents have led him to feel that his presence would hold them together. This is not always unfounded, for often when parents are having marital problems, they might even go so far as to say that the only reason they are staying together is because of the child.

Another inscrutable fear of the child is the feat of abandonment. Mother or father, in a fit of anger, may have threatened to "just pack up and leave." In some situations, the parent may not have even said it, but the child will sense that this might be the case.

A mother who really doesn't want to part with her child may also run into problems with sudden school refusal if the child senses her reservation.

While the tendancy on the part of some parents and unsophisticated teachers might be to let the child play sick for a while, that kind of approach will only serve to heighten the problem.

Although it may seem cruel or harsh to send the protesting child right back into the classroom, we discover that most often this is reassuring to the child. Teachers report that once the child is left in the classroom, he is usually happy.

The homefront must then be sensitively examined to discover the origin of the fear. In the service of finding out, talk it over with the child. It is not always a serious problem, and through open discussion it may often be alleviated.

(Send problems you would like discussed in this column to: A Child's World, The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Ne. 68501. All letters will be kept confidential.)

Ecology

A traveling panorama exhibiting conservation, environment and ecology action messages by eight of the leading national organizations in the field will arrive in Lincoln on Aug. 31.

The National Panorama of Conservation Action showing in Lincoln, which is sponsored by the Junior League of Lincoln, incorporates giant trans-illuminated color photographs.

Presenting a message of hope, as well as detailing the many areas of ecology calling for public support and action, the Panorama allows the viewer to directly compare national programs.

The exhibit will be open at the Cengas offices, 144 South 12th, through Sept. 4.

Equality Day Celebration

Women's Equality Day will be celebrated nationally on Thursday, Aug. 26 — the 51st anniversary of women earning the right to vote.

The national observance will be officially recognized by the State of Nebraska on Wednesday morning, Aug. 25, when representatives of the Lancaster County Democratic Women's Club, and their president Mrs. Jerry Kromberg, gather in the governor's office to look on as Gov. J. J. Exon signs a proclamation.

A number of Lincoln women's groups will sponsor a Women's Equality Day celebration on Thursday evening, Aug. 26. The meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock on the north steps of the Capitol.

Women's leaders from throughout the state will participate, and the public is welcome to attend.

MONEY MATTERS

By LINDA OLIG

(The Budget—Part III)

One fundamental of modern-day society is doing things together—as a family unit.

Psychologists, churchmen, and all other professionals, as well as advertisers, stress the importance of having meals together, family outings, and all other forms of "togetherness."

Working as a unit is another form of the "togetherness" theme—and it's also true for setting up a family budget.

Family councils for working out the budget and making it work are stressed by all of the experts. Budgeting should be a joint project, and both the husband and wife should be competent at it, according to Dr. Gary D. Hansen of the University of Nebraska. "They both should know where the money is going and which family goals are being accomplished," he said.

The children, also, sould be included in the budgeting sessions — they can help formulate the goals and objectives and offer helpful opinions about making the best use of family funds.

Children should understand how the money is spent and the limitations they will have placed on them—particularly where it comes to school clothes, allowances and recreation, said Dr. Hansen.

However, Dr. Hansen added, children should be protected from some financial anxieties—particularly if there is a conflict between the mother and father and if the family is nearing financial indebtedness.

EVALUATION — is the next step in budgeting, and a very important step at that. It means reviewing and refiguring.

You should check your financial program frequently and revise it when necessary to meet changing conditions or to save in a certain area.

The best way to go about it is to keep a record of all expenses, find the actual total for each category, and then figure the percentage. Then you may want, or need, to adjust, either up or down, your planned expenses for that category.

And don't, under any circumstances, forget to include savings, both for emergencies and long-range goals, in your personalized budget.

MAKING CENTS — Budget planning can guide you to make the choices that will benefit or satisfy your family most, and it will help to put the financial picture in clear perspective.

So Sew

BY GAIL HERSTEAD

While peeking over a judge's shoulder at the Singer World Stylemaker review and the 4-H Style Review, I learned what counts in garment construction and fashion rightness and discovered that the home sewer needs to take these same points into consideration for each sewing project

'By alloting fifty points apiece to construction and fashion rightness or over-all appearance, one comes up with a resounding one hundred points — a winner for sure if one has accurately self-judged sewing and fashion ability Acquiring the skill to judge one's own work requires a driving self-demand which encompasses the qualities of a critical eye, pride in one's work — and yet humility humility to rip a garment apart and begin anew and humility to admit a style error

The fashion right decision happens at the pattern and fabric counter when one should question the (1) fabric suitability to figure and pattern, (2) coordination of trims (3) color coordination, (4) suitability to height, weight and age, (5) individuality and (6) accessories

When that is taken care of and the garment is beginning to take shape, keep in mind the following construction pointers, (1) accuracy of cutting on the grain, (2) suitability of interfacing, lining, and interlining to fabrics (3) uniformity, stitch quality and blending of seams, (4) facings, zippers, hems and buttonhole finishing, (5) pressing and (6) fit

What is your score?

FROM THE NEEDLE'S-EYE . American Wool Council reminders include the following quips and quotes—Balzac, the French satirical novelist was once asked to comment on women and dress and remarked, "I've never seen a badly dressed woman who is agreeable and good humored" — If you were in business you would not hesistate to put the product you are selling into the most attractive container. The most important product you have to sell is yourself Your clothes and grooming are the package you present to yourself and the public—the First two ingredients in a costume are fabric and pattern design and the third ingredient is you

DEAR ABBY I am a bright, well educated girl, just turned 30, and I work as a secretary for a fascinating gentleman who's 57 I've been around a bit, and ever since I've known this man (some seven years) I haven't met anyone my own age who is as attractive They haven't the sophistication, sense of humor, ability to enjoy life — you name it, he has it I guess I'm in love

I've seen this man thru a couple of superficial office affairs — nothing alarming His wife is his age, charming, knowing, and holding on

He's been giving me some pretty long looks lately and I don't know how much longer I can hold out I know I'll never find another job as good as this one, and I doubt if I'll ever find a man as attractive

Should I try to win him? Or would that be dirty pool? I've heard that no woman can break up a really good marriage What do you say?

CONFEDERATE

DEAR CONFEDERATE: It's not only "dirty pool," it's asking for a kick in the pants. You could probably get your name added to his list of "superficial office affairs," but your chances for anything lasting and "real" look mighty slim from this side of the typewriter.

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather large rump and my husband doesn't like me to wear a girdle I am far from "firm," and I feel so sloppy without one, but every time I wear a girdle my husband starts in on me.

This has caused a slight rift between us. What should I do?

RUMPELSTILSKENS

DEAR RUMP: Wear pantyhose. They'll sort of bring everything together.

Discover A Child's World

BY PHYLLIS WOOLEN

CASE II

Jane entered kindergarten just two weeks ago As are most children her age, she seemed very happy with the prospects of attending school. In fact, for the first two weeks or so she seemed very content with her new routine, and there was no suggestion that anything might be wrong

One morning, without forewarning, Jane refused to return to school Gentle parental coaxing seemed to be of no avail When her parents took her to school in spite of the protestations, Jane's refusal became massive, and she would not enter the classroom

DISCUSSION

Parents tend to erroneously conclude in a case such as this that the source of the problem is something that has occurred to the child in the classroom

What school refusal usually means is that in some way the child has developed a fear of what may develop at home during his absence. In many instances, a conflict between his parents have led him to feel that his presence would hold them together This is not always unfounded, for often when parents are having marital problems, they might even go so far as to say that the only reason they are staying together is because of the child.

Another inscrutable fear of the child is the feat of abandonment. Mother or father, in a fit of anger, may have threatened to "just pack up and leave" In some situations, the parent may not have even said it, but the child will sense that this might be the case.

A mother who really doesn't want to part with her child may also run into problems with sudden school refusal if the child senses her reservation.

While the tendancy on the part of some parents and unsophisticated teachers might be to let the child play sick for a while, that kind of approach will only serve to heighten the problem.

Although it may seem cruel or harsh to send the protesting child right back into the classroom, we discover that most often this is reassuring to the child. Teachers report that once the child is left in the classroom, he is usually happy.

The homefront must then be sensitively examined to discover the origin of the fear. In the service of finding out, talk it over with the child. It is not always a serious problem, and through open discussion it may often be alleviated.

(Send problems you would like discussed in this column to: A Child's World, The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Ne. 68501. All letters will be kept confidential.)

Ecology

A traveling panorama exhibiting conservation, environment and ecology action messages by eight of the leading national organizations in the field will arrive in Lincoln on Aug. 31.

The National Panorama of Conservation Action showing in Lincoln, which is sponsored by the Junior League of Lincoln, incorporates giant trans-illuminated color photographs.

Presenting a message of hope, as well as detailing the many areas of ecology calling for public support and action, the Panorama allows the viewer to directly compare national programs

The exhibit will be open at the Cengas offices, 144 South 12th, through Sept 4

Equality Day Celebration

Women's Equality Day will be celebrated nationally on Thursday, Aug. 26 — the 51st anniversary of women earning the right to vote.

The national observance will be officially recognized by the State of Nebraska on Wednesday morning, Aug. 25, when representatives of the Lancaster County Democratic Women's Club, and their president Mrs. Jerry Kromberg, gather in the governor's office to look on as Gov. J. J. Exon signs a proclamation.

A number of Lincoln women's groups will sponsor a Women's Equality Day celebration on Thursday evening, Aug 26 The meeting will be held at 7.30 o'clock on the north steps of the Capitol.

Women's leaders from throughout the state will participate, and the public is welcome to attend.

MONEY MATTERS

By LINDA OLIG

(The Budget—Part III)

One fundamental of modern-day society is doing things together—as a family unit

Psychologists, churchmen, and all other professionals, as well as advertisers, stress the importance of having meals together, family outings and all other forms of "togetherness"

Working as a unit is another form of the togetherness' theme—and it's also true for setting up a family budget.

Family councils for working out the budget and making it work are stressed by all of the experts Budgeting should be a joint project, and both the husband and wife should be competent at it, according to Dr Gary D. Hansen of the University of Nebraska "They both should know where the money is going and which family goals are being accomplished," he said.

The children, also, sould be included in the budgeting sessions — they can help formulate the goals and objectives and offer helpful opinions about making the best use of family funds

Children should understand how the money is spent and the limitations they will have placed on them—particularly where it comes to school clothes allowances and recreation, said Dr Hansen

However, Dr Hansen added, children should be protected from some financial anxieties—particularly if there is a conflict between the mother and father and if the family is nearing financial indebtedness

An 'Eye' On "Macbeth"

Members of the Nebraska Repertory work with crewmen of ETV for the taping of "Macbeth."

On a hot day in August, when most people's pleasure would be a cool swim spot or sheltered air conditioning, the cast members of the Nebraska Repertory Theatre along with the crew members of Educational Television were diligently working on ETV's most ambitious cultural presentation in an unairconditioned room at Lincoln High School.

This fall we will see the fruits of their labor, a one-hour version of the Repertory's production of "Macbeth."

As we entered the large room which housed 'lights, camera and action', we discovered that taping a show for television is far from all glamour. The young actors and actresses who were not in rehearsal relaxed in booths and on the floor, trying to beat the heat with a soft drink.

We stopped and visited with Margaret Hawthorne, a member of the Repertory who plays Lady Macbeth. Margaret felt that while taping the show was a good experience, that the stage offered more space and a more intimate atmosphere.

On the makeshift stage which had been designed by Art Kuhr of ETV for the taping of "Macbeth", a scene was in progress.

"Places", executive producer Allan Singer called out, and the well-trained Repertory group followed the direction. Rehearsals for the taping had been held the week before for three days. Now into the second day of taping, the actors were finding that even their polished performances required great concentration for the eye of the camera.

"Action," production assistant Pat Wylder directed, and the camera started rolling. At the end of the scene, TV producer-director Ron Nicodemus consulted with some other members on the production end, and asked that a part of the scene be replayed. A bit weary, but goodheartedly, the actors once again got ready for the camera.

Much of the initiative for the filming of "Macbeth" was the idea of the late Dallas Williams of the University of Nebraska theatre department. Following negotiations with theatre play direcor Robert Hall and theatre production stage manager Dave Elliott, ETV decided to take on the challenge of video-taping the show.

A Bit Of Historical Cuisine

Take a step back in history, to the 18th Century when Williamsburg was the capital of Virginia and the center of its official hospitality. This colonial city was actually planned to accommodate the large numbers of people who would naturally come to the place of the general assembly and courts.

Today, the famed restoration of Virginia's colonial capital is so remindful of the city which served as capital and metropolis from 1699 to 1799.

The Virginia housewife was constantly entertaining — at breakfast, dinner and supper. Dinner, the most important meal of the day, was served at two or three o'clock in the afternoon. The first course featured large cuts of meat, whole fowl and fish with supplementary meat dishes of almost any kind. The second course included smaller cuts of meats, game birds and seafood dishes surrounding a variety of desserts — puddings, pies, cakes, jellies.

Desserts were made to please the eye as well as the palate. Here is one of them.

COLONIAL CARAWAY CAKE

5 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups sugar
1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine, softened
2 teaspoons caraway seed
¾ teaspoon orange extract
1⅔ cups unsifted flour
Confectioners' sugar

Combine egg whites and salt in large mixing bowl. Beat until mixture is frothy; gradually beat in ½ cup sugar. Continue beating until mixture holds firm peaks; set aside.

Cream butter or margarine and remaining 1 cup sugar until very light. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat in caraway seed and orange extract; blend in flour. Fold in half the meringue, then fold mixture into remaining meringue. Turn mixture into a greased and floured Bundt pan or 10-inch tube pan. Cut through batter with spatual or knife.

Bake at 300-F. 60 to 70 minutes, or until edge of cake leaves sides of pan. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar before serving. Makes one 10-inch tube cake.

Opening lead — king of spades.

A few years ago somebody came up with the idea that a jump-shift response one level higher than necessary shows a void in that suit, good trump support and a potential slam. Hence the three spade bid.

Certainly the North hand is made to order for such a convention. Once partner bids a heart, North should start thinking in terms of a slam, despite only 12 high-card points.

However, he does not know whether South's high cards are where they are needed. South may have great spade strength and three losing clubs, or great club strength and weaknesst in spades.

A three diamond response to one heart would not solve the problem, for all it would do is alert South to the possibility of a slam without specifying the spade void and the heart fit. Furthermore, it would also suggest greater high card values.

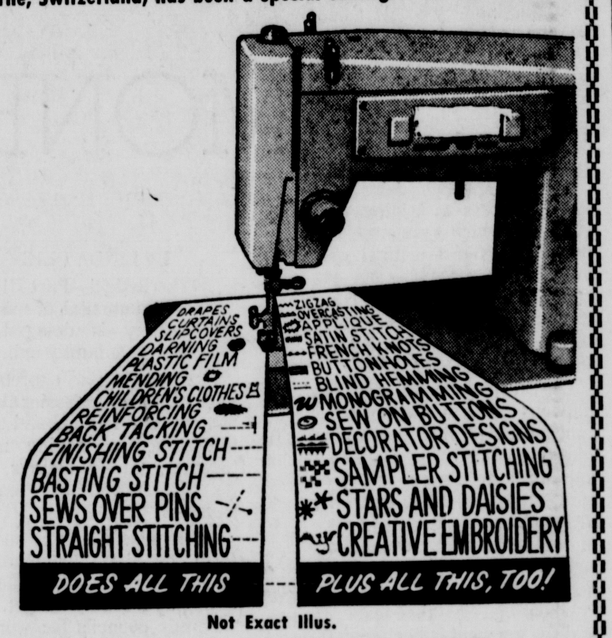

But a three spade bid, under the convention, gets the message across perfectly. It enables South to cuebid clubs, since he knows that his comparatively few high cards are in exactly the right places.

North is of course delighted to hear about club control, and his only remaining problem is South's trump strength.

This he investigates by involking the grand slam force. Five notrump commands South to bid seven hearts with two of the three top trump honors. In replying to five notrump, South does not reason why — he simply follows orders by responding seven hearts.

South does not know what kind of hand North has for his bids — he simply hopes his partner has not suddenly gone berserk.

Lodge News — The "Sunday Journal and Star" has it.

More Than 500 Nebraskans Indicate Interest In 'TV High School'

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission was told Tuesday more than 500 Nebraskans have already written the ETV network saying they want to enroll in a "TV high school" course.

"TV high school" will be broadcast statewide over the ETV network starting Sept. 20.

Network Education Coordinator Richard Raecke said the 500 requests had been received, despite the fact that thousands of flyers distributed around the state were barely into the hands of interested citizens.

Most of the requests so far have been by letter, he said.

To Be Promoted

Raecke also told the commission at its monthly meeting that the high school program will be the major item promoted at the commission's State Fair booth.

A cooperative venture of the commission and the State Department of Education, "TV high school" will reach any Nebraskan who has access to broadcast on the state's network.

It will be broadcast evenings and will prepare the student for the high school equivalency test.

The program will be aimed at adults who have not finished high school, noting a person must be at least 18 to take the high school equivalency (GED) exam.

Limited At Fair

In other matters, Network Program Manager Ron Hull said State Fair coverage this year would be limited to horse shows on Sunday and Wednesday of fair week, and to the 4-H "sing out" on Monday evening.

General Manager Jack McBride said that is all the broadcasting possible in the face of a stringent operating budget.

Raecke also said "The Electric Company," a remedial reading program produced by the Children's Television Workshop, will begin Oct. 25.

Hansen Files To Be Delegate At Large

Stuart E. Hansen of Norfolk has filed with the secretary of state as candidate for delegate at large to the 1972 Republican national convention, pledged to the renomination of Richard M. Nixon for president.

Matador Likes The Big Money—But Small Bulls

San Diego, Calif. (AP) — Matador Adrian Romero is as quick with his wit as he is with his cape.

The 28-year-old bullfighter from Mexico City, who earned two ears and two laps around the arena in Tijuana, Mexico, Sunday, was asked at a luncheon Monday whether he is ever afraid in the ring.

"The state of California is small compared to the size of my fear," Romero joked. "I'm the biggest chicken I know."

If that's the case, what does he like about it? With a smile he replied.:

"The things I like best about bullfighting are the big money and the small bulls. The smaller the bulls, the better I like it."

Elephants Sold

Bulawayo, Rhodesia (AP)—Rhodesia has found a new export business in baby elephants. Overseas buyers have been found for 30 young pachyderms. Because of United Nations economic sanctions against this unrecognized republic, officials declined to say where the elephants are bound.

Birds Given Names

Washington (AP)—Ornithologists searching for precise nomenclature have devised many colorful bird names, the National Geographic Society says. Among them are the great racket-tailed drongo, yellow-bellied waxbill, black-spotted bare-eye, red-whiskered bulbul, turquoise-browed motmot, rufous-browed pepper shrike and blue-faced booby.

School Board Nears Action On Several Building Plans

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday moved from the discussion stage to the action stage on a number of building projects, but delayed a decision on planning for a possible new elementary school.

At the recommendation of Supt. John Prasch, the board withheld a decision related to elementary school needs in south Lincoln, pending a study of fall enrollment data.

But the board, also at Prasch's urging, moved closer to a major revamping of the junior high situation, including calling for planning committee reports:

—in October on educational specifications for an addition at Goodrich Junior High.

—in November on specifications for gymnasium additions at Irving and Lefler.

—in February on specifications for a new junior high school on the city's east side.

Actions Assume

The actions assume long-range plans to vacate for junior high purposes both Whittier and Everett Junior Highs.

The expansions at the three existing schools will permit eventual transfer of students attending Whittier and Everett, and the new east-side junior high will permit moving all younger students out of East High School.

Whittier is slated to become a community school under the auspices of the Lincoln Technical College and Everett will probably be used exclusively for a program for the trainable mentally retarded when Irving and Goodrich can handle the Everett students.

The board also voted to proceed with plans to construct a driver education "range" on part of the large parking lot at East High, and to develop immediately a kindergarten play area at Meadow Lane Elementary.

Master Site Plan

The board action also calls for a master site plan development for each school and suggests improvement of school sites at the rate of two each year.

All of the actions, long in the planning stages, were recently reviewed at an informal session of the board.

On another matter, the board was told that a slight change in assessed value from the district's estimate will result in a minor drop in the anticipated mill levy.

The board had assumed a valuation of $390 million, while the county board's figure is $188,410 more than that.

Levy To Dip

The result is that the levy for support of district operations will be 54.853, rather than 54.952. The funding level will not change from earlier-announced figures, however.

The board also:

—Authorized Prasch to submit to the State Department of Education a budget for expenditure of federal "Title I" funds. Use of the funds has made news recently because of a ruling excluding payment of salaries for teaching aides in parochial schools.

—Approved expansion of the transportation plan to add one bus route from north of Highway 2 to Huntington Elementary.

—Authorized conversion of three buses to liquid propane power on a pilot basis.

—Awarded to Beatrice Foods a one-year contract for milk and other dairy products. Total expenditures are estimated to hit nearly $300,000 this year.

Ray L. Noyd Is Bound Over

Columbus (AP) — Ray L. Noyd, 22, of Columbus, was bound over to Platte County District Court Tuesday on three counts of selling or delivering marijuana.

Platte County Judge William Goetz continued bond at $500 on each count.

Noyd is one of 19 persons who will appear on drug charges in County Court following a crackdown on illegal use of drugs.

Catacombs Become Real Underworld For Car Thieves

Rome (UPI) — Police reported the existence Tuesday of a real underworld — a flourishing car-stealing racket operated from the catacombs of ancient Rome.

Officials said 6,000 or more stripped automobiles may be in the catacombs, which honeycomb the soil of Rome for hundreds of miles.

Police said they recovered 83 automobiles in July alone and have so far arrested 15 men.

The catacombs are a system of galleries running as deep as 300 feet in which the ancient Romans used to bury their dead.

Because of their labyrinthine complexity and absolute darkness, police said they have been able to explore only a fraction of the tunnels relatively near the surface.

Police said car thieves drove their hauls into the tunnels through concealed entrances and stripped them of everything valuable on a virtual assembly-line basis, leaving only the frames.

"They make the cars up in Turin," one official said. "Here they unmake them."

Officials guessed the thieves have made use of many of the catacombs under the old Appian Way and they said the racket probably still is continuing despite police surveillance.

The catacombs are so vast and the entrances so many that it would take a small army of men to stop the thieves, the officials said.

Honda Wants Trade

Tokyo (AP) — Honda Motor Co., a major Japanese automobile and motorcycle maker, said today it is sounding out Communist China on the possibility of exhibiting its compact cars and motorcycles at the Canton Trade Fair this fall.

PINT-SIZED HERO

A smiling Jeff Bowen, 7, holds a life saving certificate presented to him by Iowa Governor Robert Ray at the Iowa State Fair. The son of Mr. and Mrs Victor Bowen of Keota, Jeff was credited with saving the life of Garry Norris of Cedar Rapids, whose foot was caught in an auger.

So. Korean Quits Over Prison Revolt

Seoul (UPI) — Defense Minister Jung Nae-Hiuk of South Korea resigned Tuesday because of a revolt in a military prison Monday in which 14 guards and 18 prisoners were killed.

President Park Chung-Hee accepted Jung's resignation and appointed Yu Chae-Hung, 50, as his successor in the key cabinet post. Yu, a retired arm lieutenant general, had served as a special assistant to Park on security matters.

A total of 24 military prisoners staged a revolt early Monday on an island off Inchon, 20 miles west of Seoul. They killed 14 prison guards and wounded another, then seized a boat and sailed to the mainland.

Blew Themselves Up

The escaped prisoners next commandeered a bus in Inchon and drove to Seoul. Four of the escapees were killed in clashes on the island and in Inchon, and 14 others blew themselves up with grenades after reaching Seoul. Six were wounded and captured.

On the way to Seoul, the escapees shot to death one policeman and five civilians. They wounded 14 civilians, one soldier and two policemen.

Ranking members of the National Assembly met with Premier Kim Jong-pil, Jung and other ranking officials to learn details of the incident, which initially was mistaken for a raid on Seoul by North Korean agents.

'Special Criminals'

Jung stressed that the prisoners were "special criminals" under the custody of the air force and held in isolation on Shiimi Island off Inchon.

Jung said he believed frustation from living in isolation for a prolonged period led the prisoners to mutiny.

The incident resulted also in the resignation of Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Kim Too-Man. Kim quit because the prisoners had been under air force custody.

Spilled Oil Stains Beach At Western White House

San Clemente, Calif. (AP) — The Western White House beach was reported stained Tuesday with heavy black warship fuel oil spilled at sea.

A Navy spokesman said, "some oil is on the President's beach." There was no official word of how much.

Ronald Ziegler, President Nixon's press secretary, said there was "some" oil on the beach but that it was being cleaned up.

The oil was not expected to interfere with Nixon's swimming, Ziegler said. There is a pool for the Nixons at their home here.

Nearby, 75 Marines and 25 sailor volunteers from the tanker ship blamed for the spill were picking up globs of oil the size of baseballs.

The slick itself was virtually unchanged from Monday, a Coast Guard helicopter pilot said after flying over it. He estimated the slick was still about 35 miles long in a broken, black finger mostly 5 to 15 miles from shore.

The Marines sent in bulldozers to clean away chunks of oil, mostly the sizes of quarters and half-dollars, which the servicemen were picking up by hand.

An attempt to contain the oil by surrounding it with a newly developed protein substance failed to work properly in the open seas, the Navy said.

The substance, described as heavier than oil but lighter than water, had been expected to form a "liquid boom" barring the oil from land. Meanwhile, a 1,000-foot floating boom was tied around Oceanside harbor south of the Western White House and a smaller line protected Dana Point on the other side.

The spill was blamed on the Long Beach-based Navy tanker Manatee. A sailor apparently left open an oil delivery valve after the ship had finished refueling the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga last Friday.

Idaho Sen. Says He Will Not Seek Re-election In 72

Boise, Idaho (AP) — U.S. Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, a 10-year veteran of the Senate, announced Tuesday he does not plan to seek re-election in 1972.

Jordan, 72, was appointed to the Senate in 1962 following the death of Sen. Henry C. Dworshak. He was elected that fall to serve the remaining four years of Dworshak's term and won a six-year term in 1966.

"My health is good. I believe I am still electable for another term," Jordan said. "It is a good time to step down when one has a fair chance for another term."

Jordan is a former state legislator and was governor of Idaho from 1951-55.

Hastings Family Gives Funds For Carillon Tower

Vermillion, S.D. (AP) — A Hastings, Neb., family has financed a 90-foot tower for a carillon at the University of South Dakota.

The late John Quirk, chairman of the board of the Morrison-Quirk Grain Co. of Hastings, gave $40,000 for the construction of the tower which is expected to begin soon.

His widow and children gave $50,000 for the tower and landscaping. Both Quirk and his wife attended the University.

The carillon is expected to be completed next May.

Student Picketing Car Dealer After Buying A Lemon

Houston, Tex. (AP) — A University of Houston student who believes he got a bad deal from Sharpstown Dodge here won the right Monday to keep on picketing the company.

Joel M. Selsky, started picketing the car firm Aug. 7 with friends after he said a 1968 Corvette he purchased from the company was not as represented. "I'd like to take the car back and get my money back," he said Monday.

District Court Judge William N. Blanton refused to temporarily restrain Selsky and his friends from picketing the dealer.

The judge said he could not see where Selsky and his friends were violating the law or were about to cause grievous harm.

Sharpstown Dodge President G. F. Waecherly claimed Selsky was blocking the company's entrances and exits and was stopping traffic along the road, affecting its business.

City Buys Man Boots

Thurrock, England (AP) — Albert Goodyear, who is 7 feet, 2 inches tall, wore open-toed sandals on the job because he had a hard time finding boots that fit. But the town council said the sandals violated safety rules, so it found and bought him a pair of size 16 boots.

Lynch Hospital Loan Approved

Washington (AP) — Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., announced Tuesday the Small Business Administration has approved a loan of $206,250 to assist in construction of a hospital at Lynch.

The loan will be made to the Niobrara Valley Development Corporation.

The total cost of the project has been estimated at $415,000.

More Than 500 Nebraskans Indicate Interest In 'TV High School'

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission was told Tuesday more than 500 Nebraskans have already written the ETV network saying they want to enroll in a "TV high school" course.

"TV high school" will be broadcast statewide over the ETV network starting Sept. 20.

Network Education Coordinator Richard Raecke said the 500 requests had been received, despite the fact that thousands of flyers distributed around the state were barely into the hands of interested citizens.

Most of the requests so far have been by letter, he said.

To Be Promoted

Raecke also told the commission at its monthly meeting that the high school program will be the major item promoted at the commission's State Fair booth.

A cooperative venture of the commission and the State Department of Education, "TV high school" will reach any Nebraskan who has access to broadcast on the state's network.

It will be broadcast evenings and will prepare the student for the high school equivalency test.

The program will be aimed at adults who have not finished high school, noting a person must be at least 18 to take the high school equivalency (GED) exam.

Limited At Fair

In other matters, Network Program Manager Ron Hull said State Fair coverage this year would be limited to horse shows on Sunday and Wednesday of fair week, and to the 4-H "sing out" on Monday evening.

General Manager Jack McBride said that is all the broadcasting possible in the face of a stringent operating budget.

Raecke also said "The Electric Company," a remedial reading program produced by the Children's Television Workshop, will begin Oct. 25.

Matador Likes The Big Money—But Small Bulls

San Diego, Calif. (AP) — Matador Adrian Romero is as quick with his wit as he is with his cape.

The 28-year-old bullfighter from Mexico City, who earned two ears and two laps around the arena in Tijuana, Mexico, Sunday, was asked at a luncheon Monday whether he is ever afraid in the ring.

"The state of California is small compared to the size of my fear," Romero joked. "I'm the biggest chicken I know."

If that's the case, what does he like about it? With a smile he replied.:

"The things I like best about bullfighting are the big money and the small bulls. The smaller the bulls, the better I like it."

Elephants Sold

Bulawayo, Rhodesia (AP)—Rhodesia has found a new export business in baby elephants. Overseas buyers have been found for 30 young pachyderms. Because of United Nations economic sanctions against this unrecognized republic, officials declined to say where the elephants are bound.

Birds Given Names

Washington (AP)—Ornithologists searching for precise nomenclature have devised many colorful bird names, the National Geographic Society says. Among them are the great racket-tailed drongo, yellow-bellied waxbill, black-spotted bare-eye, red-whiskered bulbul, turquoise-browed motmot, rufous-browed pepper shrike and blue-faced booby.

Federal Money To Be Asked To Study State's N-Plants

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The legislative study committee on public power Tuesday decided to seek federal funding for a comprehensive study of Nebraska's two nuclear power plants.

In the meantime, the committee laid plans to tour the plants sometime in September.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, the committee's chairman, said he is concerned about possible radiation problems and other environmental effects.

With costs of the two plants now double their original estimates, Carpenter said, he is also concerned "whether the power companies are operating in the public interest."

$250,000 Million

The Nebraska Public Power District is constructing an 800,000 kilowatt nuclear unit near Brownville. Its estimated cost of $130 million has now risen to $250 million.

The Omaha Public Power District is building a 457,000 kilowatt unit near Fort Calhoun. Its original estimate of $77 million is now at $150 million.

Both units are being constructed along the Missouri River.

The Legislature has a duty to determine how much of a "hazard," if any, the two plants represent for Nebraskan, Carpenter said.

Citizen lawsuits over safety aspects or environmental concerns could prevent completion of the plants if the public is not satisfied that they are safe and acceptable to the environment, he said.

A number of committee members were critical of the costs of construction.

"We seem to have opened up the gates," Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said.

Carpenter said electric consumers will be "shocked" by the rate increases which they will receive as a result of the construction costs, as well as other factors.

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland said the power districts have been unable to control costs "because of changing government regulations" which govern nuclear construction.

"The people have lost complete control of public power," Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa said.

Through expansion and merger. the districts have become so large that they are beyond effective citizen control, he said.

"The delegation of authority (through elected boards of directors) has gotten so far away from the people that they've lost interest," Nore said.

Flags To Be Lowered In Honor Of Thompson

The flags at the Capitol and the Governor's mansion will fly at half-staff Wednesday in honor of Army Lt. John Thompson of Lincoln who was killed in Vietnam.

PLANNING FOR AIR QUALITY NEEDED

Bailey Harbor, Wis. (AP) — Midwest attorneys-general were warned Tuesday that states must come up with plans for air quality standards by January or face plans imposed by Washington.

Although the Clean Air Act of 1970 requires air quality standards to be met by 1975, each state is required to submit a plan for implementation of those standards no later than January, said George V. Allen, deputy assistant administrator for enforcement of the Environmental Protection Agency.

He delivered the keynote address at an air pollution session which led off the three-day annual summer conference of the Midwestern Association of Attorneys General.

"It will be the duty of you attorneys general to make sure your environmental protection agencies realize their legal responsibilities under this program," Allen said. "If this fails, the whole air pollution control program fails."

The implementation plan, Allen said, must include legislation giving the pollution control agency in each state a number of enforcement powers, including injunctive powers, emergency action powers, power to prevent construction of new pollution sources, the right to make all gathered data public, regardless of trade secrets claims, and the power to require installation and use of monitoring devices.

If such plans are not made, federal plans will be imposed, Allen said.

Safe Crackers Steal Diamonds Worth $500,000

Hong Kong (AP) — Robbers cracked a heavy iron safe in the office of a Hong Kong trading company and stole diamonds worth more than $500,000, police reported Tuesday.

The safe was in the office of United Agencies Ltd., whose managing director, Victor J. Zirinsky, is also Israel's honorary consul in Hong Kong. A spokesman said Zirinsky is at present in New York on a business trip.

Unlicensed Insurance Firm Fined

The Guaranty National Insurance Co. of Phoenix, Ariz., has been fined $2,000 by Hayes County District Court for transacting insurance business in Nebraska without a license, according to State Insurance Director Samuel Van Pelt.

Van Pelt noted that similar charges have been filed in Douglas County District Court against the United Equitable Life Insurance Co. of Chicago, Ill., and that charges are pending against another unlicensed insurer in Boone County District Court.

"This criminal conviction should serve as a warning to all companies not licensed in Nebraska that they must obtain a license before transacting any business in this state or face a criminal conviction and possibly a $10,000 fine," Van Pelt said.

The action brought by Hayes County Atty. Terry E. Savage was under the Nebraska Unauthorized Insurer's Act passed by the 1969 Legislature.

The act is patterned after the Model Act formulated the National Association of Insurance Companies.

Van Pelt said he believed it was the first successful criminal prosecution under the act in any state.

Kid's Zoo Animals Are Slaughtered By Park Vandals

Harrison, N.Y. (AP) — Vandals broke into the children's zoo at the West Harrison Memorial Park Monday night and killed or mutilated nearly all of its 21 small animals, police said.

Harrison police were called to the park Tuesday by John Mediros, maintenance man, who discovered the plucked, skinned and mutilated carcasses of 17 small animals when he reported to work.

A rooster, a guinea pig, a pigeon and a small monkey were the only animals apparently quick enough to escape the vandals' attack.

The vandals, police said, had broken into a maintenance building to get tools to pry open the outdoor cages of the animals.

The dead animals included two racoons, 10 rabbits, three chickens and two pigeons, whose carcasses had been skinned or plucked and their blood smeared on windows, police said.

School Denied Request For A New Trial

The State Court of Industrial Relations Tuesday denied a request for a new trial by the Mid-Plains Vocational-Technical School at North Platte.

The previous ruling by the court ordered 5 teachers reinstated who had been fired for involvement with a teachers' union movement.

Judge John Baylor in issuing the denial said the decision hinged on a constitutional guarantee providing that no person shall be fired for involvement with a labor organization.

Attorneys for the school said a decision will be made later on whether to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Approval of a Small Business Administration loan resulting in creation of 25 new jobs in Lincoln was announced Tuesday by Rep. Charles Thone.

The loan will assist Ideal Supermarkets of Nebraska in purchasing land, constructing a building and buying equipment and fixtures.

The SBA loan of $100,000 to the West O Development Co., will be used together with a $100,000 loan from a Lincoln bank and $50,000 of West O funds to provide a new store for Ideal.

School Board Nears Action On Several Building Plans

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday moved from the discussion stage to the action stage on a number of building projects, but delayed a decision on planning for a possible new elementary school.

At the recommendation of Supt. John Prasch, the board withheld a decision related to elementary school needs in south Lincoln, pending a study of fall enrollment data.

But the board, also at Prasch's urging, moved closer to a major revamping of the junior high situation, including calling for planning committee reports:

—in October on educational specifications for an addition at Goodrich Junior High.

—in November on specifications for gymnasium additions at Irving and Lefler.

—in February on specifications for a new junior high school on the city's east side.

Actions Assume

The actions assume long-range plans to vacate for junior high purposes both Whittier and Everett Junior Highs.

The expansions at the three existing schools will permit eventual transfer of students attending Whittier and Everett, and the new east-side junior high will permit moving all younger students out of East High School.

Whittier is slated to become a community school under the auspices of the Lincoln Technical College and Everett will probably be used exclusively for a program for the trainable mentally retarded when Irving and Goodrich can handle the Everett students.

The board also voted to proceed with plans to construct a driver education "range" on part of the large parking lot at East High, and to develop immediately a kindergarten play area at Meadow Lane Elementary.

Master Site Plan

The board action also calls for a master site plan development for each school and suggests improvement of school sites at the rate of two each year.

All of the actions, long in the planning stages, were recently reviewed at an informal session of the board.

On another matter, the board was told that a slight change in assessed value from the district's estimate will result in a minor drop in the anticipated mill levy.

The board had assumed a valuation of $390 million, while the county board's figure is $188,410 more than that.

Levy To Dip

The result is that the levy for support of district operations will be 54.853, rather than 54.952. The funding level will not change from earlier-announced figures, however.

The board also:

—Authorized Prasch to submit to the State Department of Education a budget for expenditure of federal "Title I" funds. Use of the funds has made news recently because of a ruling excluding payment of salaries for teaching aides in parochial schools.

—Approved expansion of the transportation plan to add one bus route from north of Highway 2 to Huntington Elementary.

—Authorized conversion of three buses to liquid propane power on a pilot basis.

—Awarded to Beatrice Foods a one-year contract for milk and other dairy products. Total expenditures are estimated to hit nearly $300,000 this year.

Ray L. Noyd Is Bound Over

Columbus (AP) — Ray L. Noyd, 22, of Columbus, was bound over to Platte County District Court Tuesday on three counts of selling or delivering marijuana.

Platte County Judge William Goetz continued bond at $500 on each count.

Noyd is one of 19 persons who will appear on drug charges in County Court following a crackdown on illegal use of drugs.

Catacombs Become Real Underworld For Car Thieves

Rome (UPI) — Police reported the existence Tuesday of a real underworld — a flourishing car-stealing racket operated from the catacombs of ancient Rome.

Officials said 6,000 or more stripped automobiles may be in the catacombs, which honeycomb the soil of Rome for hundreds of miles.

Police said they recovered 83 automobiles in July alone and have so far arrested 15 men.

The catacombs are a system of galleries running as deep as 300 feet in which the ancient Romans used to bury their dead.

Because of their labyrinthine complexity and absolute darkness, police said they have been able to explore only a fraction of the tunnels relatively near the surface.

Police said car thieves drove their hauls into the tunnels through concealed entrances and stripped them of everything valuable on a virtual assembly-line basis, leaving only the frames.

"They make the cars up in Turin," one official said. "Here they unmake them."

Officials guessed the thieves have made use of many of the catacombs under the old Appian Way and they said the racket probably still is continuing despite police surveillance.

The catacombs are so vast and the entrances so many that it would take a small army of men to stop the thieves, the officials said.

So. Korean Quits Over Prison Revolt

Seoul (UPI) — Defense Minister Jung Nae-Hiuk of South Korea resigned Tuesday because of a revolt in a military prison Monday in which 14 guards and 18 prisoners were killed.

President Park Chung-Hee accepted Jung's resignation and appointed Yu Chae-Hung, 50, as his successor in the key cabinet post. Yu, a retired arm lieutenant general, had served as a special assistant to Park on security matters.

A total of 24 military prisoners staged a revolt early Monday on an island off Inchon, 20 miles west of Seoul. They killed 14 prison guards and wounded another, then seized a boat and sailed to the mainland.

Blew Themselves Up

The escaped prisoners next commandeered a bus in Inchon and drove to Seoul. Four of the escapees were killed in clashes on the island and in Inchon, and 11 others blew themselves up with grenades after reaching Seoul. Six were wounded and captured.

On the way to Seoul, the escapees shot to death one policeman and five civilians. They wounded 14 civilians, one soldier and two policemen.

Ranking members of the National Assembly met with Premier Kim Jong-pil, Jung and other ranking officials to learn details of the incident, which initially was mistaken for a raid on Seoul by North Korean agents.

'Special Criminals'

Jung stressed that the prisoners were "special criminals" under the custody of the air force and held in isolation on Shiimi Island off Inchon.

Jung said he believed frustation from living in isolation for a prolonged period led the prisoners to mutiny.

The incident resulted also in the resignation of Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Kim Too-Man. Kim quit because the prisoners had been under air force custody.

Spilled Oil Stains Beach At Western White House

San Clemente, Calif (AP) — The Western White House beach was reported stained Tuesday with heavy black warship fuel oil spilled at sea.

A Navy spokesman said, "some oil is on the President's beach." There was no official word of how much.

Ronald Ziegler President Nixon's press secretary, said there was "some" oil on the beach but that it was being cleaned up.

The oil was not expected to interfere with Nixon's swimming, Ziegler said. There is a pool for the Nixons at their home here.

Nearby, 75 Marines and 25 sailor volunteers from the tanker ship blamed for the spill were picking up globs of oil the size of baseballs.

The slick itself was virtually unchanged from Monday, a Coast Guard helicopter pilot said after flying over it. He estimated the slick was still about 35 miles long in a broken, black finger mostly 5 to 15 miles from shore.

The Marines sent in bulldozers to clean away chunks of oil, mostly the sizes of quarters and half-dollars, which the servicemen were picking up by hand.

An attempt to contain the oil by surrounding it with a newly developed protein substance failed to work properly in the open seas, the Navy said.

The substance, described as heavier than oil but lighter than water, had been expected to form a "liquid boom" barring the oil from land. Meanwhile, a 1,000-foot floating boom was tied around Oceanside harbor south of the Western White House and a smaller line protected Dana Point on the other side.

The spill was blamed on the Long Beach-based Navy tanker Manatee A sailor apparently left open an oil delivery valve after the ship had finished refueling the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga last Friday.

Idaho Sen. Says He Will Not Seek Re-election In 72

Boise, Idaho (AP) — U.S. Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, a 10-year veteran of the Senate, announced Tuesday he does not plan to seek re-election in 1972.

Jordan, 72, was appointed to the Senate in 1962 following the death of Sen. Henry C. Dworshak. He was elected that fall to serve the remaining four years of Dworshak's term and won a six-year term in 1966.

"My health is good. I believe I am still electable for another term," Jordan said. "It is a good time to step down when one has a fair chance for another term."

Jordan is a former state legislator and was governor of Idaho from 1951-55.

Vermillion, S.D. (AP) — A Hastings, Neb., family has financed a 90-foot tower for a carillon at the University of South Dakota.

The late John Quirk, chairman of the board of the Morrison-Quirk Grain Co. of Hastings, gave $40,000 for the construction of the tower which is expected to begin soon.

His widow and children gave $50,000 for the tower and landscaping. Both Quirk and his wife attended the University.

The carillon is expected to be completed next May.

Student Picketing Car Dealer After Buying A Lemon

Houston, Tex. (AP) — A University of Houston student who believes he got a bad deal from Sharpstown Dodge here won the right Monday to keep on picketing the company.

Joel M Selsky, started picketing the car firm Aug. 7 with friends after he said a 1968 Corvette he purchased from the company was not as represented. "I'd like to take the car back and get my money back," he said Monday.

District Court Judge William N. Blanton refused to temporarily restrain Selsky and his friends from picketing the dealer.

The judge said he could not see where Selsky and his friends were violating the law or were about to cause grievous harm.

Sharpstown Dodge President G. F. Waecherly claimed Selsky was blocking the company's entrances and exits and was stopping traffic along the road, affecting its business.

Federal Money To Be Asked To Study State's N-Plants

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The legislative study committee on public power Tuesday decided to seek federal funding for a comprehensive study of Nebraska's two nuclear power plants.

In the meantime, the committee laid plans to tour the plants sometime in September.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, the committee's chairman, said he is concerned about possible radiation problems and other environmental effects.

With costs of the two plants now double their original estimates, Carpenter said, he is also concerned "whether the power companies are operating in the public interest."

$250,000 Million

The Nebraska Public Power District is constructing an 800,000 kilowatt nuclear unit near Brownville. Its estimated cost of $130 million has now risen to $250 million.

The Omaha Public Power District is building a 457,000 kilowatt unit near Fort Calhoun. Its original estimate of $77 million is now at $150 million.

Both units are being constructed along the Missouri River.

The Legislature has a duty to determine how much of a "hazard," if any, the two plants represent for Nebraskan, Carpenter said.

Citizen lawsuits over safety aspects or environmental concerns could prevent completion of the plants if the public is not satisfied that they are safe and acceptable to the environment, he said.

A number of committee members were critical of the costs of construction.

"We seem to have opened up the gates," Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said.

Carpenter said electric consumers will be "shocked" by the rate increases which they will receive as a result of the construction costs, as well as other factors.

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland said the power districts have been unable to control costs "because of changing government regulations" which govern nuclear construction.

"The people have lost complete control of public power," Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa said.

Through expansion and merger, the districts have become so large that they are beyond effective citizen control, he said.

"The delegation of authority (through elected boards of directors) has gotten so far away from the people that they've lost interest," Nore said.

PLANNING FOR AIR QUALITY NEEDED

Bailey Harbor, Wis. (AP) — Midwest attorneys-general were warned Tuesday that states must come up with plans for air quality standards by January or face plans imposed by Washington.

Although the Clean Air Act of 1970 requires air quality standards to be met by 1975, each state is required to submit a plan for implementation of those standards no later than January, said George V. Allen, deputy assistant administrator for enforcement of the Environmental Protection Agency.

He delivered the keynote address at an air pollution session which led off the three-day annual summer conference of the Midwestern Association of Attorneys General.

"It will be the duty of you attorneys general to make sure your environmental protection agencies realize their legal responsibilities under this program," Allen said. "If this fails, the whole air pollution control program fails."

The implementation plan, Allen said, must include legislation giving the pollution control agency in each state a number of enforcement powers, including injunctive powers, emergency action powers, power to prevent construction of new pollution sources, the right to make all gathered data public, regardless of trade secrets claims, and the power to require installation and use of monitoring devices.

If such plans are not made, federal plans will be imposed, Allen said.

Safe Crackers Steal Diamonds Worth $500,000

Hong Kong (AP) — Robbers cracked a heavy iron safe in the office of a Hong Kong trading company and stole diamonds worth more than $500,000, police reported Tuesday.

The safe was in the office of United Agencies Ltd., whose managing director, Victor J. Zirinsky, is also Israel's honorary consul in Hong Kong. A spokesman said Zirinsky is at present in New York on a business trip.

Unlicensed Insurance Firm Fined

The Guaranty National Insurance Co. of Phoenix, Ariz., has been fined $2,000 by Hayes County District Court for transacting insurance business in Nebraska without a license, according to State Insurance Director Samuel Van Pelt

Van Pelt noted that similar charges have been filed in Douglas County District Court against the United Equitable Life Insurance Co. of Chicago, Ill., and that charges are pending against another unlicensed insurer in Boone County District Court.

"This criminal conviction should serve as a warning to all companies not licensed in Nebraska that they must obtain a license before transacting any business in this state or face a criminal conviction and possibly a $10,000 fine," Van Pelt said.

The action brought by Hayes County Atty. Terry E. Savage was under the Nebraska Unauthorized Insurer's Act passed by the 1969 Legislature.

The act is patterned after the Model Act formulated the National Association of Insurance Companies.

Van Pelt said he believed it was the first successful criminal prosecution under the act in any state.

Kid's Zoo Animals Are Slaughtered By Park Vandals

Harrison, N.Y. (AP) — Vandals broke into the children's zoo at the West Harrison Memorial Park Monday night and killed or mutilated nearly all of its 21 small animals, police said.

Harrison police were called to the park Tuesday by John Mediros, maintenance man, who discovered the plucked, skinned and mutilated carcasses of 17 small animals when he reported to work.

A rooster, a guinea pig, a pigeon and a small monkey were the only animals apparently quick enough to escape the vandals' attack.

The vandals, police said, had broken into a maintenance building to get tools to pry open the outdoor cages of the animals

The dead animals included two racoons, 10 rabbits, three chickens and two pigeons, whose carcasses had been skinned or plucked and their blood smeared on windows, police said.

School Denied Request For A New Trial

The State Court of Industrial Relations Tuesday denied a request for a new trial by the Mid-Plains Vocational-Technical School at North Platte.

The previous ruling by the court ordered 5 teachers reinstated who had been fired for involvement with a teachers' union movement.

Judge John Baylor in issuing the denial said the decision hinged on a constitutional guarantee providing that no person shall be fired for involvement with a labor organization.

Attorneys for the school said a decision will be made later on whether to appeal to the State Supreme Court

The SBA loan of $100,000 to the West O Development Co., will be used together with a $100,000 loan from a Lincoln bank and $50,000 of West O funds to provide a new store for Ideal.

Defense Better Than Offense

If you gave the average football fan a choice between seeing his team putting points on the scoreboard or keeping the foe from putting them there, he'd choose the former.

Yet statistics compiled by the National Collegiate Sports Service show that the team that keeps the opponent's score down wins more often than the high-scoring teams, but by only a slight margin.

In the past five years, the nation's top 10 collegiate defensive teams have compiled a winning percentage of .776 on a 381-105-14 ledger while the 10 highest scoring elevens have a winning percentage of .749 on 368-120-9.

Three teams can be found in the top ten of both categories — Notre Dame (second in both), Texas (fourth in scoring offense and 10th in scoring defense) and Arkansas (fifth in offense and eighth in defense).

Nebraska ranks seventh in scoring defense, but is not among the top 20 in scoring offense.

The charts with records and points scored or points allowed:

SCORING OFFENSE

1. Houston	37-12-2	34.80
2. Notre Dame	41-6-3	34.78
3. Arizona State	39-11-0	33.4

5. Arkansas	39-11-1	29.1
6. Penn State	40-10-0	28.5

Ohio State	36-9-0	12.5
Texas	40-9-1	12.9

Better To Stop Run

And on the subject of defense, statistics show that a good rushing defense is more desirable to winning than a good pass defense.

Of the 20 pass defense leaders over the past five years in collegiate football, six of them had losing records while all 20 of the rushing defense leaders over that same span had winning records.

A pass defense that ranks 15th over the past five years hardly helped Brown, for instance, which compiled only a 9-35-1 record in that span.

Other pass defense leaders, who had losing records, were Penn, Northwestern, South Carolina, Columbia, and Oklahoma State.

Nebraska was one of only five schools ranking in the top 20 in both pass defense and rushing defense, the Huskers standing 15th in stopping the rush and 10th against passing.

Others were Notre Dame, first against rushing, 19 against passing; Miami of Ohio, fourth in rushing defense and 11th in passing; Georgia, 12th in rushing, 12th in passing; and Toledo, 16th in rushing defense, first against passing.

Buffalo's Harris Shuns Playing Second Fiddle

. . . FORMER GRAMBLING QUARTERBACK HAS SIGHTS ON REPLACING SHAW

Niagara Falls, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Harris admits he doesn't like playing second fiddle, but he has no plans to leave the Buffalo Bills as he did a year ago when cast into such a role.

"I won't be happy being a back-up quarterback all my career," said Harris, the first Negro to start a season as the No. 1 signal-caller for a major league professional football team.

Harris, 24, beginning his third season with the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League, was put on waivers just before the Bills' final preseason game last summer. He walked out of training camp, returning to his home in Monroe, La.

"I had the impression I was released from the team," Harris recalled in an interview this week. "I really didn't understand what it was all about."

Things began to clear when he heard telecasts of his disappearance, Harris said.

"Finally, I called the Bills and learned that no one claimed me. I then decided to come back."

Harris returned but spent the season as back-up to Dennis Shaw, San Diego State's brilliant passing star who went on to become the NFL's Rookie of the Year.

Asked whether he thought he could oust Shaw, Harris replied:

"I don't know. I sure would like to be No. 1. But the main thing is to have a winning team.

"I'm really concerned with winning, and getting my hands on some of those playoff checks.

"No, I haven't any ideas about quitting the Bills or football. I'm learning a lot more every day and I feel more confident. But I sure want to see a lot more action."

Harris came to the Bills from Grambling College in 1969. A knee injury in his sixth game, against Oakland, cut short his rookie year play.

"The knee is doing fine, and so is the arm," Harris said. "I'm doing a lot of throwing — throwing as hard as I need to."

In the Bills' first preseason game against the New Orleans Saints this year, Shaw seemed erratic and wasn't on target. Harris relieved him in the second half and engineered a 64-yard drive, finishing it with a nine-yard touchdown pass to Haven Moses. That gave the Bills a 14-10 victory.

Even though he played the second half a week later against the Philadelphia Eagles, Harris did little. For one thing, the Bills' defense collapsed and they seldom had the ball in the final 30 minutes of the game, won by the Eagles, 34-28.

Harris is big, 6-foot-3, and an accurate passer — both short and long.

"How far can you throw the ball?" he was asked.

"I don't know," he answered. "But no receiver ever ran out of my distance."

In his brief 1969 career, Harris completed 15 of 36 passes for 270 yards and three touchdowns. He saw action in seven games last season, hitting on 24 of 50 aerials for 338 yards and three touchdowns.

As a pro, Harris hasn't seen the Bills win many games. The 1969 record was four victories and 10 losses and last year's 3-10-1.

He expressed confidence the 1971 Bills would be an improved team.

"We have a lot of good, young athletes this year," he said. "They've got a lot of the old college spirit. After all, most of us came from winning college teams.

"Why, you can even see improved morale in the dressing room. It wasn't there the last two years, but now it is. Everybody thinks we can win, and we can."

While repeating "I'm a good passer," Harris cited his inexperience as "somewhat of a drawback."

"I never had to scramble in high school and college," he said," because we had good blocking. I prefer not to scramble, but if I have to I will.

"Sure, I've had my bumps. But don't we all."

BACKLUND TAKES PGA EVENT

Parked Car Blessing On 18 Provides Edge

. . . WOOD RIVER PRO PLAYS VEHICLE LIKE TREES

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Fremont — The way Wood River golf pro Merle Backlund figures it, a parked car helped him win the Nebraska Section of the PGA here Tuesday.

Backlund's second shot on the last hole soared over the green, struck a parked car and bounced back into play. He then chipped to about 10 feet from the hole and sank the putt to edge out Juan Elizondo by one stroke.

"If that car wouldn't have been parked there, my ball would've gone out of bounds and cost me the tournament," Backlund figured.

The Fremont Golf Club's parking lot is to the right and behind the 18th green and resident pro Al Beister said Backlund's shot was allowable. "As long as the ball strikes an object and bounces back into play, the shot is allowed," Beister explained. "The car is considered to be the same as the trees which line the sides of most our fairways."

Backlund's 36-hole total was 139, three-under-par, while Elizondo, Omaha's Sunset Valley Country Club pro, finished at 140. Both fired par 71s Tuesday over the 5,920-yard course as scores ballooned.

Most golfers attributed the inflated scores to the wind and the pressure of winning.

"There was only a slight breeze Monday while the wind was pretty stiff today," Elizondo said. "And of course the pressure of the last day worked against most of the golfers."

Defending champion John Frillman, Omaha's Happy Holow pro, finished third at 142 despite an ace on the 117-yard No. 17.

"I just couldn't make putts consistently today," Frillman noted. "If I could've had a couple more holes-in-one I would have won, but that's asking too much."

First-day leader Matt Zadalis, Omaha's Spring Lake pro, came in with a 76 and finished fourth at 143.

The title was the fourth for Backlund who considers himself a "playing pro." He also won the 1967-'69 and '70 tournaments.

"I've got a retired fellow who does a lot of the work around the pro shop while I give lessons," Backlund said. "I also have a winter job so I'm able to afford to play more in the summer.

"Since I've been able to play more than most pros in the state, I think this has improved my game."

However, Backlund noted he had some trouble with his game Tuesday. "I started hooking my wood shots real bad, so I held back a little," he pointed out. "I didn't have a full backswing and this helped get me into trouble on No. 18."

Backlund almost missed the winning putt on No. 18. The ball caught the rim of the cup and hesitated for a moment before dropping.

"The way the ball went into the hole, I thought it was in slow motion," Backlund said.

Now he plans on entering the Club Professional Championships in Pinehurst, N.C., Oct. 14-17. By winning Tuesday he qualifies for the PGA at Oaklawn Hills, Detroit, next summer.

NU Waits For Kropp To Arrive

Multiple-sport prep star Tom Kropp said Tuesday that he will attend the University of Nebraska this fall, thereby ending speculation that he may attend Kearney State College.

"I've decided for sure," Kropp said when reached at a friend's home in Aurora. "I know I waited a long time to make a decision between one school or the other.

"But I was so indecisive from day to day that I didn't want to make the wrong commitment," Krop said.

"It wasn't that I didn't want to go to Nebraska or that I was getting any kind of pressure from the Kearney coaching staff," Kropp explained. "I held back because there are quite a few kids in Aurora who wanted me to attend Kearney.

"I wanted to see how I'd do in Shrine Bowl football camp, then make up my mind," Kropp added. "I thought about it all Saturday night and Sunday and decided for sure to go to Nebraska by Sunday, but didn't want to say anything until I had talked to my friends first.

"They (his friends) wanted to see me go to Nebraska for my own good," Kropp said. "But in the back of their minds many of them wanted me to go to Kearney. But I guess there comes a time when you have to break away from a lot of things.

"I'm completely happy with what I decided. My conscience is clear," Kropp continued. "I know it will be tough at the university, but if I don't make it, at least I'll know I've given it a shot. Only time will tell."

Kropp, an all-state football and basketball performer and state track gold medal winner, said he will compete in both football and basketball this year at Nebraska.

Nebraska football coach and athletic director Bob Devaney said, "We are both pleased and honored that Tom has made his decision to become a Husker. He is an outstanding and fine young man and will be a credit to our university and our athletic program."

All-Stars Will Play Roberts

Lincoln's AAA Softball League all-star team, announced Tuesday, will play state fast pitch tournament champion Roberts-Skyline Saturday in a doubleheader at Ballard Field, starting at 7 p.m.

In a poll of eight league coaches, King's Food Host pitcher Lefty Sheary was the only unanimous selection to the 14-player all-star team.

Other pitchers named were Doyle LeRoy of KOLN-TV and Jay Phipps of King's. Merle Muench of Mason Bowes and Dave Lebsack of King's were named catchers.

Other first team choices included: Jerry Motz, King's, 1b; Ned Eckman, King's, 2b; Steve McKelvey, Citizens State Bank, ss; Ken Forbes, King's, 3b; Duane Eichorn, King's, lf; Frank Solich, Citizens State Bank, cf; and Bill Honnor, Bob's Tavern, rf.

Infielder Jack Partington and outfielder Dave Smith, both of KOLN-TV, were named as reserve players.

Three Roberts-Skyline players—pitcher John Jackson, catcher Dennis Flachman and shortstop Gary Smith—would have been named to the team had they not won the state title.

Bill Wakely of Citizens State Bank and Harry Pappas of Flynn's Motor City will manage the all-star team.

Brandon Rider Fifth

Denver, Colo. — Jerome Robinson of Brandon holds down the fifth spot in bull riding winnings during the 1971 season, according to the Rodeo Cowboys Association. Brandon has earned $10,626, compared to $17,150 for leader Bill Nelson of San Francisco.

Fremont Invitational Set This Weekend

Fremont — The annual Fremont Invitational Golf Tournament will be held at the Fremont Golf Club Saturday and Sunday.

The championship flight will play a 27-hole final round on Sunday with all other flights playing 18 holes the final day.

Charley Horse Hobbles Johnson, Giants' Top Back

Brookville, N.Y. (AP) — Ron Johnson, the only player ever to rush for 1,000 yards in a season for the New York Giants, will be out of action for the remainder of the pre-season exhibition games because of a severe charley horse.

The National Football League club said Tuesday that Johnson was expected to enter St. Vincent's Hospital Wednesday to have fluid drained from under the right thigh bone.

However, he is expected to be ready for the Giants' regular season opener against Green Bay Sept. 19.

The Giants said Johnson suffered the injury while playing basketball two months ago and it has grown worse. He is scheduled to remain in the hospital three days.

Johnson, who rushed for 1,027 yards last season, had gained 23 yards in eight carries, with a long run of six yards, in three exhibition games.

Hinds Will Compete In Insurance Classic

Thurman Hinds, a Lincoln East golfer, is entered in the third annual Insurance Golf Classic at Rochester, N.Y., Aug. 26-29, at the Craig Hills Country Club.

The 72-hole meet will bring together 150 qualifiers from 25 states. In the last two days the top 60 qualifiers will play rounds with 20 of the leading pro tour golfers, including Lee Trevino, Bruce Devlin, Gay Brewer and Orville Moody.

—IN RIFLE MATCHES—

Anderson's 'Friend' Speaks Loud, Clear

Camp Perry, Ohio—Gary Anderson is back—shooting "for fun," a little fatter and still the main threat and attraction at the National Rifle Matches.

Anderson, a part-time Presbyterian minister and Nebraska county treasurer (from Axtell), is doing nothing much new, but the international-Olympic rifle champion of past years is as effective as ever.

He stood up on his 'hind legs,' as the saying goes, and shot a new national record in the Navy Cup match at Perry this week. The score, 200 with 15 xs, bested his own old mark of 198-7X for 20 shots slow-fire standing at 200 yards in the National Matches.

Watching him perform in a rapid-fire match later, admiring shooters from other relays marveled at the rhythmic snap with which the left-handed Nebraskan operates a right-sided rifle bolt.

"He makes it look like the right-handers are doing it wrong," one shooter said.

Anderson said the 19th shot was the toughest one. "I didn't do it right." But it came up a 10, the 20th plunked right in and there was a new record for the difficult standing match.

Anderson gets only a little practice—nothing like what he had when he was competing regularly in international matches. The man who's generally regarded as the finest international competitive rifleman in the world when he's tuned up is busy with his political career in Nebraska and as a "supply" minister wherever the church needs to fill a pulpit.

He passed up a virtually sure berth on the U.S. team for both the 1970 world championships and the 1971 Pan-American Games to campaign for and then serve as his county's treasurer.

Anderson is also a columnist for a weekly gun newspaper, but he won't be writing about himself in the national matches. "I just don't like to write about anything involving myself like that." He earned his start as a writer rebutting an anti-gun column in a Presbyterian magazine.

He's doing nothing different than in years when he didn't shoot "for fun." He is shooting the same guns the same way, and he stands around and helps curious shooters with answers to their queries in the same courteous, painstaking manner.

Aside from more girth and medium-long sideburns, there is little about Anderson that's different from when he came out of the Nebraska prairies a quiet, red-headed kid to take the rifle world apart, title by title, beginning in 1962.

If Camp Perry has been, as he said wryly, "my unlucky place," (all he has won here is one national smallbore position crown), even the Perry hex may be slipping away.

74 Working Out At Peru State

Peru — Seventy-four hopefuls answered the opening grill whistle of Joe Pelisek, head football coach at Peru State College.

Two-a-day drills are on tap this week for the Peru State gridmen preparing for an opening clash against Dakota State Sept. 4 at Madison, S.D.

Tom Fitzgerald, Harlan Krein and Danny Fernbacher will assist Pelisek, who plans to have his squad ready for a full-scale scrimmage by Saturday.

Contact Scrimmage Slated For Huskers This Morning

. . . SESSION WON'T BE REGULAR GAME-TYPE

By VIRGIL PARKER

Coach Bob Devaney's Nebraska Cornhusker football team ran through a pair of spirited drills Tuesday, sharpening its timing and play execution in preparation for the first contact scrimmage of the fall practice period.

The Big Red squad will square off on the AstroTurf at 9 this morning. "It won't be a regular game-type scrimmage," Devaney said. "We divide the squad into three 'stations' during our practices. At one we work on the spread formation plays, the 'I' formation at another and concentrate on defense at the third."

The Husker grid boss said the spread station will be involved in the contact work, "while the other two continue with their regular workout routine."

Devaney says the offense is busy perfecting "much the same type of attack we have employed the past two years. We made a rather major change two seasons ago, going to all balanced line plays with either the spread or 'I' formations. We expect to stick pretty much with that same formula this fall."

The Cornhusker head man added that he feels the personnel this year has the capability of making that offense work with the same effectiveness of the past two seasons.

"Our only concern will be whether or not Woody Cox and the other split ends can make the same catches that Guy Ingles made last fall," Devaney added. "And if our passing game is to go well, the fullbacks will have to be able to catch the ball well. After all, (Dan) Schneiss was a darn good receiver too."

The Big Red's aerial assault came in for lots of attention during Tuesday's workouts.

Quarterbacks Jerry Tagge, Van Brownson and David Humm were all on target. "Our passing game is improving every day," Devaney admitted. "The fellows are learning their patterns better, although they're still having some trouble since the defense is doing quite a few new things."

Though the offense is much the same as the past two seasons, the defense is working on several new variations.

"We're told we'll have to score at least 21 points to beat Oregon," Devaney said. "They have a very potent offense."

Devaney said the increased defensive activity is caused by the Huskers strong opening foe. "Last year we thought we could beat Wake Forest and were looking ahead to USC. We can't do that this year and all our preparations are aimed at Oregon. They present some tough problems, much like USC. They operate out of a pro set and a spread, and we haven't faced much of that in the past."

During work on the aerial offense, assistant coach Cletus Fischer could often be heard hollering, "That's the way to throw Van," when in fact it had been Humm pitching the ball. Or, "Way to go Dave" would be heard after a Tagge toss.

"We only have one quarterback," the offensive line coach laughingly explained. "His name is Jerry Van Humm, and he's a dandy."

New Head Man At Doane Greets 70 At Tryouts

Crete — Doane head football coach Ray Best will begin putting the roar into the 1971 Tiger.

This week Best greeted a squad of 70 with 20 lettermen. Best must rebuild a defensive five-man front wiped out by graduation.

He'll also be searching for consistency in the passing game which performed sporadically at best a year ago.

Pirates Walk Plank As Braves Rap 21 Hits

. . . YANKS TURN VIDA BLUE WITH 1-0 SHUTOUT

By Associated Press

The Atlanta Braves gave Chief Nok-a-homa something to cheer about Tuesday night as they exploded for 11 runs in the first four innings and went on to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 15-5.

Nok-a-homa, who resides in a tepee behind the left field fence at Atlanta home games, had three home runs to dance about in the Braves' 21-hit assault, including one by Hank Aaron — his 37th of the season and No. 629 lifetime.

Mike Lum and Marty Perez also cracked homers for Atlanta, which handed Pittsburgh its 21st loss in its last 32 games.

In other National League games, Cincinnati edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4 in the only day contest, while San Francisco beat the New York Mets 3-2, San Diego topped Philadelphia 2-0, St. Louis edged Houston 2-1 and Los Angeles whipped Montreal 6-4 in night contests.

In American League games, all under the lights, Baltimore zipped the Chicago White Sox 1-0, Milwaukee edged Cleveland 6-5, Minnesota downed Detroit 3-1, Kansas City nipped Boston 5-4 in 13 innings, and New York topped Oakland and Vida Blue, 1-0.

Pete Rose pounded three doubles to spark the Reds against Ferguson Jenkins, 20-10, but it was Hal McRae's RBI single in the sixth which provided Cincinnati with its margin of victory. Ernie Banks hit his 512th career home run in the fourth inning, tying him for seventh place on the all-time homer list with Ed Matthews.

Juan Marichal hurled a five-hitter against the Mets, his fourth consecutive complete game, raising his record to 13-9. Ed Acosta, a 27-year-old right-hander making his first major league start, fired an eight-hit shutout for the Padres.

Reliever Al Santorini got Doug Rader to hit into a game-ending double play with the potential tying run on third base to save St. Louis' victory for Reggie Cleveland. The Dodgers erupted for five runs in the sixth inning to overpower Montreal, with Willie Davis' five hits sparking the attack.

Mike Cuellar hurled a four-hitter for the Orioles, raising his record to 16-6. The Brewers scored three runs in the sixth, then added three more in the seventh to defeat Cleveland. Jim Perry's four-hitter stopped Detroit, while Gail Hopkins' bases-loaded single gave Kansas City its victory.

Mel Stottlemyre hurled hitless ball for six innings and wound up with a three-hitter as the Yankees handed Blue his second straight 1-0 setback.

Jim Spencer crashed a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning to back Clyde Wright's two-hitter as the California Angels stunned Washington and rookie Pete Broberg 2-1.

Amateur Kings, Harrelson Seek Tour Credentials

New York (AP) — Ken Harrelson, the former Cleveland baseball player, and the last three U.S. amateur champions are among the record 357 applicants seeking playing credentials this year on the rich pro golf tour.

The qualifying school of the PGA's Tournament Players Division will conduct three sectional tryouts prior to the final 108-hole test at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., Oct. 8-10.

The 72-hole sectional trials will be staged at Winston-Salem, N.C., Sept. 8-10; Quincy, Ill., Sept. 9-12, and Riverside, Calif., Sept. 20-22.

Harrelson, who quit baseball to try his hand at pro golf, will be among the 134 competing at the Tanglewood Golf Club in Winston-Salem, where 30 qualifying places are at stake.

The former amateur champions who will seek pro playing cards are Bruce Fleisher of Miami, 1968; Steve Melnyk of Jacksonville, Fla., 1969, and Lanny Wadkins of Winston-Salem, 1970. All are trying out at Winston-Salem.

Defense Better Than Offense

If you gave the average football fan a choice between seeing his team putting points on the scoreboard or keeping the foe from putting them there, he'd choose the former.

Yet statistics compiled by the National Collegiate Sports Service show that the team that keeps the opponent's score down wins more often than the high-scoring teams, but by only a slight margin.

In the past five years, the nation's top 10 collegiate defensive teams have compiled a winning percentage of .776 on a 381-105-14 ledger while the 10 highest scoring elevens have a winning percentage of .749 on 368-120-9.

Three teams can be found in the top ten of both categories — Notre Dame (second in both), Texas (fourth in scoring offense and 10th in scoring defense) and Arkansas (fifth in offense and eighth in defense).

Nebraska ranks seventh in scoring defense, but is not among the top 20 in scoring offense.

The charts with records and points scored or points allowed:

SCORING OFFENSE

1. Houston	37-12-2	34.80
2. Notre Dame	41-6-3	34.78
3. Arizona State	39-11-0	33.4

Texas	40-9-1	12.9

Better To Stop Run

And on the subject of defense, statistics show that a good rushing defense is more desirable to winning than a good pass defense.

Of the 20 pass defense leaders over the past five years in collegiate football, six of them had losing records while all 20 of the rushing defense leaders over that same span had winning records.

A pass defense that ranks 15th over the past five years hardly helped Brown, for instance, which compiled only a 9-35-1 record in that span.

Other pass defense leaders, who had losing records, were Penn, Northwestern, South Carolina, Columbia, and Oklahoma State.

Nebraska was one of only five schools ranking in the top 20 in both pass defense and rushing defense, the Huskers standing 15th in stopping the rush and 10th against passing.

Others were Notre Dame, first against rushing, 19 against passing; Miami of Ohio, fourth in rushing defense and 11th in passing; Georgia, 12th in rushing, 12th in passing; and Toledo, 16th in rushing defense, first against passing.

Buffalo's Harris Shuns Playing Second Fiddle

. . . FORMER GRAMBLING QUARTERBACK HAS SIGHTS ON REPLACING SHAW

Niagara Falls, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Harris admits he doesn't like playing second fiddle, but he has no plans to leave the Buffalo Bills as he did a year ago when cast into such a role.

"I won't be happy being a back-up quarterback all my career," said Harris, the first Negro to start a season as the No. 1 signal-caller for a major league professional football team.

Harris, 24, beginning his third season with the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League, was put on waivers just before the Bills' final preseason game last summer. He walked out of training camp, returning to his home in Monroe, La.

"I had the impression I was released from the team," Harris recalled in an interview this week. "I really didn't understand what it was all about."

Things began to clear when he heard telecasts of his disappearance, Harris said.

"Finally, I called the Bills and learned that no one claimed me. I then decided to come back."

Harris returned but spent the season as back-up to Dennis Shaw, San Diego State's brilliant passing star who went on to become the NFL's Rookie of the Year.

Asked whether he thought he could oust Shaw, Harris replied:

"I don't know. I sure would like to be No. 1. But the main thing is to have a winning team.

"I'm really concerned with winning, and getting my hands on some of those playoff checks.

"No, I haven't any ideas about quitting the Bills or football. I'm learning a lot more every day and I feel more confident. But I sure want to see a lot more action."

Harris came to the Bills from Grambling College in 1969. A knee injury in his sixth game, against Oakland, cut short his rookie year play.

"The knee is doing fine, and so is the arm," Harris said. "I'm doing a lot of throwing — throwing as hard as I need to."

In the Bills' first preseason game against the New Orleans Saints this year, Shaw seemed erratic and wasn't on target. Harris relieved him in the second half and engineered a 64-yard drive, finishing it with a nine-yard touchdown pass to Haven Moses. That gave the Bills a 14-10 victory.

Even though he played the second half a week later against the Philadelphia Eagles, Harris did little. For one thing, the Bills' defense collapsed and they seldom had the ball in the final 30 minutes of the game, won by the Eagles, 34-28.

Harris is big, 6-foot-3, and an accurate passer — both short and long.

"How far can you throw the ball?" he was asked.

"I don't know," he answered. "But no receiver ever ran out of my distance."

In his brief 1969 career, Harris completed 15 of 36 passes for 270 yards and three touchdowns. He saw action in seven games last season, hitting on 24 of 50 aerials for 338 yards and three touchdowns.

As a pro, Harris hasn't seen the Bills win many games. The 1969 record was four victories and 10 losses and last year's 3-10-1.

He expressed confidence the 1971 Bills would be an improved team.

"We have a lot of good, young athletes this year," he said. "They've got a lot of the old college spirit. After all, most of us came from winning college teams.

"Why, you can even see improved morale in the dressing room. It wasn't there the last two years, but now it is. Everybody thinks we can win, and we can."

While repeating "I'm a good passer," Harris cited his inexperience as "somewhat of a drawback."

"I never had to scramble in high school and college," he said," because we had good blocking. I prefer not to scramble, but if I have to I will.

"Sure, I've had my bumps. But don't we all."

BACKLUND TAKES PGA EVENT

Parked Car Blessing On 18 Provides Edge

. . . WOOD RIVER PRO PLAYS VEHICLE LIKE TREES

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Fremont — The way Wood River golf pro Merle Backlund figures it, a parked car helped him win the Nebraska Section of the PGA here Tuesday.

Backlund's second shot on the last hole soared over the green, struck a parked car and bounced back into play. He then chipped to about 10 feet from the hole and sank the putt to edge out Juan Elizondo by one stroke.

"If that car wouldn't have been parked there, my ball would've gone out of bounds and cost me the tournament," Backlund figured.

The Fremont Golf Club's parking lot is to the right and behind the 18th green and resident pro Al Beister said Backlund's shot was allowable. "As long as the ball strikes an object and bounces back into play, the shot is allowed," Beister explained. "The car is considered to be the same as the trees which line the sides of most our fairways."

Backlund's 36-hole total was 139, three-under-par, while Elizondo, Omaha's Sunset Valley Country Club pro, finished at 140. Both fired par 71s Tuesday over the 5,920-yard course as scores ballooned.

Most golfers attributed the inflated scores to the wind and the pressure of winning.

"There was only a slight breeze Monday while the wind was pretty stiff today," Elizondo said. "And of course the pressure of the last day worked against most of the golfers."

Defending champion John Frillman, Omaha's Happy Holow pro, finished third at 142 despite an ace on the 117-yard No. 17.

"I just couldn't make putts consistently today," Frillman noted. "If I could've had a couple more holes-in-one I would have won, but that's asking too much."

First-day leader Matt Zadalis, Omaha's Spring Lake pro, came in with a 76 and finished fourth at 143.

The title was the fourth for Backlund who considers himself a "playing pro." He also won the 1967-'69 and '70 tournaments.

"I've got a retired fellow who does a lot of the work around the pro shop while I give lessons," Backlund said. "I also have a winter job so I'm able to afford to play more in the summer.

"Since I've been able to play more than most pros in the state, I think this has improved my game."

However, Backlund noted he had some trouble with his game Tuesday. "I started hooking my wood shots real bad, so I held back a little," he pointed out. "I didn't have a full backswing and this helped get me into trouble on No. 18."

Backlund almost missed the winning putt on No. 18. The ball caught the rim of the cup and hesitated for a moment before dropping.

"The way the ball went into the hole, I thought it was in slow motion," Backlund said.

Now he plans on entering the Club Professional Championships in Pinehurst, N.C., Oct. 14-17. By winning Tuesday he qualifies for the PGA at Oaklawn Hills, Detroit, next summer.

—IN RIFLE MATCHES—

Anderson's 'Friend' Speaks Loud, Clear

Camp Perry, Ohio—Gary Anderson is back—shooting "for fun," a little fatter and still the main threat and attraction at the National Rifle Matches.

Anderson, a part-time Presbyterian minister and Nebraska county treasurer (from Axtell), is doing nothing much new, but the international-Olympic rifle champion of past years is as effective as ever.

He stood up on his 'hind legs,' as the saying goes, and shot a new national record in the Navy Cup match at Perry this week. The score, 200 with 15 xs, bested his own old mark of 198-7X for 20 shots slow-fire standing at 200 yards in the National Matches.

Watching him perform in a rapid-fire match later, admiring shooters from other relays marveled at the rhythmic snap with which the left-handed Nebraskan operates a right-sided rifle bolt.

"He makes it look like the right-handers are doing it wrong," one shooter said.

Anderson said the 19th shot was the toughest one. "I didn't do it right." But it came up a 10, the 20th plunked right in and there was a new record for the difficult standing match.

Anderson gets only a little practice—nothing like what he had when he was competing regularly in international matches. The man who's generally regarded as the finest international competitive rifleman in the world when he's tuned up is busy with his political career in Nebraska and as a "supply" minister wherever the church needs to fill a pulpit.

He passed up a virtually sure berth on the U.S. team for both the 1970 world championships and the 1971 Pan-American Games to campaign for and then serve as his county's treasurer.

Anderson is also a columnist for a weekly gun newspaper, but he won't be writing about himself in the national matches. "I just don't like to write about anything involving myself like that." He earned his start as a writer rebutting an anti-gun column in a Presbyterian magazine.

He's doing nothing different than in years when he didn't shoot "for fun." He is shooting the same guns the same way, and he stands around and helps curious shooters with answers to their queries in the same courteous, painstaking manner.

Aside from more girth and medium-long sideburns, there is little about Anderson that's different from when he came out of the Nebraska prairies a quiet, red-headed kid to take the rifle world apart, title by title, beginning in 1962.

If Camp Perry has been, as he said wryly, "my unlucky place," (all he has won here is one national smallbore position crown), even the Perry hex may be slipping away.

74 Working Out At Peru State

Peru — Seventy-four hopefuls answered the opening grill whistle of Joe Pelisek, head football coach at Peru State College.

Two-a-day drills are on tap this week for the Peru State gridmen preparing for an opening clash against Dakota State Sept. 4 at Madison, S.D.

Tom Fitzgerald, Harlan Krein and Danny Fernbacher will assist Pelisek, who plans to have his squad ready for a full-scale scrimmage by Saturday.

Contact Scrimmage Slated For Huskers This Morning

. . . SESSION WON'T BE REGULAR GAME-TYPE

By VIRGIL PARKER

Coach Bob Devaney's Nebraska Cornhusker football team ran through a pair of spirited drills Tuesday, sharpening its timing and play execution in preparation for the first contact scrimmage of the fall practice period.

The Big Red squad will square off on the AstroTurf at 9 this morning. "It won't be a regular game-type scrimmage," Devaney said. "We divide the squad into three 'stations' during our practices. At one we work on the spread formation plays, the 'I' formation at another and concentrate on defense at the third."

The Husker grid boss said the spread station will be involved in the contact work, "while the other two continue with their regular workout routine."

Devaney says the offense is busy perfecting "much the same type of attack we have employed the past two years. We made a rather major change two seasons ago, going to all balanced line plays with either the spread or 'I' formations. We expect to stick pretty much with that same formula this fall."

The Cornhusker head man added that he feels the personnel this year has the capability of making that offense work with the same effectiveness of the past two seasons.

"Our only concern will be whether or not Woody Cox and the other split ends can make the same catches that Guy Ingles made last fall," Devaney added. "And if our passing game is to go well, the fullbacks will have to be able to catch the ball well. After all, (Dan) Schneiss was a darn good receiver too."

The Big Red's aerial assault came in for lots of attention during Tuesday's workouts.

Quarterbacks Jerry Tagge, Van Brownson and David Humm were all on target. "Our passing game is improving every day," Devaney admitted. "The fellows are learning their patterns better, although they're still having some trouble since the defense is doing quite a few new things."

Though the offense is much the same as the past two seasons, the defense is working on several new variations.

"We're told we'll have to score at least 21 points to beat Oregon," Devaney said. "They have a very potent offense."

Devaney said the increased defensive activity is caused by the Huskers strong opening foe. "Last year we thought we could beat Wake Forest and were looking ahead to USC. We can't do that this year and all our preparations are aimed at Oregon. They present some tough problems, much like USC. They operate out of a pro set and a spread, and we haven't faced much of that in the past."

During work on the aerial offense, assistant coach Cletus Fischer could often be heard hollering, "That's the way to throw Van," when in fact it had been Humm pitching the ball. Or, "Way to go Dave" would be heard after a Tagge toss.

"We only have one quarterback," the offensive line coach laughingly explained. "His name is Jerry Van Humm, and he's a dandy."

This week Best greeted a squad of 70 with 20 lettermen. Best must rebuild a defensive five-man front wiped out by graduation.

He'll also be searching for consistency in the passing game which performed sporadically at best a year ago.

Best takes over head coaching chores from Al Papik, who vacated after 16 years. It is Best's first college head coaching assignment. Last year Doane finished 6-4.

All-Stars Will Play Roberts

Lincoln's AAA Softball League all-star team, announced Tuesday, will play state fast pitch tournament champion Roberts-Skyline Saturday in a doubleheader at Ballard Field, starting at 7 p.m.

In a poll of eight league coaches, King's Food Host pitcher Lefty Sheary was the only unanimous selection to the 14-player all-star team.

Other pitchers named were Doyle LeRoy of KOLN-TV and Jay Phipps of King's. Merle Muench of Mason Bowes and Dave Lebsack of King's were named catchers.

NU Waits For Kropp To Arrive

Multiple-sport prep star Tom Kropp said Tuesday that he will attend the University of Nebraska this fall, thereby ending speculation that he may attend Kearney State College.

"I've decided for sure," Kropp said when reached at a friend's home in Aurora. "I know I waited a long time to make a decision between one school or the other.

"But I was so indecisive from day to day that I didn't want to make the wrong commitment," Krop said.

"It wasn't that I didn't want to go to Nebraska or that I was getting any kind of pressure from the Kearney coaching staff," Kropp explained. "I held back because there are quite a few kids in Aurora who wanted me to attend Kearney.

"I wanted to see how I'd do in Shrine Bowl football camp, then make up my mind," Kropp added. "I thought about it all Saturday night and Sunday and decided for sure to go to Nebraska by Sunday, but didn't want to say anything until I had talked to my friends first.

"They (his friends) wanted to see me go to Nebraska for my own good," Kropp said. "But in the back of their minds many of them wanted me to go to Kearney. But I guess there comes a time when you have to break away from a lot of things.

"I'm completely happy with what I decided. My conscience is clear," Kropp continued. "I know it will be tough at the university, but if I don't make it, at least I'll know I've given it a shot. Only time will tell."

Kropp, an all-state football and basketball performer and state track gold medal winner, said he will compete in both football and basketball this year at Nebraska.

Nebraska football coach and athletic director Bob Devaney said, "We are both pleased and honored that Tom has made his decision to become a Husker. He is an outstanding and fine young man and will be a credit to our university and our athletic program."

Brookville, N.Y. (AP) — Ron Johnson, the only player ever to rush for 1,000 yards in a season for the New York Giants, will be out of action for the remainder of the pre-season exhibition games because of a severe charley horse.

The National Football League club said Tuesday that Johnson was expected to enter St. Vincent's Hospital Wednesday to have fluid drained from under the right thigh bone.

However, he is expected to be ready for the Giants' regular season opener against Green Bay Sept. 19.

The Giants said Johnson suffered the injury while playing basketball two months ago and it has grown worse. He is scheduled to remain in the hospital three days.

Johnson, who rushed for 1,027 yards last season, had gained 23 yards in eight carries, with a long run of six yards, in three exhibition games.

Player Returns To U.S. For Match Play Event

. . . FIRST TOURNEY OF ITS KIND SINCE 1957

Pinehurst, N.C. (AP) — South African Gary Player makes his return to the American pro golf tour as one of the favorites in the $200,000 United States Professional Match Play championship.

The tournament, the first of its kind in the United States since 1957, begins a five-day run Wednesday on the demanding, 6,973-yard, par 72 Country Club of North Carolina course.

Player, who hasn't competed in this country in more than two months, is ranked third in the seedings behind Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer in the elite 64-man field competing for a $35,000 first prize.

The event is the brainchild of Joe Dey, commissioner of the PGA's Tournament Players Division. The format calls for man-to-man competition over 18 holes with winners to be determined on the basis of total strokes for the round, rather than on a hole-by-hole basis as in pure match play.

Single rounds of 18 holes each are scheduled Wednesday through Friday with half the field being eliminated each day. Two rounds — the quarterfinals and semifinals — are scheduled Saturday with the survivors meeting in Sunday's 18-hole final.

The field is made up all tour event winners from the last 12 months, plus the leaders off the official point list to a total of 64.

Among the missing, who were eligible, are Lee Trevino, Billy Casper and Jerry McGee. Trevino, the American, Canadian and British Open titleholder, and McGee are recovering from surgery. Casper, the 1970 PGA player of the year, is ill.

Nicklaus, winner of four events including the national PGA championship, is in the No. 1 position on the basis of his standing atop the official point list. He's the season's leading money winner at $205,568.

He heads the top half of the bracket in first round play and will be the first man off the tee in a match against former PGA champion Ray Floyd.

Palmer, third on the money list behind Trevino, is in the No. 2 spot and heads the lower half of the bracket. He will play Australian Bruce Devlin in his first round match.

Player goes against Romero Blancas and No. 4 Miller Barber takes on national seniors champ Julius Boros. Those top four are in different sections of the bracket and couldn't meet until the quarter-finals.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by ABC-TV.

Fairbanks High On Teamwork, Kicking Game

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Chuck Fairbanks had praise for his Oklahoma football team's cohesion and kicking after the second day of fall practice Tuesday.

"Our squad has been very attentive, and our sessions on teamwork have gone very well. I think we are laying a pretty good foundation. We are getting something done," he said.

Fairbanks also lauded punters John Carroll and Joe Wylie.

The team spent Tuesday's three practices on individual assignments and conditioning in addition ot the team drills.

Wildcats Undergo First Scrimmage

Gibson praised Tim McLane, 225-pound senior fullback, Norm Dubois, 224-pound senior defensive end, and Dennis Weinhold, 260-pound junior defensive lineman.

He also announced that Don Lareau, a 212-sophomore linebacker, had cracked a bone above his left ankle Monday and would miss about four weeks of action.

The Wildcats will work out today for members of the Big Eight Skywriters tour.

Crutcher Going Back To Green Bay Club

Green Bay, Wis. (AP) — Linebacker Tommy Joe Crutcher, an eight-year National Football League veteran who was on the Los Angeles Rams' taxi squad last season, was traded by the Rams Tuesday to the Green Bay Packers for an undisclosed draft choice.

Crutcher, a 6-foot-3, 230-pounder from Texas Christian, started his pro career with the Packers in 1964. After four years as a reserve with Gren Bay, he was traded to the New York Giants, where he was a regular for parts of the 1968 and 1969 seasons.

AAU Swim Event Begins In Houston

Houston (AP) — A dozen world records will be in jeopardy in the National AAU Outdoor Swimming Championships which start today.

After a two-day intermission, the meet follows the diving championships in the cool waters of the Glenbrook Golf Course pool.

There will be 15 events each for men and women in the competition which has attracted the greatest group of world class swimmers of 1971.

Any swimmer who makes the finals here will get a chance in the Olympic trials, which replace the national AAU meet on next year's swim calendar.

The AAU determines U.S. champions, but at least 12 other nations have entered one or more contestants.

They represent Brazil, Ecuador, Colombia, Mexico, Canada, Sweden, Japan, Australia, France, Spain, West Germany and Peru.

Top ranked among the women is Debbie Meyer who will defend championships in the 400-meter and 1,500-meter free-style events.

Miss Meyer, of the Arden Hills Swim Club in California, is the only swimmer who ever won three individual Olympic gold medals. She once owned four world records and five American records. In 1969, she won the Sullivan Award and The Associated Press Award as Woman Athlete of the Year.

Also highly ranked is Susie Atwood of the Lakewood Aquatic Club of Los Angeles. She won three gold medals in the 1970 nationals and captured high point honors. She opens defense of her championship in the 200-meter backstroke Wednesday. She also won the 100-meter backstroke and the 400-meter individual medley last year.

Alice Jones, affiliated with the Cincinnati Pepsi Marlins, is the favorite in the 100-meter and 200-meter butterfly events.

The No. two ranked swimmer among the men is Gary Hall, who swims for Phillips 66 in Long Beach, Calif. He was a triple winner in the Los Angeles meet last year, capturing the 200-meter butterfly and the 200-meter and 400-meter individual medleys. He was a silver medal winner in the 1968 Olympics.

Frank Heckl of the Los Angeles Aquatic Club is defending champion in the 100-meter free-style. He won six gold medals and one silver in the recent Pan-American Games.

No competitor will be permitted to enter more than four events here.

The meet will be computerized on a $35,000 scoreboard and an electric timing system. In addition, two chillers will fan 1-5 tons of air conditioning into the 50-meter pool, cooling the water to 78 degrees.

Seattle Enlists Heard, Clemens

Seattle (AP) — Guard Garfield Heard and forward Barry Clemens have signed to play with the Seattle SuperSonics for the 1971-72 season, the National Basketball Association club announced Tuesday.

Clemens, a six-year NBA veteran, and Heard, a second year player from Oklahoma, signed for undisclosed terms.

The team also reported that center Bob Rule has received a doctor's permission to scrimmage with the team. Rule, the Sonics' top scorer the previous two seasons, missed all but four games last year with a torn achilles tendon.

Oklahoma Heat Fails To Subdue OSU Workout

The quarterback battle continues between incumbent Tony Pounds and challengers Brent Blackman, Gene Nichol and Mike Robichaux. Even veteran flanker Dick Graham is being pushed by tall sophomore Ruben Gant, and two rookies, Tom Stremme, and Steve Pettes, are having a scrap at split end.

"Both the offense and defense are picking up adjustments in encouraging fashion," Gass added, "but we won't make any personnel adjustments until Thursday or Friday."

'KU's Defenders Show Progress'

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Coach Don Fambrough said he was much more pleased with Kansas defense after two football practices Tuesday than he was Monday.

"I'm as proud of the defense today as I was disappointed yesterday," the rookie head coach said, adding that defense is "No. 1 in our minds this year. It was the reason we had trouble last year."

Fambrough credited his two quarterbacks, senior Dan Heck and sophomore David Jaynes, for throwing the ball well.

He also announced two sophomores defensive halfbacks will be operated on and may miss the season. They are Denny Lantz of Atlantic, Iowa, who will undergo surgery on his left knee, and Alan McCoy of Shawnee Mission, Kan., who requires internal surgery.

Shrine Jobs Filled

San Francisco (AP) — Hayden Fry of Southern Methodist and Murray Warmath of Minnesota will be head coaches in the 1971 Shrine East-West football game Dec. 31 at Candlestick Park, directors announced Tuesday.

Martin Likes Job With Tigers

Martin, who was fired as manager by Minnesota Twins President Cal Griffith in 1969, took a fresh swipe Tuesday at his old boss.

Martin was quoted in a story from Detroit by Mike Lamey, sports writer for the Minneapolis Star.

"There was nobody sticking the knife in my back here," he said. "I didn't have to look over my shoulder. I don't have the petty problems here. It is the way it should be — the manager is the boss of the players."

The Twins had finished seventh in the West Division of the American League in 1968 under Cal Ermer, but Martin, in his first and only year, boosted them to first in 1969. They lost the playoffs in three straight to Baltimore. Griffith ousted him within a few weeks of the season's end, saying Martin didn't communicate well with him.

Martin was quoted Tuesday as saying Tigers General Manager Jim Campbell "is more than a general manager. He is a friend. He always has time to see me. And he doesn't take naps."

He was referring to Griffith's habit of taking a nap before a night game.

"How can you talk to a man who is always sleeping?" asked Martin.

Quarterback Job With Cowboys Up For Grabs

Dallas (AP)—Dallas coach Tom Landry, saying he is very much satisfied with the progress of his two quarterbacks, gave Roger Staubach the starting assignment Tuesday for Thursday's National Football League exhibition game at Houston.

Craig Morton played all the way in Dallas' 16-15 victory over Cleveland Friday in the battle for the Cowboy's No. 1 signal-calling job.

"Morton's finish made up for his inability to move the team earlier," said Landry. "He handled himself well under pressure — that's an important quality."

Morton put Dallas in position for the winning field goal against the Browns.

Outstate Offices To Sell Archers '71 Deer Permits

Archers may now purchase their 1971 deer permits in four outstate Nebraska communities, as well as at the Game and Parks Commission's central office in Lincoln.

The permits will be available at Game Commission district offices in Norfolk, Bassett, Alliance, and North Platte. Archery-antelope permits are also on sale at the Bassett and Alliance offices.

Archery permits may also be obtained by mail. Bow hunters should send a check or money order to cover the permit fee, along with a properly filled out application form to the Game and Parks Commission, Box 30370, Lincoln, Nebr. 68503. Permit fees are $10 for residents and $30 for nonresidents.

Big-game hunters may hold two antelope and two deer permits each year, both for firearm, both for archery, or one of each. There is no limit on the total number of archery permits that may be issued.

Nebraska's archery-antelope season runs from Aug. 21 through Oct. 31, with the exception of the firearm season, Sept. 25 through Oct. 3. The bow-and arrow deer season opens Sept. 18 and ends Dec. 31. It is also closed during the firearm season, Nov. 13 through 21.

Onofrio Pleased With Workout In Tiger Camp

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Missouri football coach Al Onofrio expressed satisfaction with Tuesday's drill saying, "I could not be happier with the effort."

Four players missed all or part of the practice. They were slotback Mike Fink, with a sore knee; defensive halfback Lorenzo Brinkley, sore leg, tailback Bruce Berry, sore foot, and running back Pete Buha, sore throat.

Onofrio praised the work of kicker Greg Hill and second-string slotback Chuck Link.

Browns Ask Waivers On Sooner Linebacker

Hiram, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns asked waivers Tuesday on three rookies — linebacker Steve Castell, center Leo Dillon and defensive end Jay Dixon — reducing their roster to 53.

Casteel was a 10th-round draft pick from Oklahoma, Dillon was a 17th-round choice from the University of Dayton and Dixon was a sixth-round choice from Boston University.

Raiders' Gridiron Lawyer Returns To Wars In Line

. . . MIX CAME BACK AFTER 18 MONTHS OF BOOKS

San Diego (AP) — Can a 33-year-old practicing attorney find happiness playing tackle beside Bob Brown for the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League.

Go to bed at "lights out" every night?

Keep up with husky youngsters after staying 18 months out of sports and deep in books?

Ron Mix admits he's not sure.

After a decade with the San Diego Chargers, Mix quit football to graduate from the University of San Diego School of Law with the idea of a career in politics. Then Al Davis talked him into returning to football.

He arrived in San Diego as football's "intellectual assassin" and gave Davis a qualified answer: "I'll start working out to see if I can get in good physical condition."

Meanwhile, he passed the California State Bar examination but agreed to go to the Raiders' camp where he was invited to share a tackle position with Brown, acquired in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams.

Mix, the all-pro, began to doubt his abilities.

"When you've been good at something for a long time, it's not pleasant when you get the feeling it has left you," he said.

"The first three weeks were pure torture both physically and mentally. All that contact is foreign to the human body. I didn't have the muscle tone for it. I was ready to bolt camp.

"I was asking myself 'what's a 33-year-old attorney doing here?'. I'd look around at all the young people, all those 18 and 19-year-old faces and I felt out of place.

"I reasoned it wouldn't be a world-shatterig experience if I wasn't successful. Then I realized I was doing something very dangerous. I was preparing myself for defeat. I told myself I had to change my attitude. I had to become more positive. That wasn't the turning point, but was a major factor . . ."

After surviving five weeks in the Raiders' physical conditioning camp. Mix thinks he can approach the level which he once hit.

"It's slow. Mr progress has been slow. I'm erratic. I lack consistency. Of course, I didn't expect an overnight miracle. Emotionally, though, that's what I wanted.

"The turning point came in our first preseason game with the Philadelphia Eagles. I played three periods, and I began to feel more comfortable.

"Now, even the curfew doesn't annoy me," says Mix, the aging attorney who will go to his room like the other boys when he has to.

Crowder Praises Keyworth, Davis

Boulder, Colo (AP) — The Colorado Buffaloes went through a 30-minute football scrimmage Tuesday morning, then switched to light gear in preparation for Saturday's first full scrimmage on Flosom Field's new artifical turf.

He also complimented the "rapid improvement" of 240-pound junior Chuck Mandril, a non-letterman who has switched from fullback to offensive guard.

Tom Bevans, a 228-pounder from suburban Denver, took over the top offensive center slot during Tuesday's workouts in the major shuffle of the day.

Morrissey Tied

Vandalia, Ohio (AP) — B. E. Morrissey of Omaha, Neb., and Dale Widener of Xenia, Ohio, tied Tuesday for honors in the Ohio Handicap, a portion of the Amateur Trapshooting Association's national competition. Morrissey shot from the 27-yard line and Widener from the 20.

Pirates Walk Plank As Braves Rap 21 Hits

. . . YANKS TURN VIDA BLUE WITH 1-0 SHUTOUT

By Associated Press

The Atlanta Braves gave Chief Nok-a-homa something to cheer about Tuesday night as they exploded for 11 runs in the first four innings and went on to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 15-5

Nok-a-homa, who resides in a tepee behind the left field fence at Atlanta home games, had three home runs to dance about in the Braves' 21-hit assault, including one by Hank Aaron — his 37th of the season and No. 629 lifetime.

Mike Lum and Marty Perez also cracked homers for Atlanta, which handed Pittsburgh its 21st loss in its last 32 games

In other National League games, Cincinnati edged the Chicago Cubs 5 4 in the only day contest, while San Francisco beat the New York Mets 3-2, San Diego topped Philadelphia 2-0, St Louis edged Houston 2-1 and Los Angeles whipped Montreal 6 4 in night contests

In American League games, all under the lights, Baltimore zipped the Chicago White Sox 1-0, Milwaukee edged Cleveland 6-5, Minnesota downed Detroit 3-1, Kansas City nipped Boston 5-4 in 13 innings, and New York topped Oakland and Vida Blue, 1-0.

Pete Rose pounded three doubles to spark the Reds against Ferguson Jenkins, 20-10, but it was Hal McRae's RBI single in the sixth which provided Cincinnati with its margin of victory Ernie Banks hit his 512th career home run in the fourth inning, tying him for seventh place on the all-time homer list with Ed Matthews

Juan Marichal hurled a five-hitter against the Mets, his fourth consecutive complete game, raising his record to 13-9 Ed Acosta, a 27-year-old right-hander making his first major league start, fired an eight-hit shutout for the Padres

Reliever Al Santorini got Doug Rader to hit into a game-ending double play with the potential tying run on third base to save St Louis' victory for Reggie Cleveland. The Dodgers erupted for five runs in the sixth inning to overpower Montreal, with Willie Davis' five hits sparking the attack.

Mike Cuellar hurled a four-hitter for the Orioles, raising his record to 16-6 The Brewers scored three runs in the sixth, then added three more in the seventh to defeat Cleveland Jim Perry's four-hitter stopped Detroit, while Gail Hopkins' bases-loaded single gave Kansas City its victory

Mel Stottlemyre hurled hitless ball for six innings and wound up with a three-hitter as the Yankees handed Blue his second straight 1-0 setback

Jim Spencer crashed a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning to back Clyde Wright's two-hitter as the California Angels stunned Washington and rookie Pete Broberg 2-1

Prices Soar Again In Stock Market

AP Business Writer

New York (AP) — Another big jump in stock prices Tuesday sent the Dow industrial average to its highest level in more than two months. Trading was very active.

The Dow average of 30 industrials rose 11.75 points to close at 904.13, the highest level for the blue-chip indicator since last June 17, when it closed at 906.25. Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 2 to 1.

The big advance was the second in a row for the market. On Monday the Dow industrial average rose 11.47 points. Analysts said the latest gain was simply an extension of the rally that started the day after President Nixon announced his new economic program.

Some analysts also attributed the advance partly to the relatively modest slippage of the dollar on foreign currency markets. The de facto devaluation was in response to the U.S. government's decision to let the dollar float relative to other currencies.

As in recent sessions, the biggest gainers were in the industries especially sensitive to the business cycle. Two of the most active Big Board issues, for example, were Bethlehem Steel, up 1⅜ at 27, and U.S. Steel, up 1⅝ at 33.

Savings and loan issues were also strong. In an effort to inject more funds into the housing market, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reduced minimum liquidity requirements for savings and loans institutions to 7% from 7½%.

Big Board volume rose sharply to 18.7 million shares from 13.05 million shares Monday.

Of the 1,709 issues traded on the Big Board, 997 advanced, and 449 declined. New yearly highs were reached by 91 issues and lows by 28.

The most-active Big Board issue was Amerada Hess, up 1⅜ at 58⅜ on a volume of 398,300 shares. A 360,000-share block of the stock-the largest of the session-traded at 57.

The number of blocks of 10,000 share or more traded on the Big Board rose to 119 from a revised 81 Monday.

Market indicators behaved as follows:

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.54 to 55.42. The American Stock Exchange index climbed .06 to 25.24, and Standard & Poor's 50-stock index rose 1.06 to 100.40.

The AP Industrial average was up 6.3, rails were up 3.4, and utilities were up .3.

Of the 1,154 issues traded on the American Stock Exchange, 476 advanced, and 427 declined. Amex volume rose Monday.

The most-active issue on the American Stock-Exchange, was Arkansas Louisiana Gas, unchanged at 28, on a volume of 245,000 shares.

Corporate bonds were lower, and governments were higher.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Economic Program Shows U.S. Ability To Use Muscle

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER
New Ingredient

The new ingredient in the international foreign exchange markets in the revised economic program is the demonstration to the rest of the world that the United States has muscle and the will to make use of it.

The dollar has been weak for too long, not so much because of technical factors but for the reason that the country had been habitually sending out more money than it was taking in from overseas. The balance of international payments deficit was enlarged this past year by the first lack of excess of U.S. exports over imports since 1893.

President Nixon suddenly moved in to take at least symbolic preliminary corrective steps. With imports increasing at an alarming rate, the President slapped a 10% additional tariff surcharge on foreign items. Secondly, recognizing the runaway labor and other costs at home were pricing numerous U.S. products out of world markets, the chief executive ordered a 90-day wage and price freeze. Thirdly, the President took the dollar's near-term fate out of the hands of foreigners—central bankers, governmental policymakers and speculators—by stopping the convertibility of the dollar into gold.

In his famous Sunday night telecast President Nixon said that the action was technical. This is correct, but in the long run the future promise of American life will not depend on devices invented by financial mechanics at revived Bretton Woods - type monetary conferences, but on whether Americans cut their garment according to their cloth.

Real Meaning

The real meaning of the change of program is the announcement to the world that the post-World War II regimen whereby the U.S. foots most of the bills for protection of the free world is over. To revive a post-World War I phrase, Uncle Sap is no longer an international soft touch. The gesture will have meaning if we insist that our allies, who have recovered from war hurts, bear a larger share of the load of free world defense in NATO the United Nations and elsewhere. The 10% foreign aid cut was intended to give reality to the new policy of protecting the dollar by avoiding overspending.

As a matter of fact, during the dollar crisis, it is questionable whether the U.S. should be subsidizing any foreign governments. If there are special situations, then the burden of proof should be on the free international spenders.

The big offender in causing the long term growing deficit in the U.S. balance of payments vis-a-vis the rest of the world has been the government. A giant step toward balancing out the situation can be taken in accelerating our exit under honorable circumstances from military intervention in Southeast Asia.

Showmanship requires polite negotiation with foreign nations and central banks regarding a new currency pact. However, it is now clear that the man on the street has been fooled since the end of World War I by the notion that international money conferences would produce stability even for spendthrifts. The truth is that sound money is related to production, trade and the disciplined use of the proceeds. It is sheer illusion that manipulation can save the world from the consequences of financial folly.

Obviously, the international balance of payments cannot be solved by a mere 90-day wage and price freeze, which might temporarily give a little stimulus to exports, while the 10% surcharge discourages imports. The great need is to make American goods competitive. This requires trying through domestic disciplines to stop the wage-price spiral.

With foreign competitors, especially Japan and West Germany, using the most sophisticated technology, we must undertake to get management and employes to cooperate in improving productivity. The use of new and better mechanized tools will be encouraged by the ten per cent tax incentive for manufacturers who buy labor-aiding machinery.

The dropping of the excise tax on autos will be a partial offset to high prices. The tax concession to individuals is not per se inflationary, particularly if accompanied by a pledge of a cut of $4.7 billion in governmental expenditures. The effect is to transfer the right to spend back to the taxpayer.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Repairs Aid Escape

Dublin (UPI) — Three men escaped from Mountjoy Prison by climbing up scaffolding left by workers repairing the 14 foot high wall, prison sources said. Other prisoners in the compound watched as the three, all serving short sentences, bolted up the scaffolding and scaled the wall.

Player Returns To U.S. For Match Play Event

. . . FIRST TOURNEY OF ITS KIND SINCE 1957

Pinehurst, N.C. (AP) — South African Gary Player makes his return to the American pro golf tour as one of the favorites in the $200,000 United States Professional Match Play championship.

The tournament, the first of its kind in the United States since 1957, begins a five-day run Wednesday on the demanding, 6,973-yard, par 72 Country Club of North Carolina course.

Player, who hasn't competed in this country in more than two months, is ranked third in the seedings behind Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer in the elite 64-man field competing for a $35,000 first prize.

The event is the brainchild of Joe Dey, commissioner of the PGA's Tournament Players Division. The format calls for man-to-man competition over 18 holes with winners to be determined on the basis of total strokes for the round, rather than on a hole-by-hole basis as in pure match play.

Single rounds of 18 holes each are scheduled Wednesday through Friday with half the field being eliminated each day. Two rounds — the quarterfinals and semifinals — are scheduled Saturday with the survivors meeting in Sunday's 18-hole final.

The field is made up all tour event winners from the last 12 months, plus the leaders off the official point list to a total of 64.

Among the missing, who were eligible, are Lee Trevino, Billy Casper and Jerry McGee. Trevino, the American, Canadian and British Open titleholder, and McGee are recovering from surgery. Casper, the 1970 PGA player of the year, is ill.

Nicklaus, winner of four events including the national PGA championship, is in the No. 1 position on the basis of his standing atop the official point list. He's the season's leading money winner at $205,568.

He heads the top half of the bracket in first round play and will be the first man off the tee in a match against former PGA champion Ray Floyd.

Palmer, third on the money list behind Trevino, is in the No. 2 spot and heads the lower half of the bracket. He will play Australian Bruce Devlin in his first round match.

Player goes against Romero Blancas and No. 4 Miller Barber takes on national seniors champ Julius Boros. Those top four are in different sections of the bracket and couldn't meet until the quarter-finals.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by ABC-TV.

Fairbanks High On Teamwork, Kicking Game

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Chuck Fairbanks had praise for his Oklahoma football team's cohesion and kicking after the second day of fall practice Tuesday.

"Our squad has been very attentive, and our sessions on teamwork have gone very well. I think we are laying a pretty good foundation. We are getting something done," he said.

Fairbanks also lauded punters John Carroll and Joe Wylie.

The team spent Tuesday's three practices on individual assignments and conditioning in addition ot the team drills.

Wildcats Undergo First Scrimmage

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — At the close of Kansas State's hour-long controlled football scrimmage Tuesday. Coach Vince Gibson would only say it was a "typical first scrimmage with a lot of mistakes."

Gibson praised Tim McLane, 225-pound senior fullback, Norm Dubois, 224-pound senior defensive end, and Dennis Weinhold, 260-pound junior defensive lineman.

He also announced that Don Lareau, a 212-sophomore linebacker, had cracked a bone above his left ankle Monday and would miss about four weeks of action.

The Wildcats will work out today for members of the Big Eight Skywriters tour.

Crutcher Going Back To Green Bay Club

Green Bay, Wis. (AP) — Linebacker Tommy Joe Crutcher, an eight-year National Football League veteran who was on the Los Angeles Rams' taxi squad last season, was traded by the Rams Tuesday to the Green Bay Packers for an undisclosed draft choice.

Crutcher, a 6-foot-3, 230-pounder from Texas Christian, started his pro career with the Packers in 1964. After four years as a reserve with Gren Bay, he was traded to the New York Giants, where he was a regular for parts of the 1968 and 1969 seasons.

Steelers' Bradshaw Out Of Hospital

Pittsburgh (AP) — Quarterback Terry Bradshaw of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who was cracked in the chin during the final quarter of the Steelers' 20-13 loss to Cincinnati Monday night, was released Tuesday from Divine Providence Hospital.

Bradshaw was injured on the final Steeler play of the game when he was hit by the elbow of Bengal tackle Johny Bergey.

Baton Rouge, La. (AP) — Rod Laver and Roy Emerson gained the finals of the $10,000 pro tennis tournament at Bocage Racquet Club here Tuesday.

Laver defeated Cliff Drysdale 6-4, 6-0, and Emerson ousted John Newcombe 6-2, 6-2.

AAU Swim Event Begins In Houston

Houston (AP) — A dozen world records will be in jeopardy in the National AAU Outdoor Swimming Championships which start today.

After a two-day intermission, the meet follows the diving championships in the cool waters of the Glenbrook Golf Course pool.

There will be 15 events each for men and women in the competition which has attracted the greatest group of world class swimmers of 1971.

Any swimmer who makes the finals here will get a chance in the Olympic trials, which replace the national AAU meet on next year's swim calendar.

The AAU determines U.S. champions, but at least 12 other nations have entered one or more contestants.

They represent Brazil, Ecuador, Colombia, Mexico, Canada, Sweden, Japan, Australia, France, Spain, West Germany and Peru.

Top ranked among the women is Debbie Meyer who will defend championships in the 400-meter and 1,500-meter free-style events.

Miss Meyer, of the Arden Hills Swim Club in California, is the only swimmer who ever won three individual Olympic gold medals. She once owned four world records and five American records. In 1969, she won the Sullivan Award and The Associated Press Award as Woman Athlete of the Year.

Also highly ranked is Susie Atwood of the Lakewood Aquatic Club of Los Angeles. She won three gold medals in the 1970 nationals and captured high point honors. She opens defense of her championship in the 200-meter backstroke Wednesday. She also won the 100-meter backstroke and the 400-meter individual medley last year.

Alice Jones, affiliated with the Cincinnati Pepsi Marlins, is the favorite in the 100-meter and 200-meter butterfly events.

The No. two ranked swimmer among the men is Gary Hall, who swims for Phillips 66 in Long Beach, Calif. He was a triple winner in the Los Angeles meet last year, capturing the 200-meter butterfly and the 200-meter and 400-meter individual medleys. He was a silver medal winner in the 1968 Olympics.

Frank Heckl of the Los Angeles Aquatic Club is defending champion in the 100-meter free-style. He won six gold medals and one silver in the recent Pan-American Games.

No competitor will be permitted to enter more than four events here.

The meet will be computerized on a $35,000 scoreboard and an electric timing system. In addition, two chillers will fan 1-5 tons of air conditioning into the 50-meter pool, cooling the water to 78 degrees.

Seattle Enlists Heard, Clemens

Seattle (AP) — Guard Garfield Heard and forward Barry Clemens have signed to play with the Seattle SuperSonics for the 1971-72 season, the National Basketball Association club announced Tuesday.

Clemens, a six-year NBA veteran, and Heard, a second year player from Oklahoma, signed for undisclosed terms.

The team also reported that center Bob Rule has received a doctor's permission to scrimmage with the team. Rule, the Sonics' top scorer the previous two seasons, missed all but four games last year with a torn achilles tendon.

Martin Likes Job With Tigers

Minneapolis (AP) — Manager Billy Martin of the Detroit Tigers says he is contented with his setup with the Tigers and doesn't have "petty problems" with the front office.

Martin, who was fired as manager by Minnesota Twins President Cal Griffith in 1969, took a fresh swipe Tuesday at his old boss.

Martin was quoted in a story from Detroit by Mike Lamey, sports writer for the Minneapolis Star.

"There was nobody sticking the knife in my back here," he said. "I didn't have to look over my shoulder. I don't have the petty problems here. It is the way it should be — the manager is the boss of the players."

The Twins had finished seventh in the West Division of the American League in 1968 under Cal Ermer, but Martin, in his first and only year, boosted them to first in 1969. They lost the playoffs in three straight to Baltimore. Griffith ousted him within a few weeks of the season's end, saying Martin didn't communicate well with him.

Martin was quoted Tuesday as saying Tigers General Manager Jim Campbell "is more than a general manager. He is a friend. He always has time to see me. And he doesn't take naps."

He was referring to Griffith's habit of taking a nap before a night game.

"How can you talk to a man who is always sleeping?" asked Martin.

Quarterback Job With Cowboys Up For Grabs

Dallas (AP)—Dallas coach Tom Landry, saying he is very much satisfied with the progress of his two quarterbacks, gave Roger Staubach the starting assignment Tuesday for Thursday's National Football League exhibition game at Houston.

Craig Morton played all the way in Dallas' 16-15 victory over Cleveland Friday in the battle for the Cowboy's No. 1 signal-calling job.

"Morton's finish made up for his inability to move the team earlier," said Landry. "He handled himself well under pressure — that's an important quality."

Morton put Dallas in position for the winning field goal against the Browns.

Oklahoma Heat Fails To Subdue OSU Workout

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — "We got heat in wholesale amounts today," Oklahoma State coach Floyd Gass said Tuesday after his football varsity hammered its way through a pair of tough workouts.

The quarterback battle continues between incumbent Tony Pounds and challengers Brent Blackman, Gene Nichol and Mike Robichaux. Even veteran flanker Dick Graham is being pushed by tall sophomore Ruben Gant, and two rookies, Tom Stremme, and Steve Pettes, are having a scrap at split end.

"Both the offense and defense are picking up adjustments in encouraging fashion," Gass added, "but we won't make any personnel adjustments until Thursday or Friday."

'KU's Defenders Show Progress'

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Coach Don Fambrough said he was much more pleased with Kansas defense after two football practices Tuesday than he was Monday.

"I'm as proud of the defense today as I was disappointed yesterday," the rookie head coach said, adding that defense is "No. 1 in our minds this year. It was the reason we had trouble last year."

Fambrough credited his two quarterbacks, senior Dan Heck and sophomore David Jaynes, for throwing the ball well.

He also announced two sophomores defensive halfbacks will be operated on and may miss the season. They are Denny Lantz of Atlantic, Iowa, who will undergo surgery on his left knee, and Alan McCoy of Shawnee Mission, Kan., who requires internal surgery.

Outstate Offices To Sell Archers '71 Deer Permits

Archers may now purchase their 1971 deer permits in four outstate Nebraska communities, as well as at the Game and Parks Commission's central office in Lincoln.

The permits will be available at Game Commission district offices in Norfolk, Bassett, Alliance, and North Platte. Archery-antelope permits are also on sale at the Bassett and Alliance offices.

Archery permits may also be obtained by mail. Bow hunters should send a check or money order to cover the permit fee, along with a properly filled out application form to the Game and Parks Commission, Box 30370, Lincoln, Nebr. 68503. Permit fees are $10 for residents and $30 for nonresidents.

Big-game hunters may hold two antelope and two deer permits each year, both for firearm, both for archery, or one of each. There is no limit on the total number of archery permits that may be issued.

Nebraska's archery-antelope season runs from Aug. 21 through Oct. 31, with the exception of the firearm season, Sept. 25 through Oct. 3. The bow-and arrow deer season opens Sept. 18 and ends Dec. 31. It is also closed during the firearm season, Nov. 13 through 21.

Onofrio Pleased With Workout In Tiger Camp

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Missouri football coach Al Onofrio expressed satisfaction with Tuesday's drill saying, "I could not be happier with the effort."

Four players missed all or part of the practice. They were slotback Mike Fink, with a sore knee; defensive halfback Lorenzo Brinkley, sore leg, tailback Bruce Berry, sore foot, and running back Pete Buha, sore throat.

Onofrio praised the work of kicker Greg Hill and second-string slotback Chuck Link.

The coach announced Saturday's scrimmage would consist of four 20 to 25-minute quarters between the first and second units.

Browns Ask Waivers On Sooner Linebacker

Hiram, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns asked waivers Tuesday on three rookies — linebacker Steve Castell, center Leo Dillon and defensive end Jay Dixon — reducing their roster to 53.

Casteel was a 10th-round draft pick from Oklahoma, Dillon was a 17th-round choice from the University of Dayton and Dixon was a sixth-round choice from Boston University.

Raiders' Gridiron Lawyer Returns To Wars In Line

. . . MIX CAME BACK AFTER 18 MONTHS OF BOOKS

San Diego (AP) — Can a 33-year-old practicing attorney find happiness playing tackle beside Bob Brown for the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League.

Go to bed at "lights out" every night?

Keep up with husky youngsters after staying 18 months out of sports and deep in books?

Ron Mix admits he's not sure.

After a decade with the San Diego Chargers, Mix quit football to graduate from the University of San Diego School of Law with the idea of a career in politics. Then Al Davis talked him into returning to football.

He arrived in San Diego as football's "intellectual assassin" and gave Davis a qualified answer: "I'll start working out to see if I can get in good physical condition."

Meanwhile, he passed the California State Bar examination but agreed to go to the Raiders' camp where he was invited to share a tackle position with Brown, acquired in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams.

Mix, the all-pro, began to doubt his abilities.

"When you've been good at something for a long time, it's not pleasant when you get the feeling it has left you," he said.

"The first three weeks were pure torture both physically and mentally. All that contact is foreign to the human body. I didn't have the muscle tone for it. I was ready to bolt camp.

"I was asking myself 'what's a 33-year-old attorney doing here?'. I'd look around at all the young people, all those 18 and 19-year-old faces and I felt out of place.

"I reasoned it wouldn't be a world-shatterig experience if I wasn't successful. Then I realized I was doing something very dangerous. I was preparing myself for defeat. I told myself I had to change my attitude. I had to become more positive. That was a major factor . . ."

After surviving five weeks in the Raiders' physical conditioning camp. Mix thinks he can approach the level which he once hit.

"It's slow. Mr progress has been slow. I'm erratic. I lack consistency. Of course, I didn't expect an overnight miracle. Emotionally, though, that's what I wanted.

"The turning point came in our first preseason game with the Philadelphia Eagles. I played three periods, and I began to feel more comfortable.

"Now, even the curfew doesn't annoy me," says Mix, the aging attorney who will go to his room like the other boys when he has to.

Crowder Praises Keyworth, Davis

Boulder, Colo (AP) — The Colorado Buffaloes went through a 30-minute football scrimmage Tuesday morning, then switched to light gear in preparation for Saturday's first full scrimmage on Flosom Field's new artifical turf.

He also complimented the "rapid improvement" of 240-pound junior Chuck Mandril, a non-letterman who has switched from fullback to offensive guard.

Tom Bevans, a 228-pounder from suburban Denver, took over the top offensive center slot during Tuesday's workouts in the major shuffle of the day.

Morrissey Tied

Vandalia, Ohio (AP) — B. E. Morrissey of Omaha, Neb., and Dale Widener of Xenia, Ohio, tied Tuesday for honors in the Ohio Handicap, a portion of the Amateur Trapshooting Association's national competition. Morrissey shot from the 27-yard line and Widener from the 20.

South Korean Officials See Economic Setback

. . . NIXON POLICY HIT

©The New York Times

Seoul, South Korea — South Korean government officials and private business leaders agreed Tuesday that President Nixon's dollar-defense policy would cause a substantial setback to the Korean economy, particularly to the country's ambitious export drive.

This was the conclusion of their discussions held at the economic planning board. As a result, they set up a joint committee to further assess the possible effects and work out measures to cope with them.

Participating in the conference were top officials of three government economic ministries, two state-run banks, the Korean traders Association, the Korea Chamber of Commerce and the Federation of Korean Industries.

They were particularly worried about an inevitable setback in South Korea's export goal of $670 million to the United States this year, which occupies one-half of the country's global export plan.

Officials of the Ministry of Commerce and Industry said that they tentatively estimated the anticipated loss in the exports to the United States for the rest of this year at $23 million and that 86% of South Korea's export goods would be affected by the surcharge.

The Traders Association reported that many American buyers were holding up on purchase contracts already concluded or were calling off negotiations which had been under way.

Although trade officials hope that South Korean products would gain a better competitive position in price over Japanese goods if Japan revalues the yen, they believe that production costs are bound to rise because the Korean export industry heavily relies on raw materials imported from Japan.

Already many Japanese companies are reportedly refusing to export their products to Korea for the time being. Some have raised dollar prices in their export quotations to Korea, trade sources said.

"If the current instability in the international monetary situation continues for a month, our country's exports would suffer a substantial degree of setback," said Kim Ip Sam, the vice president of the Federation of Korean Industries.

He added that the country's economy "depends absolutely on continued export increases."

Falls City Pair Bound Over On Rustling Charge

Falls City (AP) — Two Falls City brothers waived preliminary hearing and were bound over to Richardson County District Court on a charge of cattle stealing.

Patrick McIlvain, 27, and his brother, Thomas, 21, originally were charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of a 750-lb. Angus steer belonging to Ben Fritz.

The two were arrested by Falls City police officers, who said they found the pair slaughtering the steer.

Arraignment on the charge is scheduled Friday. The McIlvains are in jail in lieu of $1,000 bond each.

After an eight-week assignment in Comez Palacio, Mexico, working as a Red Cross first aid and home nursing instructor, Jill McMaster returned to Lincoln recently.

She was one of 31 volunteers with the Friendship Latin America program sponsored by the American Red Cross.

Miss McMaster, daughter of J. L. McMaster of 2421 Ryons, said she taught first aid and baby care to approximately 80 people. She trained 15 people to be first aid instructors and organized two Red Cross service organizations for youth.

The Friendship Latin American program began in 1966 and has since instructed more than 30,000 South and Central Americans in health and safety.

More than 1,500 native instructors have been trained to carry on the work.

Miss McMaster said she has been active in Red Cross ctivities since grade school.

She heard of the Friendship Latin America program in 1967 when the Lancaster County Red Cross chapter sponsored its first volunteer.

Attorney: Juan Corona May Die In Jail If He's Not Freed On Bail

Yuba City, Calif. (UPI) — The attorney for Juan V. Corona says his client may die in jail before a jury can decide whether he hacked and stabbed 25 farm workers to death.

Richard E. Hawk asked Monday that the 37-year-old former mental patient be freed on reasonable bail and that Corona's trial be moved to another town because impartial proceedings were "impossible" in this agriculture community.

"I think a long period of incarceration will kill him," Hawk said.

"This is not a grandstand play. I'm really concerned about Juan."

After filing his two motions with the Sutter County Superior Court clerk, Hawk told newsmen the farm labor contractor has lost 30 to 35 pounds since being jailed May 26, has not been allowed to see his four children and has been harmed mentally.

Corona is being held in a room at Sutter General Hospital, where he is under treatment after suffering two slight heart attacks.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said he is not aware of any special concern by doctors about the suspect's general condition.

He said Corona is provided a television set, newspapers, magazines and writing materials.

If Corona is released on bail, Hawk said he would take him out of the county because of threatening telephone calls which have been received by undisclosed persons.

The attorney would not elaborate on the nature of the calls but said he might take Corona to Hawk's home in Concord, Calif., if necessary.

Pending a decision on bail, the lawyer asked that Corona's wife and children be allowed to visit him three times a week for one hour instead of the current one-hour, once weekly visits by his wife.

Hawk said he did not think a fair jury could be selected in Yuba City and the case should be moved to a metropolitan area, possibly San Francisco or Alameda County.

Judge John G. Hauck is scheduled to hear the bail motion Aug. 30, the same date Hawk is to appear in court to determine whether he violated a court-ordered gag rule in the case.

The change of venue motion is scheduled for Sept. 8, and the trial itself is set for Oct. 5 but is expected to be delayed considerably beyond that date.

Lincoln Man, 22, Breaks Ankle In Cycle Mishap

A Lincoln man was listed in good condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident on Randolph between 53rd and 55th Tuesday night, police said.

Police said Marshall Tracey, 22, of 5448 Ervin, suffered a broken right ankle when the motorcycle he was riding was in collision with a car parked in a driveway at 5340 Randolph.

Police said Tracey had been westbound on Randolph when he left the roadway in an attempt to avoid colliding with a car turning left in front of him.

Funds Withheld

Baton Rouge, La. (UPI) — Gov. John McKeithen said he would not approve any state funds to help Louisiana school districts follow court-ordered busing to achieve racial balance in classrooms. "So far as I am concerned," McKeithen said in telegrams to all parish and city school superintendents, "the federal judges responsible for this un-American decision (busing) can furnish the money for its application themselves."

Prices Soar Again In Stock Market

AP Business Writer

New York (AP) — Another big jump in stock prices Tuesday sent the Dow industrial average to its highest level in more than two months. Trading was very active.

The Dow average of 30 industrials rose 11.75 points to close at 904.13, the highest level for the blue-chip indicator since last June 17, when it closed at 906.25. Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 2 to 1.

The big advance was the second in a row for the market. On Monday the Dow industrial average rose 11.47 points. Analysts said the latest gain was simply an extension of the rally that started the day after President Nixon announced his new economic program.

Some analysts also attributed the advance partly to the relatively modest slippage of the dollar on foreign currency markets. The de facto devaluation was in response to the U.S. government's decision to let the dollar float relative to other currencies.

As in recent sessions, the biggest gainers were in the industries especially sensitive to the business cycle. Two of the most active Big Board issues, for example, were Bethlehem Steel, up 1⅞ at 27, and U.S. Steel, up 1⅝ at 33.

Savings and loan issues were also strong. In an effort to inject more funds into the housing market, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reduced minimum liquidity requirements for savings and loans institutions to 7% from 7½%.

Big Board volume rose sharply to 18.7 million shares from 13.05 million shares Monday.

Of the 1,709 issues traded on the Big Board, 997 advanced, and 449 declined. New yearly highs were reached by 91 issues and lows by 28.

The most-active Big Board issue was Amerada Hess, up 1⅜ at 58⅜ on a volume of 398,300 shares. A 360,000-share block of the stock-the largest of the sesion-traded at 57.

The number of blocks of 10,000 share or more traded on the Big Board rose to 119 from a revised 81 Monday.

Market indicators behaved as follows:

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.54 to 55.42. The American Stock Exchange index climbed .06 to 25.24, and Standard & Poor's 50-stock index rose 1.06 to 100.40.

The AP Industrial average was up 6.3, rails were up 3.4, and utilities were up .3.

Of the 1,154 issues traded on the American Stock Exchange, 476 advanced, and 427 declined. Amex volume rose Monday.

The most-active issue on the American Stock-Exchange, was Arkansas Louisiana Gas, unchanged at 28, on a volume of 245,000 shares.

Corporate bonds were lower, and governments were higher.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Economic Program Shows U.S. Ability To Use Muscle

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER
New Ingredient

The new ingredient in the international foreign exchange markets in the revised economic program is the demonstration to the rest of the world that the United States has muscle and the will to make use of it.

The dollar has been weak for too long, not so much because of technical factors but for the reason that the country had been habitually sending out more money than it was taking in from overseas. The balance of international payments deficit was enlarged this past year by the first lack of excess of U.S. exports over imports since 1893.

President Nixon suddenly moved in to take at least symbolic preliminary corrective steps. With imports increasing at an alarming rate, the President slapped a 10% additional tariff surcharge on foreign items. Secondly, recognizing the runaway labor and other costs at home were pricing numerous U.S. products out of world markets, the chief executive ordered a 90-day wage and price freeze. Thirdly, the President took the dollar's near-term fate out of the hands of foreigners—central bankers, governmental policymakers and speculators—by stopping the convertibility of the dollar into gold.

In his famous Sunday night telecast President Nixon said that the action was technical. This is correct, but in the long run the future promise of American life will not depend on devices invented by financial mechanics at revived Bretton Woods - type monetary conferences, but on whether Americans cut their garment according to their cloth.

Real Meaning

The real meaning of the change of program is the announcement to the world that the post-World War II regimen whereby the U.S. foots most of the bills for protection of the free world is over. To revive a post-World War I phrase, Uncle Sap is no longer an international soft touch. The gesture will have meaning if we insist that our allies, who have recovered from war hurts, bear a larger share of the load of free world defense in NATO the United Nations and elsewhere. The 10% foreign aid cut was intended to give reality to the new policy of protecting the dollar by avoiding overspending.

As a matter of fact, during the dollar crisis, it is questionable whether the U.S. should be subsidizing any foreign governments. If there are special situations, then the burden of proof should be on the free international spenders.

The big offender in causing the long term growing deficit in the U.S. balance of payments vis-a-vis the rest of the world has been the government. A giant step toward balancing out the situation can be taken in accelerating our exit under honorable circumstances from military intervention in Southeast Asia.

Showmanship requires polite negotiation with foreign nations and central banks regarding a new currency pact. However, it is now clear that the man on the street has been fooled since the end of World War I by the notion that international money conferences would produce stability even for spendthrifts. The truth is that sound money is related to production, trade and the disciplined use of the proceeds. It is sheer illusion that manipulation can save the world from the consequences of financial folly.

Obviously, the international balance of payments cannot be solved by a mere 90-day wage and price freeze, which might temporarily give a little stimulus to exports, while the 10% surcharge discourages imports. The great need is to make American goods competitive. This requires trying through domestic disciplines to stop the wage-price spiral.

With foreign competitors, especially Japan and West Germany, using the most sophisticated technology, we must undertake to get management and employes to cooperate in improving productivity. The use of new and better mechanized tools will be encouraged by the ten per cent tax incentive for manufacturers who buy labor-aiding machinery.

The dropping of the excise tax on autos will be a partial offset to high prices. The tax concession to individuals is not per se inflationary, particularly if accompanied by a pledge of a cut of $4.7 billion in governmental expenditures. The effect is to transfer the right to spend back to the taxpayer.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

South Korean Officials See Economic Setback

. . . NIXON POLICY HIT

©The New York Times

Seoul, South Korea — South Korean government officials and private business leaders agreed Tuesday that President Nixon's dollar-defense policy would cause a substantial setback to the Korean economy, particularly to the country's ambitious export drive.

This was the conclusion of their discussions held at the economic planning board. As a result, they set up a joint committee to further assess the possible effects and work out measures to cope with them.

Participating in the conference were top officials of three government economic ministries, two state-run banks, the Korean traders Association, the Korea Chamber of Commerce and the Federation of Korean Industries.

They were particularly worried about an inevitable setback in South Korea's export goal of $670 million to the United States this year, which occupies one-half of the country's global export plan.

Officials of the Ministry of Commerce and Industry said that they tentatively estimated the anticipated loss in the exports to the United States for the rest of this year at $23 million and that 86% of South Korea's export goods would be affected by the surcharge.

The Traders Association reported that many American buyers were holding up on purchase contracts already concluded or were calling off negotiations which had been under way.

Although trade officials hope that South Korean products would gain a better competitive position in price over Japanese goods if Japan revalues the yen, they believe that production costs are bound to rise because the Korean export industry heavily relies on raw materials imported from Japan.

Already many Japanese companies are reportedly refusing to export their products to Korea for the time being. Some have raised dollar prices in their export quotations to Korea, trade sources said.

"If the current instability in the international monetary situation continues for a month, our country's exports would suffer a substantial degree of setback," said Kim Ip Sam, the vice president of the Federation of Korean Industries.

He added that the country's economy "depends absolutely on continued export increases."

Falls City Pair Bound Over On Rustling Charge

Falls City (AP) — Two Falls City brothers waived preliminary hearing and were bound over to Richardson County District Court on a charge of cattle stealing.

Patrick McIlvain, 27, and his brother, Thomas, 21, originally were charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of a 750-lb. Angus steer belonging to Ben Fritz.

The two were arrested by Falls City police officers, who said they found the pair slaughtering the steer.

Arraignment on the charge is scheduled Friday. The McIlvains are in jail in lieu of $1,000 bond each.

Girl Returns After Work In Mexico

After an eight-week assignment in Comez Palacio, Mexico, working as a Red Cross first aid and home nursing instructor, Jill McMaster returned to Lincoln recently.

She was one of 31 volunteers with the Friendship Latin America program sponsored by the American Red Cross.

Miss McMaster, daughter of J. L. McMaster of 2421 Ryons, said she taught first aid and baby care to approximately 80 people. She trained 15 people to be first aid instructors and organized two Red Cross service organizations for youth.

The Friendship Latin American program began in 1966 and has since instructed more than 30,000 South and Central Americans in health and safety.

More than 1,500 native instructors have been trained to carry on the work.

Miss McMaster said she has been active in Red Cross ctivities since grade school.

She heard of the Friendship Latin America program in 1967 when the Lancaster County Red Cross chapter sponsored its first volunteer.

A senior majoring in history and political science at the University of Nebraska, Miss McMaster is president of the NU Red Cross chapter.

Attorney: Juan Corona May Die In Jail If He's Not Freed On Bail

Yuba City, Calif. (UPI) — The attorney for Juan V. Corona says his client may die in jail before a jury can decide whether he hacked and stabbed 25 farm workers to death.

Richard E. Hawk asked Monday that the 37-year-old former mental patient be freed on reasonable bail and that Corona's trial be moved to another town because impartial proceedings were "impossible" in this agriculture community.

"I think a long period of incarceration will kill him," Hawk said.

"This is not a grandstand play. I'm really concerned about Juan."

After filing his two motions with the Sutter County Superior Court clerk, Hawk told newsmen the farm labor contractor has lost 30 to 35 pounds since being jailed May 26, has not been allowed to see his four children and has been harmed mentally.

Corona is being held in a room at Sutter General Hospital, where he is under treatment after suffering two slight heart attacks.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said he is not aware of any special concern by doctors about the suspect's general condition.

He said Corona is provided a television set, newspapers, magazines and writing materials.

If Corona is released on bail, Hawk said he would take him out of the county because of threatening telephone calls which have been received by undisclosed persons.

The attorney would not elaborate on the nature of the calls but said he might take Corona to Hawk's home in Concord, Calif., if necessary.

Pending a decision on bail, the lawyer asked that Corona's wife and children be allowed to visit him three times a week for one hour instead of the current one-hour, once weekly visits by his wife.

Hawk said he did not think a fair jury could be selected in Yuba City and the case should be moved to a metropolitan area, possibly San Francisco or Alameda County.

Judge John G. Hauck is scheduled to hear the bail motion Aug. 30, the same date Hawk is to appear in court to determine whether he violated a court-ordered gag rule in the case.

The change of venue motion is scheduled for Sept. 8, and the trial itself is set for Oct. 5 but is expected to be delayed considerably beyond that date.

Norfolk Driver Dies In Accident

Hadar (AP)—Leo C. Raduechel, 56, of Norfolk, was killed late Monday night in a one-car accident on a county road about two miles southwest of here.

The State Patrol said his southbound car apparently went out of control, went off a bridge and into dry creek bed.

Lincoln Man, 22, Breaks Ankle In Cycle Mishap

A Lincoln man was listed in good condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident on Randolph between 53rd and 55th Tuesday night, police said.

Police said Marshall Tracey, 22, of 5448 Ervin, suffered a broken right ankle when the motorcycle he was riding was in collision with a car parked in a driveway at 5340 Randolph.

Police said Tracey had been westbound on Randolph when he left the roadway in an attempt to avoid colliding with a car turning left in front of him.

Funds Withheld

Baton Rouge, La. (UPI) — Gov. John McKeithen said he would not approve any state funds to help Louisiana school districts follow court-ordered busing to achieve racial balance in classrooms. "So far as I am concerned," McKeithen said in telegrams to all parish and city school superintendents, "the federal judges responsible for this un-American decision (busing) can furnish the money for its application themselves."

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
